NEIL KEENAN UPDATE | Labor Day Message –By Jeremiah O’Gorman
From Neil Keenan

January 27, 2013

My brothers and sisters,

A glorious and grateful Labor Day to us all. Lest we forget, let us honor, remember, and thank those who have made this the greatest country in the world and in history.

I do not mean Astor, Carnegie, Cooke, Drew, Duke, Fisk, Flagler, Frick, Gates, Gould, Harriman, Hill, Hinde, Hopkins, Mellon, Morgan, Osgood, Plant, Rockefeller, Schwab, Seligman, Spreckels, Vanderbilt, Yerkes, Gekko, and their sycophant wannabes.

Their perfidy is matched only by their greed. May their money, evil example, and legacies rot as their consciences did and be buried with their false promises, influence, and decaying bones!

I refer to our parents and our ancestors. I refer to the countless thousands of immigrants and slaves, who gave their sweat, blood and lives in return for almost nothing, except to give us an education, opportunities, and a better life.

May today's money changers, profiteers, influence peddlers, carpetbaggers, snake oil salesmen, and leeches be driven out once again. May the Potomac, the Hudson and the Seven Seas part long enough for our children to escape the renewed bondage and exploitation.

May the waters then engulf those spiritual traitors along with their avarice, mean spirits, and intolerance. May the vultures feed on the hatred, fear, lies and misinformation that they spread before they contaminate another innocent generation.

Allow me to repeat a treasured story. When my father came here from Ireland, the only job he could get was on a bucket brigade, emptying cesspools and sewers. The new man was assigned to the bottom and would fill the bucket and pass it up the line. He would move up the line and out of the hole by attrition and seniority.

My father never accepted a promotion and stayed at the bottom the entire time he was on that job. When I asked his friends why that was so, I was told, "Son, your father took shit from no man." How special, great, and cool is that example!

A country's greatness is not judged by how many billionaires it has, but by how the elderly, sick, and poor are treated. Our goal should not be to get more and more for ourselves, but to make sure all have enough.

I know my immigrant parents have been greeted with the words of Matthew 11:28, "Come to me, all you who labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest." May we follow their example, make this a better world for all who cross our path, and hear those special words when our time has come.

Today and every day I am a grateful American. Grateful to my parents and all those who labored so long and hard so I could write these words to you. Thank you, Daddy. Thank you, Mommy. I will not betray your efforts or dreams.

In love and thanks,

Jeremiah O'Gorman
Jeremiah 29:11-13

When Neil Keenan was asked who Jeremiah O'Gorman is, this was his response:

He is just a friend of the boys from Pleasant View... This is where we all grew up with many of us becoming very successful. So, Hurray for our boys and our dads and all the dads out there who did not take any crap.

We are our fathers' sons and of the same blood and desire and guess what, we don't take anyone's crap either. This is how we grew up and it is the Pleasant View boys and many, both men and women, like us who are making this upheaval possible.

Courageous souls who pour out their hearts in grief yet fight like Gabriel himself.

Stand up or Stand down, this is how such people look at matters—and this is why others shy away. Standing down is easier for now, but if there ever is a final moment, they will find that right before losing their heads, they will wonder through their sniveling why they never stood up and fought. NEIL KEENAN UPDATE | On The Ground In Indonesia: Regarding The Global Accounts

March 9, 2013

For those wondering if Neil Keenan is for real, the answer is 'yes.' For the many thousands (contacts in the agencies say millions) who viewed our video message "Neil Keenan – The Changing of the Guard" and have asked 'what happened to the Christmas Announcement?', I can only say that I now see our Irish Santa Claus on a daily basis, and will ask you to kindly remember that on the video he told us "we may have an announcement by Christmas..." (and also to recall that the Irish prefer to celebrate on St. Patrick's Day).

I have learned that Mr. Keenan is careful with his words, and avoids false promises. Many more pieces have fallen into place since that time. Neil has solidified his alliances with major stakeholders of the assets in the Accounts, and has laid the groundwork necessary for forward action – not only to implement debt relief for the stricken nations of Europe, but to move forward with global humanitarian projects once the Accounts have been audited and set in order.

Conversations with key figures in the Chinese leadership are progressing well. It has been established that eighty-five per cent of the assets in the Global Accounts belong to China through the Qing Dynasty. Other stakeholders including Greece, Ireland, and Spain are also now seeking Mr. Keenan's help. A representative from South Korea has been here with us in Jakarta, regarding future handling of Global Account assets in that country.

Having been in Jakarta for many days now, working with Neil Keenan and his allies as this great action moves forward, I can tell you he is determined not to be one of those who is constantly posting teaser updates about imminent events. When Neil has something to say, it will be about hard news and real actions.

It is easy to get impatient sitting by one's computer, waiting for the great shift to happen. I know, as for the last two years I spent many hours doing just that, as I studied the history and the issues, and took the first steps on the strange path that led me to Jakarta. It is even easier (perhaps) to play arm-chair general, and eagerly pass on second-hand information from third-hand buddies with unidentified sources who quote secret contacts who are in touch with even more secret contacts who know things that only God and the saints have whispered to them alone.

We all know that the web is buzzing with such dubious reports. Some of it may be malicious. Some of it may be deliberate disinformation from the opposition. I suspect that most of it is from well-meaning people who are desperately trying to keep hope alive, and to play what part they can.

It is a very different thing to be here on the ground, dealing with a thousand obstacles and issues (not the least of which are Jakarta traffic jams), witnessing first-hand what Neil Keenan's ceaseless battle has been like these last few years. I can tell you that he has been offered many tempting and seemingly easy ways out since this began.

Massive bribes, tainted funding, compromised allies...he could have taken these roads easily a long time ago. But fortunately for all of us, he happens to be exactly the blend of tough fighter, straight shooter, and instinctively compassionate guy needed at this time – a man whose sense of fair play has been deeply offended by what he's learned of the oligarchy's crimes in regard to the Accounts, and who is as appalled as any of us regarding the cabal's depopulation agenda. "Sure, I could walk away," he told me recently, "but what's the point if we all end up dead from these people?"

The delay since Christmas was necessary in order to proceed in the right way – a way forward that would not simply put in place a new set of greedy overlords. A key ally on the ground in Indonesia – someone trusted by the Elders and loyal to Mr. Keenan – had been trapped by certain persons who were trying to steal some of the assets in the Accounts, and was set up to be falsely charged for his legitimate custodianship of certain notes.

The right way forward that Neil had fought to create has been blocked for many months until Mr. Martha Wibawa (known as "Nelu") could be freed. Loyalty both to his friend Nelu, and to the integrity of the Accounts, required that Neil work to free Nelu, and to see that the truth was told in court regarding the entrapment and attempted theft.

I was present in court with Neil Keenan on March 7th here in Jakarta as Nelu's final sentencing hearing began, with Keenan's strong statement in defense of Nelu having been translated into Bahasa Indonesian and submitted to the panel of three judges hearing the case. The judges gave every appearance of careful and compassionate wisdom in their treatment of the case as Nelu calmly and with great concentration read aloud his prepared statement describing his role and actions regarding the notes he had been carrying.

At one point he was overcome by emotion and had to pause to compose himself as his young wife quietly sobbed a few feet away as he told his story. Keenan's statement described Nelu as a modest young man sincerely motivated by love of family and country, and it would seem that the judges perceive this as well. As Nelu's testimony ended, Mr. Keenan was like a restless horse at my side in his eagerness to make his own statement for the court. At which point the hearing abruptly ended, as the chief judge gently tapped his gavel and rose to leave, with the hearing suddenly given a continuance until the following week.

Neil Keenan, as you may have heard and as I can testify, is not afraid to let his Irish temper loose when the occasion warrants it. Two of the judges had left quickly, but Neil rose to give the third judge a piece of his mind.

I confess I was wincing in apprehension as our Celtic Tiger began to roar, but the judge seemed open to hearing what Neil was saying (well, to be honest, he was yelling, but just shy of what you might call “disturbing the peace.”).

Keenan knew, however, that the crux of the case rested on the legitimacy of the notes in question, and that the judges needed to know (as indeed the world needs to know) how governments and banks allied with the cabal have played fast and loose with the Accounts for decades, seizing legitimate notes via false claims of counterfeiting, in order to then destroy them so as to avoid paying the required interest owed.

We have since learned that at the final hearing on March 13th Neil Keenan will be given a chance to speak, and we understand that a decision will be announced regarding our friend Nelu.

The prayers of all those who want to see the wealth of the world begin to benefit the people of the world will be needed, as we look hopefully for a positive outcome, which we will quickly share with you as it occurs.

Meantime, other global pieces continue to fall into place. Here in Jakarta, I will do my best to tell you only what I have seen with my own eyes.

No second hand “intel,” no spicy rumors – just the day’s events, as we fight for the dreams of 2012 here in the hard reality of 2013.

NEIL KEENAN UPDATE | Setting The Record Straight After Security Breach And Extortion Attempt In Jakarta

March 11, 2013

As we prepare for Neil Keenan's appearance in court on behalf of Mr. Martha Wibawa, it is not unreasonable to expect a counter-attack from those whose interests are threatened by Keenan's work. In this instance, the attack came from an old source by a predictable method. Keith Scott, who set up Mr. Wibawa to be charged with counterfeiting for his legitimate custodianship of Global Account notes, fed false information to a member of Mr. Keenan's security team, leading to an extortion attempt against Keenan.

The extortion attempt is documented in an e-mail, which cannot be refuted. It is a pity to have to take time and energy away from Keenan's work at this time to deal with a petty attack of this nature, but Neil has never been one to sit back on defense, waiting to get hit, when a strong offensive can put the attacker on his heels....especially when the truth is on his side, as it is in this case.

Mr. Scott took this action presumably in an attempt to damage Keenan's work with the Global Collateral Accounts, which Scott previously attempted (unsuccessfully) to manipulate. Mr. Scott has virtually no hope of accomplishing this aim, for two reasons: his own badly damaged credibility, and the irreproachable manner in which Mr. Keenan has handled the Accounts, which has earned him allies around the world.

Mr. Keenan's auditor, who has traveled to Indonesia to be on hand to assist in review of the Global Account assets located here, observed that Keenan's bodyguard was secretly communicating with Keith Scott via e-mail (Scott had been living illegally in Indonesia for nearly a year, after Mr. Keenan discovered his pattern of deception in dealing with the Global Collateral Accounts, and severed the relationship). The auditor (who for security reasons we will not name at this time) was alarmed enough to draw the bodyguard into further conversation.

We subsequently learned that the bodyguard was secretly recording conversations among Keenan's team here in Jakarta – presumably at Mr. Scott's behest – in an attempt to blackmail Neil Keenan. Keenan trusted this bodyguard, and it is unfortunate that Scott was able to infiltrate our team in this way. As it became apparent that Keenan's security was being neglected (he made his appearance in court last week accompanied only by myself and our Korean colleague – which was probably the most vulnerable moment so far), the bodyguard abruptly returned to Europe, citing a family emergency.

Upon the bodyguard's return to Europe, Keenan received a Skype message and then an e-mail from him, demanding payment of 50,000 euros within seven days, or he would go public with the following charges: That Mr. Wibawa has been charged, not with counterfeiting, but with possession of drugs; That Mr. Keenan has a wife and child in the Dominican Republic, whom he subsequently abandoned; That this writer was aware of the alleged drug charge when our recent update described Mr. Wibawa's case, implying that we are deceiving the public.

These allegations are so easily refuted that we considered not responding to them at all. But Neil decided that it is always better to move aggressively in advance of a threatened attack – particularly at this sensitive juncture, when Mr. Wibawa's freedom is at stake. The charge against Mr. Wibawa (which we have good reason to hope will be dismissed) is under Indonesian legal code 245, which denotes a currency issue. There is no drug charge against him. This is easily documented, as the case is public record.

It's true that a small number of drugs (presumably for personal use) were found on the person of Mr. Mulyadi, who was with Mr. Wibawa at the time of the arrest, but no such charge was brought in that case either. I clarified my understanding of that fact when I arrived in Jakarta, as neither Neil nor myself would put our reputations on the line to defend a drug dealer, especially given the enormous importance of on a global scale.

Neither the credibility of the bodyguard, nor that of Keith Scott, is sufficient to expect that this story would have gained widespread attention. But we are not about to let anything distract from the forward movement of the Global Accounts work at this delicate time, and so we are bringing the facts out now, both for the sake of Mr. Keenan's reputation, and to protect Mr. Wibawa's prospects for release. Mr. Keenan is forwarding the extortion documentation to his lawyers as he considers whether any further action is warranted.

As to Mr. Keenan having an unacknowledged child in Santo Domingo, he assures me this story is untrue. He was, however, somewhat miffed at the low estimate of the fine Irish genes he may have offered the world in his wild young days. "What? Only one? There should be hundreds!" You really had to have been in the room to hear Keenan's wicked chuckle (and to see the merry gleam in his eye) as he delivered that line, to be able to appreciate the implications.

NEIL KEENAN UPDATE | Global Accounts Update: Progress In Jakarta As Keenan Goes To Court

March 14, 2013

As this journal unfolds day by day, I begin to see that these posts are a blend: there is the Michael Dunn version of the day's events, wherein I do my best to provide a balance of dramatic personal narrative and journalistic objectivity, and then there is the Neil Keenan version, which tends to be hard-hitting, spicy, and requires me to delete more than a few expletives.

Here's the deal, folks: it's bad boy and choir boy, and you'll find a bit of both in here. I run the draft past Neil and then we kick it around. This time, in the wake of our crucial day in court, it went something like this:

NEIL: "Serious security issue? C'mon, Michael, they tried to put out a hit on us – just say it!"

MICHAEL: "OK, we can go with that, I guess."

NEIL: And what's this where you say "the threat was neutralized"? I called my friends at the top and the bad guys were told they'd have their throats slit if anybody on our team was touched. Put that in there, cause that's what they were told.

MICHAEL: Wow...that's really what they said?

NEIL: Yes, and my friends in that world don't kid around...and we want people to know that.

So, yes, friends, that is one aspect of the work here. The world being what it is, we can often measure our success by how quickly the opposition strikes back. No sooner did our last bulletin hit the web than a "serious security threat" emerged on the eve of Mr. Keenan's scheduled court appearance on behalf of our friend Nelu.

One of the assets that destiny seems to have provided Neil Keenan to aid him in this fight for the freedom of the Global Accounts is a network of powerful friends who hold him in high regard, and who are willing to defend him when necessary. Yesterday it became necessary, and those friends came through for him, and the "threat has been neutralized" as one might say. Our team proceeded to court confident but wary, and our safety was undisturbed.

The security breach revealed in our last post has led Mr. Keenan to bring in Irish security, which certainly feels like a good move. The day in court yielded mixed results. It seems clear that the judges were impressed with Mr. Keenan's statement (which had been integrated into the record), and they ruled that Mr. Martha Wibawa (called Nelu) should be freed, based on time served.

Unfortunately, Indonesian law permits the prosecutor to object to the sentence, which the prosecutor did at the last moment, for reasons unknown to us. An appeal will be ruled on swiftly in the next few days, and our hopes remain high that Nelu will soon be with us. Another bright spot for Nelu's family is the unexpected leniency shown by the court for Mr. Mulyadi, Nelu's father-in-law, who may also soon be free.

The reprise of the Celtic Tiger's roar (which our team was highly anticipating) did not, unfortunately take place. Neil was ready to speak at length in court, and had been told an opportunity would be given. In the event, however, given the nature of the ruling, the case was essentially complete when we walked in, and it soon became apparent that the judges might have wished to spare themselves the ordeal of a fiery Neil Keenan lecture, fearful, it may be, of the global scope of the issues that might be raised in their court.

In the meantime, opportunities have arisen for immediate forward movement, without delay, in putting the Global Accounts to work for the world, regardless of the outcome of Nelu's case. Neil remains focused on the freedom of his friend, however, and we are confident that Nelu will soon be back with his family, and resuming his important work with the Accounts. We will, of course, keep you updated on the progress of the Accounts as details emerge.

Conversations continue with the Qing Dynasty regarding China's majority assets in the Global Accounts, and the Empress has requested Mr. Keenan's assistance in overseeing the accounts on the Dynasty's behalf. We have learned that the Empress can be both strong and compassionate, as plans are in place to make donations throughout the world, both East and West, in some cases to fund needed infrastructure, and, in others, direct aid, such as a planned substantial donation in Mr. Keenan's name to Indonesia.

Much work remains to be done, but it is clear that the Asian nations long dominated and abused by the Western banking oligarchy are reclaiming their heritage. Their freedom means freedom for the planet as well, as we work together to dissolve the old artificial barriers – barriers erected and maintained by the cabal to keep us divided, lest we unite against them.

This morning at breakfast with Neil, I found an English-language magazine on Jakarta nightlife and happened upon an eye-catching article – “St. Patrick's Day in Jakarta!” Given the glad turn of events – blessed, no doubt, by the prayers of many friends around the world – it is safe to say that Jakarta's Blarney Stone Pub will be the site of many a song and jig this Sunday, as the Irish celebrate around the world, and our team kicks back with some pints of Guinness, and toasts to the victory of the good fight. By the way, that's the Michael Dunn version.

The Keenan version goes: “tell them St. Patrick's Day starts at 9 a.m. and we go all night!”

NEIL KEENAN UPDATE | Neil & Team Celebrate As Crucial Evidence Comes To Light: St. Patrick's Day in Jakarta

March 18, 2013

NFK Update | Neil & Team Celebrate As Crucial Evidence Comes To Light: St. Patrick's Day in Jakarta

For those wondering what the news is from Neil Keenan regarding the fight to free the Global Collateral Accounts to benefit the planet. This footage was shot at an Irish pub in Jakarta on St. Patrick's Day.

We received two crucial pieces of evidence to start the day – documents that should have been in hand in June of last year when Keenan's Trillion-Dollar Lawsuit against cabal Banksters and their puppet masters had been filed (including a Cease and Desist notice naming a Who's Who of the cabal world); enforceable liens on the twelve Federal Reserve Banks were in place (plus additional liens against the seven central banks of Europe); and millions were looking to new words from brother Drake Bailey on the imminent mass arrests of the core cabal members.

Had these documents been in Keenan's hands then, jurisdiction issues would have been immediately resolved, and many things long since delayed might have taken place. Security issues require that we be no more specific at this time regarding these documents, but I can tell you that the lawsuit will now be receiving renewed focus in the coming days.

Our team repaired to an Irish pub-to-be-named-later, where genuine step-dancing and an Irish folksinger provided the Celtic spirit, and an Indonesian R&B band provided the kind of get-down music that had our Korean colleague (honorary Irishman Inchul "Leroy" Kim) literally on the table leading the whole joint in an unforgettably glorious incomprehensible gyration:

Honorary Irishman, Korean Dance Man Inchul Kim

Meantime, a notarized statement by Mr. Keenan was given this morning to our friend Nelu for his appearance today before the High Court regarding the possibility of his release. Our hopes remain high that he will soon be reunited with his family, and able to resume his important work with Mr. Keenan on the Global Accounts.

While Neil Keenan is a solidly 3-D kind of guy. Over the last few weeks here in Jakarta, however, I have observed that despite being solidly anchored in what we used to refer to as “the real world,” Keenan is a mystical Irishman at heart, and knows that there is often a hidden hand at work in world events – and in our own small lives as well – that brooks no accidents, and has its own pace and purpose.

There are, of course, many others around the world performing their own crucial services toward the freedom of the planet: military leadership of formerly warring nations who are now refusing to dance to the cabal’s bloody tune and are seeking cooperative alliance; intelligence agencies who have begun to see that they were puppets of a hidden sect who would eventually sacrifice them as well; international financial leaders such as Christine LaGarde who are refusing to “wash the dirty laundry” of the cabal (i.e., “mirroring” Fed notes – notes once obediently laundered by the IMF, but no more).

The innovators of free energy and other astonishing technologies who are fearlessly offering to the world the amazing benefits long suppressed by the fossil fuel arm of the Illuminati octopus (as Keenan himself was on the brink of offering when his case first began, and plans soon to resume).

During this frustrating delay, when so many of us hoped for a single transformative event, looked for mass arrests, waited eagerly for a global currency reset – during that long delay much important and necessary groundwork was laid by all those many allied souls around the world to make the irresistible momentum of 2013 possible.

Here in Jakarta we'll chalk it up to the luck of the Irish, as we anticipate more good news to share with you in the coming days.

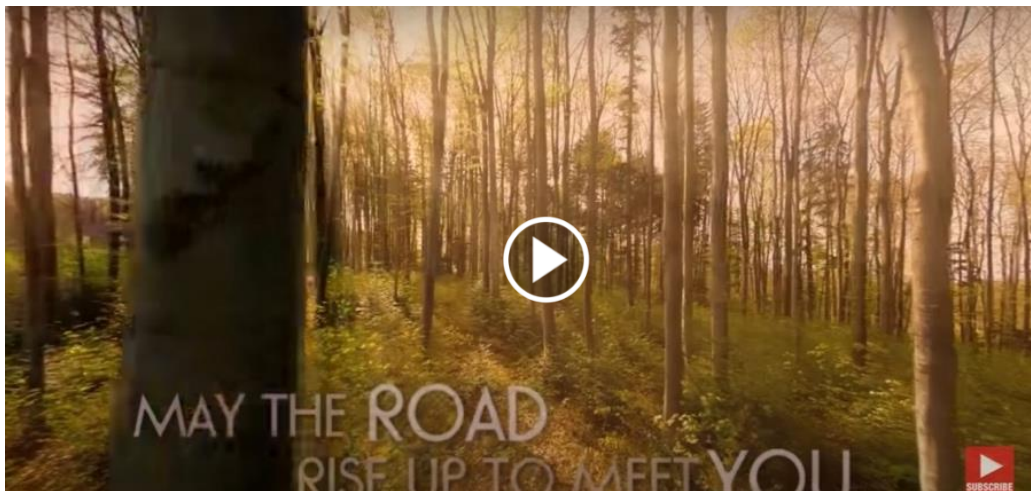

One note re the video: Keenan's cryptic reference in the video to "getting locked in the men's room" that got clipped out refers to an infamous incident in which this reporter modestly closed the men's room door at the Jakarta courthouse, only to find himself locked in, and thus required to pass some crucial court documents to Mr. Keenan through the air vent on the bathroom door so that they would reach the judges in time.

I suppose that detail would fall into the "piss and vinegar" category.

So, from Neil Keenan and team, we offer, until our next update, an old Irish blessing...

*May the road rise up to meet you.
May the wind be always at your back;
May the sun shine warm upon your face;
the rains fall soft upon your fields and until we meet again,
may God hold you in the palm of His hand.*

NEIL KEENAN UPDATE | The Impact Of New Evidence, The Power Of The Alliance, and The Fall Of The Dark Lord

March 24th, 2013

Earlier this week, we informed you that crucial new evidence had come to light for Neil Keenan's epic trillion-dollar lawsuit against the oligarchy. The source of this evidence remains mysterious – apparently a friend who wished to remain anonymous. The evidence simply dropped into Mr. Keenan's e-mail inbox, with a subject heading referencing important documents. The sender's e-mail address identified a person tied to high political circles in the U.S. – one that Neil might expect to have access to such sensitive material.

Neil Keenan and Nelu Wibawa in Jakarta

The body of the e-mail itself, however, contained nothing but a web address. At that address were parked the documents. However, the material on the site could not be downloaded, and could not be copied, but could only be viewed (a screen shot probably might have worked, but Neil is not a tech-savvy millennial kid, merely a paradigm-shifting hard-nosed global freedom fighter, so this option did not occur to him). He shared the contents with our team, and we excitedly but guardedly shared the news with the world in our last post.

A bit prematurely, it would seem, because, of course, we hadn't saved or downloaded the information. Someone in the opposition apparently figured that out. The next day, Neil went to the site, only to find it blocked by a Google alert warning of a phish parked at the url – the documents were no longer available. No problem, we thought – we'll just contact the sender and ask him to resend. However, the supposed sender informed us that, in fact, he had never sent Neil the e-mail in the first place.

An intelligence community ally informed us of a likely source of the blockage. While we will not go into detail regarding the documents, they directly impact the lawsuit, which had been withdrawn by Mr. Keenan with the right to refile, pending resolution of jurisdictional questions. The evidence provided by the documents places the Federal Reserve Bank of New York squarely in the jurisdictional cross-hairs of the lawsuit.

A brief discreet quote from one of the documents should make that clear, as in this statement from an affidavit by a principal in the case: “that the Federal Reserve Bank of New York has stolen from me and from many others by means of stealth and deception. They deny the legitimacy of the bonds they issue as well as the bonds issued by other Federal Reserve banks, but when someone steals the bonds from the beneficial owner, then the FRBNY willingly conspires with the thieves...relieving themselves of the obligation of paying interest on these notes.”

So now we had crucial documents gone missing, an anonymous sender who apparently had access to Neil's address book (using an address Neil would trust as the fake sender), and the high possibility that our cyber-security had been seriously compromised. Was it all just a ruse to hack Keenan's laptop? We didn't think so – the documents were too valuable and revealing. And the loss of them was devastating. Here's where Neil Keenan's leprechaun helpers, Indonesian devas, guardian angels or whatever you wish to call them stepped in.

The next morning, we discovered that before they'd gone missing, Neil had read the documents aloud on Skype to an ally in the U.S., and that (incredibly) that ally unknowingly had an audio recording software program activated in the background.

Thus, we had an audio recording of all the now-vanished crucial material. Intense transcription and trans-oceanic file-sharing activity took place, and the precious files were recreated, saved, encrypted, and hidden in multiple safe locations (hard and soft) across the web and across the world. Security lesson learned, we are grateful to the anonymous true sender – whoever he or she may be – and will make use of the evidence in the near future. Russian cyber-security is now in place.

And to the cabal stooge would-be hacker/blocker, we can only say (in Neil's inimitable phrase) – “Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha!”

Meanwhile, the work goes on. We have come to trust the unfolding process of the Indonesian justice system, and are confident that Mr. Martha Wibawa (called Nelu) will soon be free to resume his important work with Neil Keenan, and for his country. Our video attachment today – for those who may doubt Keenan's commitment to his friend – features footage of our visits to Nelu in prison, as well as of Neil's trips to the courthouse.

On other fronts, we continue to receive confirmation from Mr. Keenan's contacts that the historic claim of China to some 85% of the assets in the Global Accounts is represented through the Qing Dynasty, in the person of the Empress.

Malik Hughes, based in New York and alleges his Howard Hughes heritage, has put together a formidable team to assist Keenan, and has been a key ally in his contacts with the Dynasty office, resulting in the offer of a seat on the Dynasty board to Mr. Keenan, and the right to manage the notes, bonds, and assets. The Empress is consistently described by those who know her as a person of wisdom, strength, and compassion who is well prepared for her role.

The expressed intention of the elders of Indonesia to accept Keenan's help in finally freeing the assets to benefit both Indonesia and the world is a further indication that powerful stakeholders in Asia have come to trust Keenan's integrity. They apparently trust his intention to see to it that the century-long rape by the Western banking families of the patrimony of Asia (and indeed of all the world) comes to an end.

Further support for Keenan's work comes from more than 160 other nations, demonstrating that a global alliance has come together to once and for all end the secret fraud by which the banking cabal long dominated and exploited the world. Open and covert aid has come to Mr. Keenan from supporters in military and intelligence in a number of key nations, for which Group K is grateful.

It is worth noting that any distribution or placement into trade of any notes or other assets held in the Accounts requires consent of the original depositor, which places the Qing Empress in a position of central authority. Claims of imminent distribution of vast sums should be viewed with some skepticism. Enormous beneficial changes for the world will move forward quickly in the near future, but we do not foresee an overnight rain of manna from heaven—just the promise of freedom, and a sane and compassionate management of the world's heretofore stolen wealth.

In and of itself, that will mean something close to a golden age within our lifetimes, and for our children, and our children's children: implementation of free energy (ending the rapacious rule of the fossil fuel interests); an end to the debt-slavery imposed worldwide by the network of central banks created and controlled by the tightly-knit group of banking families known as the Illuminati; a restoration of the U.S.A. to the organic republic represented by our founding documents, as the U.S.A. Inc. is dismantled (and along with it, the cabal-controlled Federal Reserve System and its collection arm in the Internal Revenue Service); the gradual healing of our wounded planet, and an end to the artificial bloody conflicts fomented by the cabal's military-industrial complex.

On a personal note, for those who may be wondering just what it is about Neil Keenan that qualifies him for this role, I can only say that it is my first-hand impression that over a lifetime of high-level athletic competition, large-scale international business dealings, and, above all, an intense sense of loyalty to his friends, Keenan has earned a wide-ranging network of allies who will be there for him in the same way that he has always been there for them. His unwavering intention to work for the freedom of his friend Nelu (who we have reason to hope will be released shortly) is just one example of that loyalty.

By the same token, he can be a fearsome enemy to those who steal from him or from his friends, or who harm those he loves. This entire epic story began when Daniele Dal Bosco stole $134.5 billion in bonds entrusted to Mr. Keenan by the Dragon Family, with the apparent intention to launder the assets through high-level officials in the U.N., the Italian government, the World Economic Forum, and the so-called Office of International Treasury Control.

Nobody steals from Neil Keenan and gets away with it. In following up the theft, Keenan found that the real thieves of the bonds (and of the Global Collateral Accounts to which the bonds belonged) were the banking cabal, and the real victim was the entire world.

Ignoring bribe offers of astronomical sums, Keenan has pursued the cabal with the same outraged integrity with which he would thrash a mugger who had victimized an elderly woman on the street. It should be remembered, too, that Keenan's best friend, Joe Bendana was found dead in his home two days after receiving crucial information regarding the case from U.N. General Secretary Ban Ki Moon – information which he intended to deliver to Keenan the next day.

At the discretion of the Indonesian appellate court, Mr. Keenan is available to make a statement on Monday, March 25th, at the final hearing of Nelu's case. We look to this day as a potential breakthrough for the task at hand.

NEIL KEENAN UPDATE | Arrest The Bankers –Counterfeit Notes Issued by the ECB: The Big Euro Bailouts Are Backed By Less than Air – They're Backed By Fraud

March 31, 2013

Easter Sunday—So, much as we itched to post an update since our last post on March 25th, we've held off until the situation clarified, and we had news to share.

Neil Keenan Update: Easter Sunday – ARREST THE BANKERS

In today's video, look for Neil's response on such questions as: What is the bigger picture regarding the Cyprus savings account theft by the EU? Is the new BRICS alliance going to come to the rescue, or is it just an EU rerun? How and when will the humanitarian projects emerge from the liberation of the Global Collateral Accounts? Keenan's blunt responses to these questions will be heartening to some, and frightening to others. We know who the frightened ones are, and they have reason to fear the consequences of their actions -- consequence they no doubt thought never to face.

Questions hanging in our readers' minds:

Is Nelu Wibawa free?

Short answer: Not yet, but the delays appear to be over...we may have additional news in short order.

Is Neil Keenan kicking butt?

Short answer: Is the Pope Catholic? (On second thought, that old line may not work so well anymore, as there are those who would now say, no, the Pope isn't Catholic, he's a Jesuit...but we will leave that one for later).

The answer to the question about Keenan's swift kicks to Bankster's posteriors is an emphatic 'yes.' The answer to other questions is a blend of high-impact hard news and frustrating delays, the sum of which is that the Alliance's efforts, spearheaded by Keenan, have the Banksters on the run, with more good guys flocking to the banner. In today's video, look for Neil's response on such questions as: What is the bigger picture regarding the Cyprus savings account theft by the EU? Is the new BRICS alliance going to come to the rescue, or is it just end EU rerun? How and when will the humanitarian projects emerge from the liberation of the Global Collateral Accounts?

Keenan's blunt responses to these questions will be heartening to some, and frightening to others. We know who the frightened ones are, and they have reason to fear the consequences of their actions – consequences they no doubt thought never to face.

Some additional updates from Mr. Keenan that are not included in the video:
As the euro is backed by counterfeit currency issued by the European Central Bank in payment for the leasing of the Global Collateral Account gold, the ECB will be offered an opportunity to buy back the many trillions in phony notes they have issued.

As they will not be able to do this, they will be shut down and/or taken over. The euro will go away, and the eurozone nations will return to their national currencies, minus their debt. All the nations currently groaning under central bank debt – Greece, Cyprus, Portugal, Spain, Ireland, Italy, et al – will be debt-free once these actions are complete, and the ECB is revealed for what it is.

The New World Order takeover of the assets and sovereignty of the so-called debtor nations will be stopped. The economy-killing austerity and loss of sovereignty will end – no more Goldman Sachs cabalists will be appointed to rule your destinies. Humanitarian projects will get fully underway only once this process has been completed.

Those who are encouraged by Neil Keenan's bluntness and his aggressive actions may at the same time feel increased anxiety for him, and for his team, given the dangers faced by others who have fought the Bankster cabal, or have exposed the bloodline families, or sought to topple the dark sect at the top of that pyramid on the Federal Reserve debt note which now masquerades as America's currency.

I won't minimize the risk: it is real, and we are taking due precautions. But I will share with you that we have received continued assurances from many quarters that we are being watched...and being watched over. Yes, no doubt, there are formidable forces attempting to stop this work. But there are many allies working with us, and many protective forces in the field on our behalf....and above it, and beyond it, if you will.

Hard core agency watch-dogs and, let's say, more ethereal guardians as well. Neil Keenan is, let me tell you, a very earthy guy (that really doesn't begin to describe it). If he weren't a solidly grounded and sometimes downright scary fighter, he would not be where he is in the forefront of this battle. But he's also got a mystical Irish streak running through him.

In one moment, he will scoff at the idea of 4th Dimensional protection, or of guardian goddess spirits in his hotel room, or at above-top-secret sources that assure us of off-planet protection – and in the next minute tell me blithely that he's seen them fairly often....but "don't quote me, Michael – we don't want people to think I'm nuts."

So, I won't quote him. (Hmmm, perhaps I just did). I'll just take the responsibility in my role as the "spiritual guy" in our good-cop/bad-cop routine to state that our experience has confirmed that "there are more things in heaven and earth, Horatio, than are dreamt of in your philosophy." As to Neil's sanity, let's just say that he's a combination of Genghis Kahn and Darby O'Gill: an unpredictable blend of ruthless warlord and mischievous Mick.

Genghis Kahn was a terror in the West and a hero in the East – rather like Neil Keenan. Darby O'Gill (a fictional Disney concoction) conversed with the king of the leprechauns and was fond of high-proof poteen...well, you get the idea. Neil Keenan (rather a teetotaler these days, truth to tell) knows he's got help and protection on many levels, and we're grateful to all of them.

So, rest easy, folks...well, as easy as you can. Things are about to heat up. The coming week should be a big one. It appears we may have major developments in the coming days, updated in rapid fire postings. Or, God forbid, more delays. But today's video from Neil Keenan is definitely not good news for the bad guys.

There's a moment in Peter Jackson's epic "Lord of the Rings" film trilogy, immediately after the Ring goes into the Fire, when all the hundred thousand menacing minions of the Dark Lord suddenly realize that the jig is up, and they scatter like cockroaches when the light goes on. That sums up what is now occurring.

The thousand fraudsters who have been conning people – or whole nations – with bogus claims to either represent or control the Global Collateral Accounts, are now either on the run, or are stepping up their efforts to a frantic pace, desperate to con money out of the last few gullible marks before the new sheriff's deputies come knocking on their door. Meanwhile, major corporations are offering to take payment in gold for enormous projects, before the illicit trading of humanity's heritage is shut down.

And an enormous secret gold-buying scheme by a prominent European central bank is about to be exposed. Neil Keenan has many allies, and many sources of information. The Bankster-orcs would be well advised to run like hell for the River.

Global Financial Alert – Race Against Time To Prevent Banksters' Plan To Trigger Meltdown – Fear Of Keenan Driving Cabal Panic

April 5, 2013

Word has reached Neil Keenan here that the banking cabal's fear and desperation are now moving into what may be a final phase. They tried triggering World War III and that didn't work. They thought they could depopulate the planet through designer diseases, and that didn't work. They thought they could escape to vast underground cities, and (thanks to off-planet allies) that can no longer work.

Facing exposure, humiliation, and prison (if they are lucky) they are now down to their last desperate throw: to create financial chaos by collapsing world currencies and pulling off a vast Cyprus-style theft of middle-class savings in the U.S.

As global forces line up behind Neil Keenan, the Alliance, the Qing Dynasty, and the imminent "Changing of the Guard" to reclaim control over the Global Collateral Accounts, the oligarchs are desperately stockpiling gold in the hope that they can once more dominate an impoverished humanity by surviving the chaos that they themselves plan to trigger.

Not going to happen – they made the mistake of stealing from Neil Keenan. Clearly, there's more to it than that, and this fight for freedom has been secretly waged by thousands of men and women for decades. But it may well be that historians will look back at the moment when the hapless Daniele Del Bosco absconded with $144.4 billion in bonds entrusted to Keenan by the Dragon Family as the turning point that set the final wheels in motion to bring down Financial Tyranny.

As Del Bosco attempted to launder the bonds through the Italian government, the U.N., the World Economic Forum, and the so-called Office of International Treasury Control, Keenan relentlessly pursued the unfolding evidence that led to the Trillion-Dollar Lawsuit and the creation of the Monaco Accords, which are now supported by more than 160 nations.

Forces are now in motion to prevent this final dark plan from succeeding. The cabal's desperation is palpable. It's every man for himself, as the once monolithic Illuminati becomes merely a pack of vicious thieves – which is all they ever were in fact – fleeing from the justice they thought they would never face. Meanwhile, the pressure on them increases daily as the avenues of escape are closed off one by one. And military, militia, and intelligence cooperation are poised to make the long-awaited final sweep of the cabal power structure.

The cabal's strategy down through the ages has always been the same: "out of chaos, order." They create the chaos, and then impose an ever more oppressive "order," in order to degrade free human beings into debt slaves. They lived by their twisted version of The Golden Rule: "he who has the gold makes the rules." They amassed the gold reserves now known as The Global Collateral Accounts on the pretext of removing the cause of war (while slaughtering millions in a series of gold-theft wars).

In a century-long struggle, they succeeded in subverting their greatest enemy – a free American republic – into the Bankster-controlled U.S.A., Inc., via their secret ownership of the Federal Reserve System. They triggered the Great Depression so they could buy America for a song while outlawing private ownership of gold. The final phase of their grand strategy called for their rulership over a post-Armageddon remnant of mankind. These plans have now fallen apart, and their grand goal of ultimate dominion has been reduced to a desperate struggle for survival.

Agency sources confirmed to Keenan in a face-to-face meeting in Jakarta this week that the Bankster sect is planning a counter-attack in the coming weeks, hoping to get their last moves in before Keenan and the Alliance take control of the Global Accounts. The disarray in their ranks is evident from the following reports that high-level financial contacts have provided to Keenan in conversations witnessed by this writer in recent days:

1. Josef Ackerman formerly of Deutsche bank, and other European central bankers, have reportedly supervised secret stockpiling of gold through vast purchases through third-and fourth-party front men. These purchases of precious metals are paid for with euros that will soon be worthless. Ackerman's gold buyers are authorized to purchase as much as 10,000 metric tons per month – a staggering amount.
2. So-called "bail-outs" will be offered to struggling European nations – bail-outs comprised of the same baseless euros – charging usurious rates of eighteen to twenty percent. The struggling nations will ultimately be unable to pay, and the bankers will come calling to claim national assets and sovereignty for a pittance. This is already happening, of course, in Greece, where parts of Greece itself are being sold off to foreign buyers, such as a large section of the idyllic Greek island of Corfu.

Our source stated that if the Greek people knew what was really going on, "there would be a revolution tomorrow." The Emir of Qatar has been making regular buying trips to Greece for the last three months. It remains to be seen if there will be anything left of Greece for the Greeks.

3. The euro itself is doomed: as noted here before, the gold reserves backing the euro have been leased with counterfeit notes issued by Mario Draghi's European Central Bank. Neil Keenan has massive documentation of this fraud, and will be coming after the ECB and Draghi in short order.
4. Sources report that United Bank of Switzerland is now selling US dollars at 20% discount in preparation for collapse, while UBS bonds are discounted more than 30% in global trade, as Banksters try to dump fast for quick cash.

5. Attempts to defraud the Global Accounts are becoming ever more brazen, as a $300 million dollar bank draft bearing the signature of the CEO of one of the world's largest banks was reportedly used in an attempt to persuade banks to bypass the usual four to six week waiting period for verification of such funds, so that funds supposedly based in Global Account gold assets could be withdrawn within five days of deposit.

By the time the fraud would be revealed (our source stated), the funds – and the fraudsters – would be gone. This is but one instance, we are told, of multiple such attempts to raid the global candy store before the new sheriff shuts down the racket.

6. Multiple high-level sources have told Neil Keenan: “everyone knows you’re coming – you’ve got them running scared.”

As recently reported by Drake Bailey, the U.S. Department of Homeland Security is implementing Cyprus-style plans to seize bank accounts, and contents of safety deposit boxes, if any such are judged to be “of a contraband nature,” in the opinion of the agent. This danger to ordinary Americans’ savings was confirmed to Neil Keenan in person this week by an intelligence community contact, who stated that DHS is planning to use mercenary forces comprised of foreign nationals to back this brazen destruction of the American middle class.

Pentagon and agency forces are lined up to defeat any such move, and it is expected that the vast American militia movement would immediately swing into action as well. DHS is apparently one of the last lairs of cabal operatives, and should be a target of Alliance efforts in the coming days. We hope and intend that violence will be avoided, but it may well be that the end game will be tough going.

The reason the control of the Global Accounts is so crucial at this critical turning point is simple: it is the cabal's last available source of actual (as opposed to fiat) money. Mercenaries don't work for free. Once the final agreements are signed, and Mr. Keenan and the Alliance take over management of the Accounts, the final framework for global financial reform will be in place. This event is imminent. Hard on the heels of the agreements, Keenan's trillion-dollar lawsuit will be re-filed with final damning evidence in place, and the liens on the central banks will be re-imposed. With this legal basis firmly established, other long-planned moves against the cabal will swiftly follow.

As the dust from this momentous Changing of the Guard settles, plans call for rapid implementation of emergency funds, eradication of phony debt, and careful development of humanitarian programs for the nations of the world. These funds will not be distributed to governments or banks, but to foundations that serve the people, that stimulate national economies, rebuild infrastructure, implement free energy technologies, restore the environment, or provide health care and education.

It may well be asked by reasonable persons how it could possibly be that one man, Neil Keenan, could be so formidable and dangerous to the survival of a ruthless and murderous cabal, and avoid being killed by them.

Keenan has avoided mention of this topic in past posts, but I think it important that all those praying for his success should know that he has survived four such attempts in the last three years.

The protection around him has increased with each successive attempt, and Mr. Keenan himself inflicted heavy punishment on one assailant in Europe (the would-be assassin ended up in the hospital, while Keenan escaped with a scratch).

Attribute it to the luck of the Irish (though the Irish say that if it weren't for bad luck, we'd have no luck at all), or to the prayers of millions, or to the guardianship of intelligence community allies, or to the protective devas invoked for him in Indonesian ceremony, but the fact is that Neil Keenan now laughs at the thought of danger, and is confident of success.

Of course, Keenan pretty much laughs at danger in any case...or even relishes it. This reporter witnessed Keenan's blithe response to an apparent attack by a black-clad female assassin in a Jakarta shopping mall only days ago:

Neil Keenan Attacked by Black-clad Female Assassin in Jakarta Shopping Mall

OK, folks, we know how serious all this is, but do you expect Neil Keenan to stop being Neil Keenan? As may be expected, the would-be attacker not only got off scot free, but was given a generous tip! From Jakarta, where we find something to laugh about even on dark days... (but it's spring, and the days are getting brighter, and longer – here's hoping we'll look back on this April in years to come as a turning point for us all).

NEIL KEENAN UPDATE | Asia Beware – You're Next! Josef Ackermann On His Way

April 7th, 2013

Further confirmation of Ackermann's gold-buying scheme has come to us here in Jakarta today from high-level sources, who report that Ackermann is working on a massive gold-acquisition project with United Bank of Switzerland and LLB of Lichtenstein, in an attempt to set up a new financial system in Asia.

Josef Ackermann

Given Ackermann's status as a prime mover in the banking cabal and the notorious Bilderberger Group, and his key role in collapsing the financial system in Europe, our sources report that the cabal is intending to duplicate this disastrous result in Asia, using Asian central banks to turn countries into debt slaves, while raiding national assets. Indications are, however, that global partners are uniting to defeat this effort.

This report shows the intended dismantling/divestiture of Union Bank of Switzerland. The documents show the asset value according to weight and purity as required in such transactions.

I suggest this is a 'THEFT' from The Collateral Accounts, as none of these 'assets' belongs to any individual, company, or government. Rather these assets belong to ALL the People of The World. I offer that IF said assets are to be 'exercised', the 'holders' of these assets are Required to first pay the interest due, 2.5 – 3.5% per annum in Gold Bullion of the same quality (99.98%).

As an exercise, when contracted interest has not been paid, the Full amount of Collateral plus Interest is due and payable. Note that one Document states these are Collateral Account Assets.

Dear Ladies and Gentlemen,

This is a BASIS EXPLANATION FOR THE DEPOSIT IN SWITZERLAND, it is some important information for acquiring understanding of the deposit in Switzerland.

1) This Deposit is outside of the banking system but it is in the screen system and thus it can be verified. This is because the deposit in Switzerland is in status of "GD" known as "Good Delivery." This gold is in the forms of 1 Kilo Bars with purity 99.98, with all the official stamps and hallmarks and all of the bars have a serial number. Hence, it is easily possible to verify the deposit through a bank which has access to the screen system.

2) It is not possible to use any bank and no bullion to confirm the deposit officially. To confirm gold through the bank, the gold must be part of the bank's capital and it must be registered in the bank (this is not our case), so that the bank can confirm the deposit through the bank system. However, this deposit is not in the bank and it is not controlled by any bank; it is a private deposit located in bonded warehouses in free zone.

3) This gold is in deposit account, not in metal account. Deposit account according to Swiss Law, must be fully covered and backed by physical gold.

Metal account, which is generally offered by banks to their clients, is not necessarily covered by physical gold, it usually not covered by physical gold. The gold with the LBMA is less than 1% of physical gold available in the market, and the rest is all "paper."

4) For your information, the gold that is located in banks has a risk: if the bank declares bankruptcy then the gold will be lost, because the gold is part of the bank's capital. On the other hand, gold which is in a deposit account in warehouse; even if a whole country like Switzerland were to go bankrupt; this privately owned deposit WILL NOT BE LOST.

5) This deposit is allocated gold, not unallocated gold. The difference between the two: Allocated gold is gold taken by the owner to the warehouse. This is GD, "GOOD DELIVERY." This is our case. Unallocated gold means that gold can be "owned" but is not the same as "taking" and being in "control" of the gold. This means that any other type of gold, for example, not "GD" (good Delivery) Specification can be in this account, and THIS IS NOT OUR CASE.

6) The owner possesses in his hands the original documents. This means that the gold is not in the bank system. If the gold were in the bank system, then the original documents would be deposited in the bank as well, and the bank would have issued a BANK SAFE KEEPING RECEIPT which is completely different from the SAFE KEEPING RECEIPT OF THE WAREHOUSE. The owner holds the SAFE KEEPING RECEIPT OF THE WAREHOUSE and other supporting original documents.

Our case concerns the owner having in his hands the original documents which means that he has the gold deposited in bonded warehouse in free zone in Switzerland, under his ("The Owner's") full and complete control. These documents are very special documents due to their nature - these documents cannot be falsified due to the "nature" of the documents.

Gentlemen,

In order to do this operation, the people wishing to perform it need to understand what we are talking about. For this reason, an expert with the relevant expertise and with knowledge and understanding of this deal is required to be placed into contact with the technician of the seller in order to discuss the operation of this transaction. If no one is available for understanding this transaction, then it is a waste of time, then I suggest whomever does not understand that they are only a waste of time for us. I advise for anyone willing to proceed with the seller to bring forth a capable and appropriate technician who will understand the nature of this transaction and who will not waste the time of the seller nor of the buyer.

Best Regards,

Bullion Memorandum

This Memorandum is done on the basis of the statements of Doctor Kaled, who is in possession of key documents related to this document, as well as explanations of Mr. Ronggolawe, who was the previous owner of the same.

I. Historic background

In the first quarter of the XX century Indonesia still remained under colonial rule of the Netherlands.

In 1920-s the Dutch government transported to Europe a certain amount of gold to create gold reserves to serve the needs of newly established monetary system of Indonesia.

This gold belonged to about 120 raja and noble families of Indonesia. In general it was so called "scrap": nuggets, coins, utensils, decorations, plates, ingots etc.

Under agreement with Swiss government United Bank of Switzerland (UBS) was appointed as agent for the operation to melt, refine and make standard ingots of gold.

After independence war (1945-1949) Indonesia becomes a sovereign state. Soekarno (aka Achmed Sukarno) becomes the first President of the country.

After the country became independent attempts were made "to separate" the Bullion from the country. This attempt failed due to a decision of the court, that the gold is a private property and is protected in such status.

The same court determined anyhow, that President Soekarno should act as Protector of the gold, the Bullion was "baptized" as "Family Guarantee Heritance". This Bullion was subsequently increased by amount by means of additional deposits.

Appropriate Master Certificate in the name of Soekarno in yellow metal plate was issued by UBS (See. Exhibit 1).

In the beginning of 60-s Soekarno made a decision to entrust seven different persons with the proprietorial rights as regards the Bullion.

One of such fiduciaries becomes Mr. B.Ronggolawe, who was a Raja and belonged to Royal family.

II. Mr. Ronggolawe stage

Transfer of control over a portion of Bullion from President Soekarno to Mr.Ronggolawe was done by Authorized letter (See exhibit 2), confirmed by UBS. At the same time the Bank makes a number of documents to the name of Mr.Ronggolawe confirming that he stepped into possession of a certain portion of the Bullion.

In particular, block of deposit equal to 22 198 metric tons was confirmed by Collectable Code Transaction document with the photo of the holder imbedded into the body of the document (see exhibit 3). Facsimile of Mr. Ronggolawe was cast in a form of special plate of yellow metal (see exhibit 4).

Bullion in general consists of several blocks/lots. Block of 22 198 MT is one of them. This block consists of 13 certificates. All the 13 certificates with numbers are listed in the corresponding Statement of UBS (See exhibit 5).

One of them is Certificate for 18000 kg.

Here are documents relating to this portion of 18000 kg:

1. Safe Keeping Receipt (see exhibit 6). In the right lower corner of the document, under blue seal, it is seen that the gold was formed/united into this lot in Zurich in 1927 and it is Swiss production. The original of the Certificate Gold Deposit is located in warehouse where the physical gold deposit is held. It is not possible to have a copy of the Certificate Gold Deposit, because the Certificate Gold Deposit is the original legal document related to the Safe Keeping Receipt confirming and proving the amount of physical gold in the warehouse, owned by MR. Ronggolawe.

2. Certificate of Guarantee and Gold of Certificate Guarantee(see exhibit 7-1 and 7-2, two pages). Tracking No being 4545046-B.T-21072
3. Protective Holder D.L.S. F.S.Obligation and Obligation-Collateral (see exhibit 8-1 and 8-2, two pages). The same tracking No.
4. Statement of Protective Deposit Metal (See exhibit 9). The same tracking No.
5. All the Certificates and Documentation Related to the 22,198 MT are original and are special documents.

Allegedly this transfer of control was conditioned by a 40 years lenient period during which the bank was given permission to use the deposited gold for financial operations. The owner of the Bullion was to get a certain share of this trade.

Trading Obligations of UBS can be observed in Exhibit 10.

There is no contract between the Bank and Mr.Ronggolawe available with present holder of the documents either.

After President Soekarno was dismissed, new President of the country – Suharto – made an attempt to get control over the Bullion in UBS. He failed as the Bank took advantage of old decision, that the gold is private property, and cut off any contact.

Mr.Ronggolawe anyhow found himself under political pressure and during the rule of Suharto had to hide in jungles and mountains of Indonesia.

He never used and never profited from the gold in UBS.

After resignation of Suharto Mr. Ronggolawe returns to normal life. He is already suffering from a number of diseases, lives in wheelchair.

He comes to Europe to settle the issue with the Bullion (See Exhibit 11). Anyhow UBS trapped Mr.Ronggolawe and misappropriated a number of original documents, which he brought to the bank. Details are in Exhibit 12

Mr.Ronggolawe takes decision to pass control to Dr.Kaled, who is a son of his old friend. Children of Mr. Ronggolawe know about this decision, but do not protest.

Transfer of the control is done by means of several Deeds of Assignment, signed in Austria and Indonesia and correspondingly notarized there.

18000 Certificate is mentioned among others in the Deed of Assignment done in Indonesia. (See exhibit 13, 7 pages)

NB. Certain discrepancy in dates on the first page can be neglected, since the official date of the Deed should be counted as the date of notarization – March 10, 2008.

Another Deed of Assignment was done in Austria in 2007.

III. Dr. Kaled stage

Presently all documents mentioned above are in possession of Dr. Kaled.

He took specific efforts to verify authenticity of some documents available with him. Expertise for this check was provided by Robert B. Garcia from Auric Metallurgical Resources, 580f N. Placita Amanecer Tuscon, Arizona 85718. Robert B. Garcia found certificate 18000 being authentic.

Presently Dr. Kaled is ready to consider proposals and offers to inject available documents into financial operations.

Neil Keenan Comments For The First Time; RIP Dr. Michael Van de Meer, The Real James Bond –

April 10, 2013

Below Neil Keenan's comment about his extraordinary friend and associate, Dr. Van de Meer, followed by a story written by Ben Fulford about this man's life, his work and his "mysterious" demise.

"He is the man who talked to me for 3-4 hours a day – Saturday, Sunday, it didn't matter. He took me through the quagmires, the NWO, The Council of Foreign Relations, the people to watch out for, the principals involved in the poisonings – the toxins, and explained so much. He put my baby shoes on and taught me how to walk, then he put on a bigger pair of shoes and taught me how to run.

"He taught me about the gold, the bonds, the notes, and how they came to be. He wasn't only teaching me; he was teaching everyone who called him. At the same time, he was also helping people as a doctor; his kindness and generosity were unsurpassed. He fought with both Benjamin and me often, because we wouldn't listen, but it didn't really matter — our squabbles were always forgotten almost as fast as they started. He was the cream of the crop when it came to the assets, to the Global Accounts. He knew all the players and knew where everything was buried including the bodies.

"I was a little boy running around wanting the stolen bonds entrusted to me returned and he did everything, as did Benjamin and others, to assist me. So many people lent me a hand but the biggest hand of all belonged to Dr. Michael Van de Meer. I wouldn't be in the position I am in today if it hadn't been for Dr. Van de Meer. He taught me so very much about things that never could be taught. He was that special . . . Rest in peace my dear friend, I miss you." Neil Keenan

The fictional character James Bond does not hold a candle to the real McCoy, the man I knew as Dr. Michael Van de Meer. In one of his rare moments of immodesty, Dr. Van de Meer once told me that "what James Bond does is rather tame compared to what I have done." This man was unique and will be sorely missed by all who knew him.

The early James Bond movies are based in part of Van de Meer's battle against them. The cat-petting villain Ernst Stavro Blofeld, who featured in the original

James Bond films written by Ian Fleming, was based on Admiral Wilhelm Canaris, according to MI5 sources. Canaris was not executed during World War 2 for trying to assassinate Hitler and in fact became head of the Nazi Odessa underground after World War 2.

It was Van de Meer and his team's battles against Canaris and his group that formed the basis of the original James Bond novels. Van de Meer himself appears briefly as a young British businessman in a Bond movie. Canaris was eventually defeated by Van de Meer only to be replaced by George Bush Senior as the head of Odessa. – Neil Keenan

Why Philippine President Rodrigo Duterte Distrusts the U.S.

Michael Meiring, a U.S. citizen injured in a 2002 explosion in his room at the Evergreen Hotel in Davao, was spirited out of the hospital by men who locals say were FBI agents. Philippine President Rodrigo Duterte was Davao's mayor at the time and has never forgotten the incident.

Philippine authorities issued a wanted poster for Michael Meiring, whose case is a major reason for Duterte's distrust of the U.S. A copy of the poster, shown here, is included in the local police report.

A testimony of the Philippine Bomb Blast event by a good friend of Dr. Michael's:

The Dr. Michael I met was a neatly-dressed, well-groomed, gentleman, who moved with the power of a body-builder, the grace of a dancer, and the confidence of a man accustomed to command. Strikingly handsome, with sky-blue eyes that held one's attention, he spoke with a high British accent.

Dr. Michael was a man on mission. Once, he opened the Bible that was always near his bed, turning to a passage where God said he would reveal all the hidden wealth in the world, and restore it to the people. Dr. Michael told me that God had commissioned him to fulfill that promise, to relieve poverty, to renew the land, and to restore Creation to its intended state.

In nearly every conversation with me, Dr. Michael found an opportunity to affirm his commitment to returning to the poor and oppressed that which had been taken from them. He was passionate about building a world network of teaching hospitals and vocational education centers, and engaged in an unrelenting search for the necessary resources. At age sixty-four he would bound up four stories of stairway to his room, with no accelerated breathing.

After breakfast one fateful day, we parted ways. Dr. Michael, formally attired in a 3-piece suit, went to a meeting, while I took care of business related to the rural youth center I was building. We agreed to meet again an hour later, to discuss a rural development proposal that had been handed to Dr. Michael.

Less than an hour later, I was stepping out of my room when I heard the explosion. I ran down the hall, turning two corners, and arriving at Dr. Michael's room within seconds. Heavy black smoke and extreme heat were pouring out of his door. Two streams of blood led me away from his door and down the stairway. Several flights down I saw two men dragging the corners of a bed sheet in which the body was wrapped. On the street a red pickup truck was waiting, into which the body was dumped. As the body fell out of the sheet, the Dr. Michael I saw looked absolutely like a well-burned road kill, with limbs twisted at impossible angles. The pickup truck sped off through the heavy traffic, and out of sight.

A few hours later, after initial surgery, the attending plastic surgeon met me in the hall at Doctor's Hospital, Davao's finest. The surgeon informed me that the patient had sustained third-degree burns, much of it full-thickness, over forty-eight percent of his body, had severe burns of his mouth and throat, had inhaled and ingested flame-retarding chemicals, had lost the lower portion of both legs, and would probably lose his left arm. The damage was far beyond the threshold for human survival. That the patient still lived was miraculous, he said, but the attending physicians had no expectation that he would survive much longer.

When Dr. Michael was returned to his room, he was wrapped in gauze from top to bottom, with only a space for pulmonary and stomach tubes, and just his right ear, arm and hand free (Think "The Invisible Man"!). He immediately signaled with his free hand that he wished to write. I put a pen in his hand and held a legal pad on which he scribbled, "Better to be a live dog than a dead lion!" Over those difficult days, by writing humor and showing a personal interest in each person attending him, he kept everyone in his environment in a positive attitude.

Dr. Michael wrote instructions to his attending physicians, many quite unconventional, but all exhibiting a deep knowledge of trauma medicine. He did not lose consciousness, always refused anesthesia, and never appeared to sleep. He insisted upon inserting his own breathing and feeding tubes, and dictated his own healing diet. On the third day, one doctor told me, "We don't know who he is, but we are learning much from this man." Although he credited me with saving his life, ultimately it was Dr. Michael himself who was responsible for his survival.

Benjamin Fulford Post

When I first met him in person, he showed me an attaché case containing an Uzi and 7 passports, all real and all with his photo on them. The attaché case had a bullet proof lining. While I was visiting him in the Philippines somebody tried to kill him by dumping large amounts of insecticide into the ventilating system of his hotel room. This was apparently not an unusual sort of occurrence for him. In any case, I was privileged to get, through him, a glimpse at the reality of top of world espionage and intrigue. To him CIA stood for Christ In Action.

Dr. Van de Meer used to go by the name Dr. Michael Meiring until he had both his legs blown off by a bomb, he said was set by people working for his arch-enemy George Bush Senior, the head of the Nazi Odessa group.

Although Dr. Van de Meer was very reluctant to discuss his past, every once in a while, he would release little nuggets of information about his extraordinary life. He said he grew up in a castle near the ancestral home of Sir Francis Drake. He also once let slip that he was a cousin of Queen Elizabeth and Evelyn de Rothschild, who he described as "not very nice people."

His father, he claims, was a senior official in the British Raj, who worked with Mohandas Gandhi. My own research has led me to believe he at one point held the hereditary title of Lord Mountbatten, something he always denied.

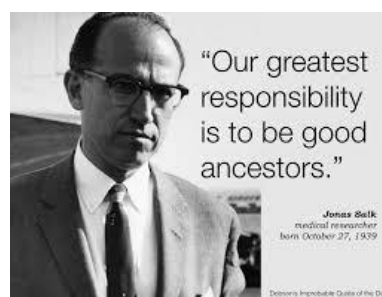

What I learned through him is that when the British overlords left India, they took with them all the historical gold and treasure they could get their hands on. This gold was then allocated to a fund meant to be used for the benefit of the planet earth and its people. Many other nations and groups also allocated their historical treasures to this fund.

When a group of Nazis and fascists murdered President John F. Kennedy and started illegally using this money to finance their project for a fascist "New World Order," Dr. Van de Meer set out to stop them.

Of course, Dr. Van de Meer admits he was no angel and he had one huge regret in his life. When he was a young medical doctor in the 1950's he was sent to Africa to work with Dr. Jonas Salk, a man known to us as the developer of the Polio vaccine.

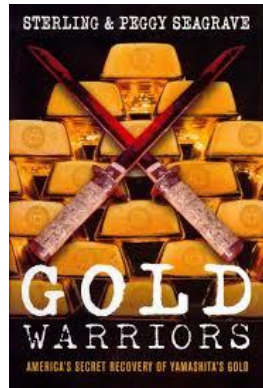

According to Dr. Van de Meer, who then went by the name of Dr. Michael Meiring, Salk and his team killed over 200,000 African green monkeys and sent their blood to the US (Nazi) biological weapons facility at Ft. Detrick. He found out the blood was being used to develop a disease aimed at depopulating Africa. It is now known as HIV or AIDS.

From that point on his career is something of a mystery.

He once told me though of a narrow escape in the Congo where he was forced to confront mass murdering gun-men after crossing a Congo river filled with "hundreds of thousands of bloated dead bodies."

After his time in Africa, Van de Meer spent 20 years in Asia, mostly the Philippines, researching the mystery of the missing "Yamashita gold" that imperial Japan stashed there during World War 2. He was one of the primary sources for the book "Gold Warriors," written by Sterling Seagrave.

What Van de Meer learned was that much of the world's historical gold was being plundered by Nazis. He set out to stop them and that was when Canaris disciple Bush bombed him.

My own connection to Dr. Michael began a few years ago after I survived my own murder attempts by the same group of Nazis. He contacted me through Kerry Cassidy after I appeared on an interview on Project Camelot. He saved my life by telling me that Madame Wu was bad mouthing me to the Triads because she was being blackmailed by George Bush Senior about a slush fund she had illegally accumulated overseas. I later heard that Madame Wu was tortured to death after the Chinese found out about her treason.

In any case, Dr. Van de Meer provided me with an education in the secret world at the very top of the financial system. He also pointed me and Neil Keenan towards the Green Hilton Memorial accord as being the reason for the Kennedy assassination and the historical root of the financial crisis we now face. The members of Asian secret societies who knew him said that despite his tendency to look down on them, they knew he was, in his heart of hearts, a good man who they wanted to work with.

That is why they approached me and asked me to send $750 billion dollars' worth of gold-backed Kennedy bonds to him. I asked for his snail mail address in order to send him the bonds. It was shortly after he sent me his address that he suddenly died "in his sleep" despite being in robust health and full of plans for the future.

His family refuses to talk about his death and no official autopsy has been made public. We are certain he was murdered and know who was responsible. Rest assured Dr. Michael will not have died in vain. He will be avenged and his dreams of "ending poverty and turning the deserts green" will be realized.

NEIL KEENAN UPDATE | Rising Above Cabal Divide & Conquer Tactic - OPPT Not To Blame For Threats

So why did we “attack” the OPPT? (Well, technically, from our point of view, we were attacked first...but were we? And by whom? And most importantly, why?)

The crumbling oligarchic banker sect has for centuries relied on infiltration, co-opting, and divide-and-conquer tactics to maintain their control of the planet. As Drake Bailey said somewhere, you can't start a Dandelion-Picking Society in the U.S. without the cabal infiltrating it with someone who shortly suggests that the organization should consider fire-bombing the rival dandelion pickers, who are said to be secretly bent on the destruction of Mom, her apple pie, and the recipe too.

If you're doing something serious and important, like Occupy Wall Street, then chances are you've not only been infiltrated from the start, but the cabal probably thought up the concept before you did.

The Rothschilds funded Wellington – and Napoleon too. They incited the South to secede in the American Civil War – and tried to fund both sides in that carnage too (but Abe Lincoln wouldn't allow it). The orange lion logo of current banker ING? That's the International Netherlands Group, who funded the American Revolution – and the British too.

The Rothschilds funded imperial Japan for decades before World War Two, planning the slaughter of millions in the global gold-grabbing conflict to come. And, of course, they found and funded Hitler for the same reasons...and funded the Allies too. Whoever won didn't really matter...they would get the gold either way.

We've come to the realization over the last few days that they're trying to do the same thing with Neil Keenan and his team on one side, and the One People's Public Trust on the other – and both sides have decided not to fall for it. So how did this info-war start in the first place?

From our point of view, here we were in Jakarta, minding our own business and making great progress, when someone brought to our attention the “Indonesian royals snub Keenan, six million-dollar OPPT Global Account hand-outs, Jean and Michael are CIA operatives” nonsense, and we got a bit vexed and irritated, but decided to let it slide.

The source was anonymous, and the profile was low, so we figured why bother? – we had better things to focus on. When we didn’t fall for that gambit, it seems the cabal tacticians may have decided to up the ante. And so, we got the death threat. Yes, that got our attention. Especially, when we learned that others who opposed OPPT were getting death threats, too.

Just so you know, Neil Keenan has survived four assassination attempts since he started his fight against the cabal, so it’s not a joke here in Jakarta. He doesn’t make a big deal of it (especially since, in one instance, the attackers ended up in the hospital after Keenan and a friend got done with them), and he has stronger security in place now, but we don’t just shrug it off.

Personally, I think the jerk who made the call was definitely a lot more alarmed than Keenan by the end of the brief conversation, by which time Neil was describing in nonchalant detail what would happen to the caller once we find him.

So, we decided to go on the offensive, which is Neil Keenan’s natural instinct. And, of course, there was the predictable blow-up in the freedom movement. And then courageous Jean Haines had her blog shut down, which made us suspect cabal involvement even more. But before the blog went down, the Divine decided to take a hand for peace in typically whimsical fashion.

I can hardly bear to read comment threads when I’m forced to ruffle feathers, and was exhausted in any case, so when Jean’s blog was inundated with thousands of comments, I tried to get some sleep. Just before the blog went down, however, I happened to scan a benevolent and charitable comment encouraging reconciliation and understanding. It was signed, “Lisa.”

For some reason, I instantly assumed this was Lisa Harrison, whose excellent radio show I have long admired. And I knew that Lisa is a key OPPT supporter. And I thought, well – maybe we can break through all this hostility, which none of us really want. And then we received new intelligence about where the threats might have originated, and where the confusion regarding the “Indonesian royals” started – and began to smell a rat. After consulting with Neil, it was decided to reach out to Lisa Harrison.

Today, I had a really pleasant talk with Lisa, and cleared up many things. She confirmed my initial thought (which I expressed in our anti-OPPT post) that neither she nor Heather, nor Brian, nor any of the OPPT principals had anything to do with death threats. I have no proof, of course, other than my rock-solid intuition that these are good and honorable people.

As to the Global Accounts, I will not presume to speak for Lisa or the OPPT on that, other than to say I now see no apparent conflict between their intentions and Mr. Keenan's. Lisa let me know she was already planning to make a brief statement on her radio show disavowing any hostility toward Neil Keenan or his team, and wishing us well. Neil Keenan asked me to let the OPPT principals know that we thank them, and wish them well also.

And let us say further, that we also disavow any connection with any threats or expressions of hostility that anyone pretending to speak for us may make towards Heather or anyone else connected with the OPPT. That's not who we are either. We are not going to fall for this old cabal game. That's one more tool of oppression that they will now find is obsolete.

Towards the end of our talk, Lisa and I discovered that, in fact, she never had posted to Jean's blog – that the benevolent post signed "Lisa" (which prompted my outreach) was by someone else entirely! And so, we thank that other Lisa, whoever she may be, and thank the benevolent whimsy of Source for finding a way to help Mr. Keenan's many supporters, and those working with OPPT to move forward with our separate paths toward our common goal of peace, freedom, and abundance for our larger family.

As Lisa says – "In La-kech" – the Mayan blessing which means – "you are my other self".

NEIL KEENAN UPDATE | OPPT Breaks Peace –Declares Military Arm – Keenan Survives Poisoning Attempt, Notifies AuthoritiesOf OPPT Incitement Of Indonesian Rebellion

April 19, 2013

Sorry, OPPT – we gave you a chance: game over.

The One People's Public Trust broke their phony peace with Neil Keenan only one day after declaring they had no designs on the Global Accounts, and have now shed the last few veils over their cabal-backed co-opting of the freedom movement.

In plain words they declared that the OPPT "Military Order and Declaration" empowers any nation's military (and specifically that of Indonesia) "to take into custody any and all actors" on behalf of humanity: pre-empting private property rights of any and all persons deemed by OPPT to be "actors" on behalf of the "foreclosed" governments and corporations of the world – in other words, anyone connected with government or corporations who hasn't "OPPTed in."

Paula Humfrey, an OPPT principal, urged a supposed Indonesian "elder" to encourage a military insurrection against the government of Indonesia, stating that OPPT's "Military Declaration" on behalf of "the People" had given him the right to do so.

OPPT has now crossed a dangerous line, inviting grave consequences. The Indonesian government has been notified, and is not likely to take this information lightly. The task of deciding which of the principals are well-intentioned naïve dupes, and which are cabal agents will have to be decided by legal authorities.

Meanwhile, the cunningly devised "Courtesy Notices" being promoted by OPPT carefully employ legal terms that bind the entire being and property of those who sign them (including assets, children, DNA, without limit) to OPPT nunc pro tunc praeterea preterea – a legal phrase meaning now and forever after. This is a retread of the cabal's old device of the enslaving Corporate Birth Certificates which turned human beings into income-generating securities traded in the City of London.

Independent legal analysis reveals the insidiously precise legal language that will bind the ignorant signers of the Courtesy Notices to a beyond-lifetime contract of bondage that is nearly unbreakable. A devastating post from another researcher into OPPT will be shared shortly. When it appears on Jean's site, please share it as widely as you can to prevent this cabal-designed enslavement pact from spreading.

The OPPT principals disavowed any connection with death threats made personally to Neil Keenan which warned him to "lay off" OPPT. Undeterred, we went after them, concerned for others who also received threats.

One day later, Neil Keenan survived what his doctor diagnosed as a poisoning attempt (not food poisoning – poison), only because he carries powerful anti-poison antidotes due to previous attempts. The naïve OPPT principals make jokes about the threats. The cabal puppet masters who are pulling their strings simply carry them out. Those of us working with Mr. Keenan to defeat the cabal and free humanity are not laughing.

Well, actually, Neil Keenan is laughing. He always is. His bathroom wasn't a pretty sight – take my word for it – but he was cracking jokes all through it, as usual. Neil Keenan took the high road, and took the OPPT at their word that they had no designs on the Global Collateral Accounts, which Keenan has been asked to manage by the rightful Depositors.

One day later, Brian Kelly's post of OPPT's conversations with UN Swissindo makes plain their real intentions. Any doubts about the nature of this movement must now be removed.

With mind-bending naivety, Mr. Kelly tells us that OPPT is not interested in gold and assets in discussions with UN Swissindo, but merely an “energetic exchange.” Try looking up a definition of the nature and purpose of money, Brian – be it gold bars, currency, Federal Reserve notes, or Manhattan Island traded for Indian beads, it's an “energetic exchange.” UN Swissindo is pretending to represent money in the Global Accounts. And OPPT is pretending to represent humanity.

Both of you are, in fact, empty-handed.

Brian Kelly tells us up front that OPPT has made no agreement with the shady organization calling itself UN Swissindo, and that all they desire is the greatest openness, transparency, and due diligence ever known to man.

Fair enough. OPPT's communications with Swissindo as revealed by Kelly make it plain what OPPT really is, and what they're really after. OPPT principal Paula Humfrey's own words in an open letter to phony Indonesian “elder” Apriyanto are sufficiently appalling, with no spin – this is Vladimir Lenin's recipe for revolution all over (and he was backed by the Rothschilds, too):

“Our creator god will return to us what is rightly due, and then the value can be returned to the people. I believe that there is a way for our shared struggle to be over right now, in this moment. Please see the attached Military Order and Declaration that was filed as international and universal law by the One People's Public Trust at the end of 2012. You have every right to arrest all of the actors to whom you refer in your most recent message. The banks have committed fraud and, as discussed above, the government of Indonesia is a corporation that has now been foreclosed by the One People's Public Trust.”

It is not an organic government for the people, but instead a corporation beholden to its investors. I send to you this day another filing that allows the military to take into custody any and all actors, providing that no harm be should be done to them. I trust you will know how to implement this very powerful tool. Please empower the Indonesian military to arrest corrupt bankers and government officials so that they can do no more harm to the people of Indonesia.

The One People's Public Trust Military Order mandates that every soul on the planet is safe: no harm will be done to another being. However, it is very important to stop these beings from committing further crimes against the people. The future is for our children, and it is our duty and responsibility to make it available to them, free from any wars that these ACTORS and CRIMINALS would like to initiate.

Keenan knows full well of their crimes and manipulation. This is why the One People's Public Trust has foreclosed on these illegal corporations acting under the disguise of people's governments. This is why the One People's Public Trust has foreclosed on all the central banks of the world, including Indonesia's (Rakyat). The Indonesian people should feel empowered immediately to undertake changes to business and civic systems...

The combination of arrogance, incipient tyranny, and naivety in this statement is breathtaking. Humfrey's assurance that "no being shall be harmed" borders on the idiotic – does she really believe that the Indonesian military will go about peacefully arresting their own government and corporate/financial structure without bloodshed? This absurdity would tempt us to let the whole thing slide – who would take this seriously?

But the forces behind OPPT, the ones who issued the death threat against Neil Keenan for exposing them (and then presumably carried it out), have a powerful agenda in mind – one that has historically worked for them before. It goes like this:

As revolutionary forces gather among the oppressed people, create or co-opt a movement to control the revolution from within. Promise the people undreamed-of freedom and abundance – a six-million-dollar check for everyone! (or was it five billion?). Doesn't matter – all we have to do is pry loose our rightful abundance from those bad, bad people who believe they own it. Down with the Bastille!

Once the revolution has released the pent-up yearning for freedom, move in to reclaim the assets for the puppet-masters, under the "new system" of the Wonderful Oneness of the One People and their One Trust...which owns everyone and everything – the ultimate cabal dream.

Let's think about this for a moment. All government and corporate structures are "foreclosed." What does that leave? The OPPT. The military is urged to arrest their own superiors, the elected governments, and any and all bankers and corporate officials as well. Meanwhile, the judiciary of these governments has been disbanded as well, so who does that leave? The OPPT. Who is to determine the guilt or innocence of those arrested? Why, Paula Humfrey, of course, because as she tells us in her own words: "I know full well of their crimes and manipulation."

In the words of Severus Snape, Paula, I can only say ...” How grand it must be to be ‘The Chosen One’!”

In practical terms, what does this scenario invite, if OPPT does indeed become the world-wide movement they aspire to be? What would happen if Mr. Apriyanto were foolish enough to follow Ms. Humfrey’s advice, and incite an overthrow of the Indonesian government, utilizing some faction of the military?

Let’s not kid ourselves that it involves a love-fest of BE-ing and DO-ing. It is the cabal’s recipe for chaos and bloodshed – a manipulated revolution that permits either a police-state crackdown and cabal seizure of the Global Accounts, or a phony revolutionary victory....and cabal seizure of the Global Accounts.

I’m trying really hard to remember here just when it was, I gave Paula Humfrey this power on my behalf. I must have forgotten to “oppt-in” – but then that doesn’t really matter, because that makes me one of the “actors” to be arrested. OK, Paula, here goes – I will now openly admit my guilt, in an unabashedly anti-OPPT, pro-freedom manifesto:

I believe in the rights of private property, and my right to keep that which I have earned – even if that property takes the form of an asset connected with a corporation “foreclosed” by a phony revolutionary movement I abhor. I believe in the freedom of sovereign nations and individual cultures to determine their own destiny, free of any interference from globalist banking cabals...or from phony revolutionary movements I abhor.

I believe in the decentralization of authority to local governments that reflect the values and traditions of the people who live there, within a loose protective confederation of peace-loving nations that guarantees basic human rights, but otherwise leaves people to their own lives, in keeping with the original revolutionary American motto – “Don’t Tread on Me!”...in contrast to the “One World – One People” globalist fig leaf of a phony revolutionary movement I abhor.

I believe that Mr. Neil Francis Keenan is the kick-ass sheriff chosen by wacky destiny to clean up the fraudsters who’ve been feeding off the Global Collateral Accounts, and that he will then implement humanitarian programs around the world, and I don’t give a rat’s behind if that fact distresses a phony revolutionary movement I abhor.

OK, Paula, there it is. I’m one of those dastardly “Actors” who hasn’t “oppt-ed in.” Now come arrest me! After all, you “know full well of (my) crimes and manipulation.” Guess what? I used to have a securities license and sold mutual funds! Come and get me!

And while you’re trying to find some Indonesian insurrectionist to come arrest me, you might also want to glance over your shoulder for the arrival of the Chinese authorities who may decide to enforce the Qing Dynasty’s rightful claim to 85% of the assets you have just told Mr. Apriyanto now belong to “the People.”

Claiming to represent an asset you do not own, and entering into negotiations for the transfer of that asset, is criminal financial fraud – something you and Mr. Apriyanto and Swissindo might want to keep in mind. OPPT's statements render the principals subject to arrest for criminal financial fraud. That includes:

PAULA HUMFREY, HEATHER ANN TUCCI-JARRAF, BRIAN KELLY, LISA HARRISON and CALEB SKINNER ...and any other OPPT principals who may now be subject to arrest by virtue of their involvement in financial fraud.

A final note: how can anyone expect that the long-suffering nations of Asia, who have seen their property stolen and defrauded by the West for the last sixty years, would consign those assets to this group of NWO lackeys? Since Mr. Keenan has been appointed by the Depositors as the new sheriff of the Global Accounts, it might be a good idea to let everyone know just how this works: who owns the assets, who doesn't and how they may be rightfully utilized.

First of all, a historical note: Neil Keenan is in this position because he fought the cabal at the risk of his life to recover assets entrusted to his care – and in the process revealed to the world (and especially to the Dragon Family) two things: a) that the Global Accounts had been defrauded by a malevolent banking elite and b) that he is smart enough, just real enough, tough enough, fearless enough, well-connected enough, and honest enough to follow through and take these bastards down.

Who owns the Assets? The banking cabal created the Global Collateral Accounts via a historic subterfuge, under the rubric of preventing endless wars for gold by gathering up the global reserves into a collateral fund. This was begun with the founding of the Bank of International Settlements in the early 1920s, designed by the Rothschilds and their cabal allies as the central bank of central banks.

After triggering the Great Depression, the bankrupt United States of America willingly surrendered her gold. The other nations needed a little more persuasion – especially the gold-rich nations of Asia, where the greater part of the world's supply had accumulated over two thousand years.

The cabal funded the Japanese Imperial rape and plunder of East Asia, encompassing the systematic seizure of the continent's gold supply in Operation Golden Lily. It is now estimated that 85% of the total gold in the Accounts is in fact owned by China in the person of the Qing Empress, who has recently been elected from within the Dynasty to assume authority over the Royal Treasury, with the backing of essential military and government factions within the Chinese power structure.

The Empress has invited Mr. Keenan to manage the accounts on the Dynasty's behalf, and has offered him a seat on the Dynasty Council. The remainder of the gold and assets in the Accounts are owned by other nations, as recorded in the Account ledgers.

Who may rightfully move, utilize, or place the assets into trade? Only the Depositors! Not the Holders (the Indonesian and other elders who have guarded the bunkers – they are owed long-overdue compensation, which Mr. Keenan will see to it that they receive). Not the Federal Reserve and the cabal cronies. And not bogus entities in Switzerland which set up a phony United Nations knock-off lectern and read aloud phony disbursements of astronomical sums to the nations of the world.

How did OPPT first get the idea they might access the Accounts? One contact was with Mr. Malik Hughes, a key ally of Mr. Keenan's with the Qing Dynasty office, who informed us that OPPT reached out to him to try to determine if they could reach the mysterious "Madam Wu." The real Madam Wu is dead. The phony one (a mid-level bank functionary in China) has had to deeply apologize to the Empress several times for presumption, in hopes of avoiding retribution.

OPPT claimed that Malik promised them access to the assets. He emphatically denies this and states he made it clear to them "they got nothing – no assets whatsoever." They then connected with Swissindo so they could still promise their followers a "rose garden" by some other route. But as is now plain, neither of them has anything to offer.

What are Mr. Keenan's plans for the Global Accounts? Simple, folks. Audit them (a huge task). Freeze out the bad guys who've been defrauding them (almost there). Emergency relief for hard-hit areas. Humanitarian, free-energy, and infrastructure programs world-wide. A responsible structure put in place for permanent guardianship with the blessing of the nations. A balancing of the historic wrongs done by the West to Asia, and to the world, through restoration of the assets to the rightful owners.

This fight has now moved into a decisive and final phase. Allies around the world are cheering Mr. Keenan on, telling him that he is winning decisively. It's not easy. It's not predictable. It's not glamorous. And it's not entirely safe. But it's worth it. The world already owes him a debt of gratitude. And we are grateful for your prayers on his behalf. And we thank all those friends and allies who have given Mr. Keenan the information, protection, and support needed to complete this great task.

NEIL KEENAN UPDATE | Neil Keenan To OPPT –Your Dangerous Game Is Over...

Apr 22, 2013

NFK Update: Interview with Neil Keenan, April 22, 2013, regarding OPPT

An extended interview with Neil Keenan in Jakarta, Indonesia, in which he reveals just what a dangerous game the One People's Public Trust (OPPT) was attempting to play with people's lives and freedom – not only in Indonesia, but around the world.

It is, however, a game that has been shut down, as Keenan tells how OPPT went from one Global Accounts scammer to another (Adnan Sahkli, White Spiritual Wonder Boy, and now UN Swissindo) hoping to find someone to fund their totalitarian revolution – a phony movement that gives every appearance of being the Bankster cabal's attempt to co-opt the real and profound global awakening that spells the end of their control.

"We had to be devious in the beginning" said one OPPT principal in a taped call that was sent anonymously to Keenan. Now Keenan simply warns them that their arrests are likely imminent....and warns people longing for freedom not to buy into the OPPT "rose garden" false promises of instant wealth. Help is on the way...from global humanitarian programs funded (with the blessing of the nations) from the Global Collateral Accounts.

NEIL KEENAN UPDATE | A Personal Perspective

Up front alert – this is not a news bulletin. This does not contain the latest blow-by-blow between Neil Keenan's team and the late not-so-great OPPT. This is not a cunning stratagem doubling as an engaging dispatch from the front lines (though I've gotten rather fond of writing those). You don't need to read between the lines here to figure out which parts are Michael H. Dunn the choir boy and which parts Neil Keenan the warlord.

This is all choir boy – but it's about my personal impressions of the warlord. As perceptive readers will have noted (and as I candidly admitted early on), the “engaging dispatches” of the past two months were written by me, and vetted and improved upon (OK, let's be honest – brutally toughened by) Mr. Keenan, with indispensable insight and editing suggestions provided by Jean Haines. We are, after all, in a war (in the end-game of it, we believe, with the rewarding work of implementing global humanitarian programs just around the corner, but still for some days yet, yes, in a war), and there is an art to war, as the ancient Chinese strategist Sun Tzu has reminded us.

When at war, you do not tell your enemy what you are really doing. Unless, of course, you want him to think you're lying. Nor do you tell your enemy where you really are. (Do you really think we've been in Jakarta all this time? Ha, ha, ha! But, then...maybe we really are in Jakarta! Or maybe we just hired a few dozen Indonesian extras to play the parts of prisoners and their families in a crowded courthouse holding cell, and flew them to the U.S. or some neutral territory so we could fool you all with a phony interview with Nelu Wibawa! Seriously, folks – some people are now proposing this.)

The cabal is composed of violent thieves. Violent thieves in suits, for the most part, but still violent thieves. So, yes, a lot of these dispatches have had the art of war in mind. Back in mid-March, when intelligence came to us from a high source of a credible threat against our team's safety, I shared in one dispatch a snippet of dialogue from one of our editing sessions, in which Neil corrected my usage of the somewhat Shakespearean phrase “will have their throats cut” to what he informed me was the more plainly understood underworld terminology, “will have their throats slit.” Yes, oh my goodness, mercy me! Mr. Keenan knows the underworld!

That terrible man! And he has friends in the CIA! Heavens! How can we trust him? He grew up in Rhode Island and knows “good fellas” – and most of the time he sounds like one! Shun him at once! He is prone to making vulgarity-laced statements about picturesque punishments he would like to see meted out to those who oppose him – or even to those who merely annoy him. Can we really allow such a low-vibrational being to be appointed guardian of the Global Accounts? Surely, such a thuggish fellow must be merely a cabal front man, whose ultimate goal is to return us all to a rebooted financial slave system?

On the other hand (and this is probably news to most), he was also a friend of Pope John Paul II, has a highly developed extra-sensory gift, has been visited by the visible spirits of departed family, been blessed and chosen through Indonesian ceremony by high Elders, and is accompanied at all times by intensely vigilant white-faced guardian devas (who occasionally make themselves visible to him, which kind of freaks him out). And he's something of an authority on the ancient Thracian ruins of Bulgaria, and the voyages of Christopher Columbus.

Also, worth noting is that he was one of the best basketball players of his generation in New England, setting numerous records in both high school and college, and playing pro ball in Europe. His skills as a boxer recently came in handy on a street in Europe when he was attacked by knife-wielding assassins with the help of an Army Ranger buddy, the thugs ended up on the hospital.

One of my personal favorites among Neil Keenan stories is when George W Bush got on the phone with him, and Neil said, "Oh wait – I think I know you...aren't you that cheer-leader from Connecticut?" Dubya went ballistic. Or when Queen Elizabeth II called Neil regarding an enormous cabal Federal Reserve note she was trying to steal, and Neil said, "Ma'am, you need to understand something. You're not my queen! I'm Irish!"

And when Neil Keenan organized the epic "500th Anniversary of Christianity in the West" in 1992 in The Dominican Republic, he personally hosted Pope John Paul II, impishly daring to say things to His Holiness that make my still-Catholic hair stand on end, such as, "Hey, Father – stand here, would you please, and face the Caribbean Sea while you're saying that blessing, ok?"

The Polish pontiff (who by this time knew Keenan was a loose cannon), rolled his eyes, and asked 'why?' To which Neil replied, "I could then make a fortune by going down to the beach and filling thousands of little bottles with water, since the whole sea was now 'holy water personally blessed by the Pope!" And John Paul replied, "And what if I say 'no?'"

Keenan didn't miss a beat. "Well, Father, then I'd have to sell 'Pope on a Rope!" "And that is?" asked John Paul. "Well, of course, that's just little soap figures that look like you, and then we put them on a rope for the bathtub, and people wash their private parts with them!"

As Keenan tells it, the Pontiff laughed long and loud. And afterward, he invited Keenan repeatedly to visit him in Rome, and called him several times at home in later years, just to say 'hello.' So, Neil Keenan goes through life pretty much laughing, joking, singing, flirting, or fighting – mostly fighting, these days, but walk through a Jakarta shopping mall with him, and it's mostly joking and flirting. But he's an equal-opportunity flirt, calling out compliments to about two dozen different pretty shop-girls in a good-sized mall in one thirty-minute stroll. Not a "swordsmen" anymore – he just likes seeing them smile.

And when one of the Rothschilds calls us here in Jakarta (as happened last night) to tell us she hopes Jean Haines re-opens the comments on the blog so that this high cabal heiress can share her own Rothschildian thoughts with the world on our latest post, what does Neil do? Flirts with her, of course....

But the fighter comes out fast. If we walk out of the mall to get a taxi, and he sees someone cut in line to cheat and grab a cab ahead of others who've been waiting, the unfortunate would-be cheater will be immediately subject to the warlord's wrath, which is uttered with such force and such unconscious assumption of authority, that everyone on the scene just says "whoa!...let's back off and do what this guy says, OK?"

Kind of like what's happening with the Global Accounts. And just what does Mr. Keenan actually say in his righteous anger? Well, I'll leave the exact words to your imagination, but it usually involves a threat to remove the offender's head from his body with a liberal mix of expletives, while dark scary rays shoot out of his black Celtic eyes.

And believe me, the offender obeys. It's kind of amazing to watch, time after time. I mostly squirm during these encounters because (let's face it) I actually am the diplomatic, poetic, peace-making, meditating, lyrical dude who all of Drake's people think is diluting the ferocity of their beloved mad-man Keenan (not to worry, Drake and Co. – nobody can dilute this guy's wrath, and every dispatch had his seal of approval....well, except this one, of course). Or did it? You figure it out....

To be honest, the guy drives me nuts a good portion of the time. His energy almost never quits. His joking almost never quits. His goofy word-plays on our friend Inchul Kim's various nick-names have been replayed for every taxi-driver and waitress in Jakarta for the last two months and if we get in a cab one more time and Neil tells the guy again to take us to Ethiopia, I think I'll tear my hair out. Well, for variety last night he did say "Sardinia," so I guess I should be grateful for small favors.

These are all just my impressions, of course, and I've only known Mr. Keenan for a few months. I've only read a few pages in that book, and I'm sure there's many a private chapter of which I will never hear (and I'm not sure I want to). But I've seen him at close quarters day in and day out under high stress for sixty days now, so make of it what you will. If there's a dominant impression I should leave you with, it is this: Neil Keenan is a winner. He is a good guy who is determined to take down the cabal. He is smart, and cunning, and brutally tough, and he will not back down. He is fiercely loyal to his friends, and possesses a killer instinct for finishing off an enemy that reminds me of Michael Jordan. He does not quit. He is totally fearless. And he will win. And so, will we all.

NEIL KEENAN UPDATE | Mopping Up and Moving On

NFK Update: Mopping Up and Moving On

Concerned at the implications of the OPPT/UN Swissindo "Military Declaration" which falsely claims the right to disburse assets from the Global Collateral Accounts and encourages an overthrow of the Indonesian government, Neil Keenan delivers hard copies of the documents to the office of President Susilo Bambang Yudhoyono, where he discussed the issue with the president's staff. Keenan has been asked by prominent stakeholders in the Global Collateral Accounts to audit and manage the assets, and to protect the Accounts from fraud.

Neil Keenan is clearing the decks for imminent forward movement with the Global Accounts. Since the Accounts have been the playground for a motley crew of crooks, Banksters, and scam artists for most of the past sixty years, that means Keenan's work these days involves a lot of mopping up: exposing hidden agendas of Global Account fraudsters; clearing up confusion over the nature of the Accounts and to whom they belong; and exposing the UCC filing fraud behind the "phony freedom" offered by movements such as OPPT, who are merely one of many groups laying false claim to Account assets.

The thousands of people who buy the false claim that all governments and corporations have been "foreclosed" and no longer exist run the risk of loss of property and/or freedom when they find that judges and courts are well prepared to demonstrate the fraud behind these supposed UCC filings.

Meanwhile, a prominent international lawyer, who was instrumental in assisting the Russian government to free itself from oligarchic control, made the following statements in a message to Neil Keenan:

"I have selected clear provisions of the UCC itself that completely destroy all attempts to abuse and misrepresent it. Its own provisions directly contradict all ways that "common law" theorists (like Winston Shrout or OPPT) try to use it. This proves that attempting to use it to obtain rights from third parties is criminal Fraud....You will have a concise and clear Legal Report, that you can show to anybody you are dealing with, to prove to them that OPPT are conducting criminal Fraud and have no rights nor legal standing.”

Those foolhardy few who decide to take OPPT up on the dangerous “Military Order and Declaration” that urges insurrection against the supposedly obsolete governments of the world run the risk of endangering their own lives as well as others. Once Mr. Keenan became aware of the specific attempts by OPPT and their allies at UN Swissindo to encourage an insurrection in Indonesia (using a false claim to Global Account assets to gain credibility), his duty became clear.

He has been asked by Global Account Depositors of the assets to order and manage the Accounts, beginning in Indonesia, where he has the confidence and support of the Elders who guard the assets. Even a bungled and incompetent attempt to execute the OPPT Military Order could cost many innocent lives. Therefore, Mr. Keenan personally delivered a hard copy of the OPPT/UN Swissindo documents to the office of President Susilo Bambang Yudhoyono, where he met with the president’s staff to explain the cause of his concern.

As previously noted, authorities in the U.S. and Switzerland – where UN Swissindo also has an office – have also been notified, including U.S. President Barack Obama, Swiss Attorney General Michael Lauber, Indonesian Attorney General Basrief Arief, and the Office of the Qing Dynasty. Neil Keenan is leaving the matter in their hands, to take whatever actions may be appropriate in accordance with the laws and national security concerns of the nations involved.

The question has been raised by some as to what difference there is between the rumored “mass arrests” of banking cabal figures in the United States, and the plan proposed by OPPT. Those who have followed the work of Drake Bailey and the growth of the community-based American militia movement will be well acquainted with the difference between the two.

Any such arrests in the U.S. will be made by local law enforcement, armed with lawful warrants, accompanied by U.S. Marshalls, and backed up where necessary by military units, in keeping with the military oath to protect and defend the country against “all enemies, foreign and domestic.” A legal reset to our founding documents would then take place, guided by the will of the people.

The OPPT simply proposes anarchy. They state that the government no longer exists, and need not be obeyed. They “authorize” individuals to detain any and all “actors” in financial or government crimes, claiming the right to name such persons themselves, based on their own sublime certainty, with no need for recourse to judge or jury. These words are taken nearly verbatim from their own documents.

This is a key difference between Mr. Keenan’s approach and the OPPT’s essentially anarchistic (and in fact fraudulent) “foreclosure” on our planet’s existing structure of finance and governance. Keenan wants to reform from within by freezing out the banking cabal from their access to the Accounts, while responsibly placing into trade the heretofore stolen assets in the Global Collateral Accounts.

The re-filing of Keenan's trillion-dollar lawsuit against the cabal will give additional legal grounds for other moves against these criminals. Humanitarian projects worldwide, the eradication of phony debt, and the implementation of free energy technologies will be the death-knell of the cabal, and signal a rebirth of freedom.

OPPT claims the assets will be allocated to their use by a fictitious group of Indonesian royals (figures who, even if they exist, have no ownership rights to the assets, but are merely placeholders and guardians of the property of other nations and families.) An actual Indonesian royal made the following statement on Facebook, regarding what he called UN Swissindo's ludicrous fraud:

"So, I have this to say, for and on the record, in regards to OPPT's claim of UN Swissindo and Indonesian royals holding 90% of the world's gold (this is the bullshit they are currently spinning). It's ironic that they picked the Indonesian royal families for this scam, allow me to explain.

I am married to the granddaughter of the Sultan of Borneo, one of the major royal families in Indonesia of hundreds of years, well before the Dutch even discovered Borneo and Indonesia. It just so happens that my wife is on holiday visiting her grandparents for the past week, so a perfect time to ask.

So, for and on the record, I can state as 100% fact that the Indonesia Royal families do not hold 90% of the world's gold, and the alleged royals making the YouTube videos claiming to be Swissindo do not say which family they are (there are many independent royal families from different islands, but they all know each other) which is disrespectful to other royals and not typical for the normally very proud royal families. Secondly those in the video are not recognized.

Lastly, common sense should prevail, in the Swissindo YouTube videos, the UN logo in the background is white paper cut out and glued onto a blue paper background, and the blue paper background is made up of many blue sheets of paper – I mean how dodgy is that? Is that not a red flag?

Indonesian Royals are independent from government but are a part of government in a sense that they make decisions and are consolidated with. While they may not be rich in western standards, in Indonesian standards they are millionaires who could certainly afford to have a proper background set made up if they were going to produce a video for the whole world."

OPPT's principals claim that the Accounts themselves "no longer exist" because the governmental and corporate structures that formed them have been foreclosed, and that the Assets belong by right to "the One People."

Try telling that to the Empress of China (who now represents China's historic claim to 85% of the assets in the Global Accounts) and her allies in the Chinese military and other power centers.

If you want to see how the OPPT approach worked in the past, you might want to read up on the bloody chaos of the French Revolution. Those who want to tear down a whole system overnight have historically become tyrants in short order.

Mr. Keenan has a better idea: legally freeze the bad guys' access to funds, and reform the system from within. You can't pay mercenaries with autographed photos of Dick Cheney.

There has never been a military coup against the United States government – even though the current corporate bastardization of the Founding Fathers' framework may have richly deserved one – and it is apparent that the patriots in the Pentagon do not intend to set that precedent, if it can possibly be prevented.

However, as Thomas Jefferson reminded us early on in our history, the right of revolution always remains to a people oppressed beyond endurance...when all legal remedies have been exhausted.

Those victimized by the OPPT's false promises can become passionately attached to the instant-freedom-and-wealth pipe dream, and may become enraged at those who puncture the fantasy. It's normally not Neil Keenan's job to go around puncturing fantasies. Most days, he's busy with what is often (trust me on this one) the daily drudgery of moving the Global Collateral Accounts closer to the goal of being finally put to use for the betterment of humanity.

The upshot of Keenan taking the time to expose the many frauds perpetrated on the Accounts has been that millions of people have been allowed to see the OPPT's agenda, nakedly explained by the OPPT itself in black and white: seize control of gold that does not belong to them, and use it to overthrow the governments of the world with their "Military Order and Declaration." Of course, no one is to be harmed during these insurrections, we are told. Right. Try telling that to the Tunisians, Egyptians, or Syrians.

There's only one yardstick that matters in the end: changes on the ground. The goals of humanitarian programs, eradication of phony debt, freedom from oppression, and environmental restoration come closer to reality every day through the hard on-the-ground work of Mr. Keenan and his many allies.

When it comes to the final takedown of the elite cabal power figures, will that play out peacefully? We certainly hope so. But that is not Mr. Keenan's job. We will leave that to the patriots in our military and intelligence communities, and to the responsible community-based actions of the vast American militia movement. The cabal criminals will be brought to justice by the proper authorities. Mr. Keenan's work is to freeze their access to the Accounts....and to work with the Global Account stakeholders to put the funds to work for humanity.

And he has already resumed that work with full focus. Expect good news soon. And just to reassure everyone that Mr. Keenan still has what it takes to be the point man for the Accounts, here is some recent footage of the former star point guard "shooting the lights out" on a Jakarta basketball court.

NEIL KEENAN UPDATE | OITC Zombie Back from The Dead...But Not for Long

May 8, 2013

David P. Crayford recently attempted to resuscitate the fraudulent entity which calls itself the Office of International Treasury Control (OITC) via an unsubstantiated smear attack on Neil Keenan, posted on Rumor Mill News. We will make quick work of this grossly inaccurate article, in order to set the record straight as Mr. Keenan continues his work with the Global Collateral Accounts.

CHARGE: Crayford states that Neil Keenan was “caught (Red Handed) in criminal activities when he was carrying in his possession a wad of Financial Certificates, Bonds, Notes in 2010 / 2011 and he saw what happened to his accomplices, Yamaguchi and Watanabe...”

REALITY: At no time was Mr. Keenan “caught” in any criminal activity, and Crayford provides no evidence whatsoever to back this assertion. Yamaguchi and Watanabe were the legitimate holders of the notes seized at Chiasso. These notes disappeared, and no record of a charge or a court case remains. The bonds were to all appearances simply stolen by the Italian Financial Police, for laundering through cabal entities such as Silvio Berlusconi and the U.N. who are accordingly defendants in Mr. Keenan’s lawsuit (along with the OITC itself). Crayford fails to state what “criminal activity” Keenan was engaged in, cites no law, and provides no evidence of illegal activity.

CHARGE: Crayford states “instead of crossing the border from Italy to Switzerland, as his accomplices did and found themselves in handcuffs, Keenan literally dumped these into the hands of Daniele Dal Bosco in Italy, who then contacted us to establish what these Certificates, Bonds and Notes were all about.

REALITY: At no time did Mr. Keenan “dump” the bonds to Dal Bosco. A custodianship agreement had been signed by Dal Bosco acknowledging the legitimacy of the bonds, of the Dragon Family’s claim to them, and his sworn promise to be custodian – and custodian only – of the bonds, and to deliver them when and where required by Keenan. As we all know, he subsequently stole the bonds, and attempted to launder them through Crayford’s bogus organization. If Crayford had performed the simple due diligence of reading Mr. Keenan’s lawsuit, he would have read the following document in which Dal Bosco officially agreeing to a custodianship agreement for the bonds, as seen below:

(from Keenan Lawsuit) Item 75. In early September 2009, KEENAN offered such custodianship to DAL BOSCO, and by electronic transmission dated September 2, 2009, DAL BOSCO acknowledged to KEENAN his “ACCEPTANCE” as “Custodian of the Dragon Family Financial Instruments” and noted, among other things:

- I can assure you that you will never regret making this decision. You are aware of the fact I am well trusted and a financial advisor within the Vatican and Mason circles and would never jeopardize my position with them for anything.
- My word is my bond and my word is Gold.
- I will be waiting for your Zurich arrival so that we can do great things for the world. I understand clearly that I am not to discuss these bonds with anyone outside the immediate circle and my privacy is integral to the success of many nations.
- I further understand you are the authorized representative and Power of Attorney for said bonds and I will entrust them believe me as though it was my life depending on it. Therefore, I humbly accept the custodianship of said Bonds in which I am only "to return them to either you or Mr. Yamaguchi. Not any other!"

Although electronic this email is to be considered my legal binding acceptance of the following bonds:

1. 250 Federal Reserve Notes, Series 1934, Numbers D45184101 A to 45184350 A, with each having a face value of 500 Million USD each totaling 125 Billion USD.
2. Japanese Bonas 57 Series numbers 1306 and 1310 with a value of 19 Billion USD including the interest.
3. Kennedy Bond with a value of $1 Billion USD.

I Will be ready when called upon to deliver said notes to you.

Thank you once again for your kindness.

Yours truly, Daniele Dal Bosco
Italian Passport C 165124

CHARGE: Crayford states: "since then Keenan has, unjustifiably and unwarranted, done nothing but lambasted Daniele Dal Bosco and all others who have contradicted him, calling them criminals and part of the cabal, etc, etc, etc. A real case of the Pot calling the Kettle Black."

REALITY: As Crayford well knows, Mr. Keenan acted legally and responsibly in response to Dal Bosco's theft. As trustee for the Dragon Family, he was charged with recovering the bonds, and so he immediately instituted legal action against Dal Bosco, the OITC, the Italian Financial Police, the World Economic Forum, Giancarlo Bruno, Ban Ki Moon, the United Nations, and other cabal entities approached by Dal Bosco in his attempt to launder the bonds. Dal Bosco's violation of his custodianship, and subsequent theft are thoroughly documented, as is the bogus nature of the OITC (as may be seen at the Wikipedia article which states that OITC is a "seemingly elaborate fraudulent organization which claims to be associated with the United Nations.")

CHARGE: Crayford states: "If Keenan knew anything at all he would know the simplest of things like the laws which are in place around the world that prohibit a person from carrying such Certificates, Bonds, Notes, etc., even copies of same. These laws restrict such movements of such Certificates, Bonds, and Notes, etc., to Bank Couriers, and Bonded Couriers...”

REALITY: Again, Crayford has apparently not done the simplest due diligence in this matter. Mr. Keenan had been legally entrusted with authenticated bonds by the Dragon Family, and accordingly familiarized himself with the legal parameters governing his possession of such bonds. The reason that no charges were filed against Yamaguchi and Watanabe is that their possession of the bonds was entirely legal. This fact was noted in the Japanese press at the time, and is cited in the Keenan lawsuit as follows:

(from Keenan Lawsuit) Item 64. As reported by the Japanese and Italian press at the time, upon arriving at Chiasso, Yamaguchi and Watanabe were detained by the ITALIAN FINANCIAL POLICE after attempting to enter Switzerland with “undeclared United States Treasury Bonds concealed in a suitcase with a false bottom.” The Japanese Consulate General in Milan confirmed that the “detention” had taken place while trying to confirm the men’s identities.

Eventually, neither Yamaguchi nor Watanabe were arrested, although their computer and eight telephones were also confiscated. Reportedly, Yamaguchi advised the authorities that the pair was in possession of valid historic bonds and that a mistake was being made. According to Japanese press reports, Yamaguchi and Watanabe were released as they “broke no laws.” Upon information and belief, it was Yamaguchi’s position that since there had been no verification in accordance with the protocol required by the Federal Reserve system, and no negotiation with the Federal Reserve concerning the actual value of the financial instruments he was carrying, no laws had been broken.

Although an Italian newspaper subsequently reported that the men had been found guilty of carrying fraudulent notes and sentenced to prison, no such charge or case exists within the records of the Italian government:

CHARGE: Crayford states: “Keenan is the one engaging in Fraud against the Global Accounts (Collateral Accounts) as well as the OPPT, yet he has the audacity to say he watching out for further fraud...”

REALITY: Crayford gives no evidence whatsoever for this serious allegation. His article consists almost entirely of unsubstantiated smears.

CHARGE: Crayford states: “The job of mopping up and exposing the hidden agenda of the Global Accounts should be left to us (The OITC) as the party best experienced and knowledgeable of the Global Accounts, along with the newly appointed International Treasury Controller, the real Legal Heir, Owner, and Sole Arbiter of the Accounts, who is attending to this matter on a constant basis with the Hierarchy....”

REALITY: The OITC’s fraudulent nature has been repeatedly exposed to the world, as demonstrated at the Wikipedia link. If Mr. Crayford seriously expects to convince his readers of the reality of the “newly appointed International Treasury Controller,” or of the mysterious “Hierarchy,” then it would behoove him to tell us just who the hell they are. This, of course, he fails to do, protesting that it’s a really big secret that he can’t let out just yet. Forgive us for our skepticism, and for suspecting that this sounds like a desperate cabal attempt to prop up some entity that might give them a shot at regaining control of the Accounts.

CHARGE: Crayford states: “You (Keenan) are using your belief, your lies, to subvert people in Indonesia into believing you and your actions are genuine and legal, whereas they are the complete opposite to legal and you, Keenan, are the instigator of this fraud because you hold no rights whatsoever and you have, and are, attempting to use your misguided beliefs and lies to obtain rights from third parties of which they hold no rights either even though they may be “Elders” appointed by former President Soekarno to act as “Holders / Custodians” of the assets deposited in Indonesia. The Rights legally belong to the International Treasury Controller who is the Legal Heir, Owner and Sole Arbiter under Legal Decadency 1088 dated 20th January 1995, which superseded all other previous agreements. NOTE: ALL OTHER PREVIOUS AGREEMENTS (if any) referenced to the control, ownership and arbitrary rights of the Global Accounts (Collateral Accounts).

REALITY: At no time has Neil Keenan claimed a legal right to represent or manage the accounts. He has responded to the requests of various stakeholders – meaning those with a vested interest in the Global Accounts, including the Elders, the Depositors, and the nations – who saw that his actions in pursuit of the bonds opened an opportunity to finally put an end to the historic fraud practiced upon the Accounts by the entities which Mr. Crayford claims to represent (i.e., cabal-controlled organizations and persons such as the OITC, the UN, the World Economic Forum, the Italian Government, etc.). The reason that he is now seen worldwide as a key factor in the responsible management of the Accounts is that he has the backing of the stakeholders, and has demonstrated his integrity, having refused bribes of astronomical sums to walk away. Agreements are being drawn up. In the meantime, Mr. Keenan sees it as his duty to expose further persons or entities attempting to defraud the Accounts (such as the OPPT, UN Swissindo, and the OITC).

CHARGE: Crayford states: “these stakeholders hold no authority to be able to pass such authority to Keenan. The authority is held by the Committee of the Hierarchy and the Chairman of the Hierarchy as Holder(s) of the Alfa – Omega Ring (Solomon’s Ring). Therefore, if these stakeholders are willy-nilly giving out authority to someone who thinks he knows, or all and sundry, then they too are acting fraudulently.”

REALITY: Here Crayford assumes the bald-faced brazen balderdash that is the indispensable ingredient of a successful con: make up cool-sounding stuff, and repeat it over and over until people start to believe it. “Solomon’s Ring”? You’ve got to be kidding me. Great. Introduce us to the “Hierarchy,” tell us who “the Controller” is, and show us the Ring, my precious, or we’ll take you straight to Mount Doom and fry your butt in lava.

CHARGE: Crayford states: "...because the American Courts hold no authority or Jurisdiction over the ITC / OITC. In fact, it is the other way around. The ITC / OITC hold more jurisdiction over America than what the people actually know about, and could, and possibly will, turn America and its allies in this Fraud and Theft, upside down and inside out in due course. Then watch the sparks fly because we at the OITC do not make promises and then break them. Watch out Keenan, Drake and the OPPT, because that includes YOU as well.

REALITY: This string of unsubstantiated, ill-informed, distorted allegations will not be causing even the teensiest anxiety to Neil Keenan, Drake Bailey, or to the other genuine principals working towards a responsible reset of the global financial system and a rebirth of freedom. Until Mr. Crayford has something substantial to say, backed by evidence and documentation, or until he's willing to tell us who the mysterious new "Controller" is, or just who the "Hierarchy" is and why we should trust them, when he's willing to refute the pile of evidence indicating that OITC is a total sham...well, until such time, we will continue with our work, and suggest that he find some himself.

CONCLUSION: A logical question arises: if OITC is so patently obvious a fraud, then what is Mr. Crayford intending to accomplish with this clumsy attempt to prop up the organization's credibility via an attack on Neil Keenan?

A highly placed source in international banking informed Keenan (in this writer's hearing) that the incidence of fraudulent activity around the Global Accounts has skyrocketed in recent months, as it became apparent that the Accounts would finally be audited and set in order by Mr. Keenan. This source likened the phenomenon to rats...not rats fleeing a sinking ship, but rather a pack of rodents gnawing on the last few bits of meat clinging to a bone that is about to be taken away.

These frauds are necessarily based on getting someone to believe that you and your organization have some claim on or access to the Accounts, via family connections, or a bogus organization, or because (as with Adnan Sakhli) you had a lengthy affair with the widow of an exiled former dictator who stole a lot of gold (believe it or not, some people actually buy that one).

Once you have established your bogus bona fides, you then make the pitch for funding for your lawsuit, or you trade unusable Federal Reserve Notes for cash, or (as with the case of OITC) you sell phony diplomatic immunity for $20,000 each, via a non-existent affiliation with the United Nations. All these gambits become unworkable if word starts to get around that a genuine system of responsible management is being put in place. p

So, what is left to do at that point, if you don't want your livelihood taken away? Attack the new manager, of course, no matter how clumsily, no matter if you provide no evidence – just throw all the dirt you can, and hope that some sticks long enough for you to dupe a few more gullible marks.

Yes, OITC claims diplomatic immunity, and innocent people are reportedly landing in jail after attempting to use these bogus passports, purchased at $20k each. Where was OITC's immunity when the Chairman, Ray Dam, spent nine months in a Cambodian prison? Where was the OITC's UN affiliation and vast wealth when people flew to the address in Thailand to find no offices there?

Contrast this to the case of Mr. Keenan, who spent millions of dollars of his own funds on a lawsuit to recover notes that had been entrusted to him, and who has pursued the truth behind the Global Collateral Accounts despite massive bribe offers, death threats, and assassination attempts. Yes, he is a businessman, and intends to ultimately be fairly compensated for his management of the assets, if that likelihood is confirmed by impending agreements. But when we compare his actions to that of people of OITC the old saying from scripture proves true again..."by their fruits shall you know them."

NEIL KEENAN UPDATE | Working for The Freedom of Nelu (Martha Wibawa), Key Figure for The Liberation of The Global Accounts

May 14, 2013

NFK Update: Working for The Freedom of Nelu. Key Figure for The Liberation of The Global Accounts

NEIL KEENAN'S STATEMENT TO THE INDONESIAN COURT REGARDING THE CASE OF MARTHA "NELU" WIBAWA:

I, Neil F. Keenan, Citizen of the Republic of Ireland, Passport number ———, do hereby swear under penalty of perjury that the following is true to the best of my knowledge:

I have been here in Jakarta for many months, having heard repeatedly that both the Lower Court and the Higher Court desired to hear my testimony in the case of Martha Wibawa. It was not until I met the esteemed gentleman who is the chief judge of the Higher Court that I learned that the best and most correct thing to do would be to submit a statement to the court and place it in the file (this is actually what I felt intuitively would be best all along).

The actual live testimony might be better for this court but because of its controversial nature I am sure they decided they did not need to open up a large can of worms. I therefore humbly submit my written statement for the Courts and I send my thanks to the Chief Judge for his diligence.

The matter of the Martha Wibawa case is very simple for me to see. I lived it myself. While trying to assist in getting the Global Accounts unblocked, I met many characters whose dealings would prove to be less than honest. The most deceptive one that crossed my path was a man named Keith F. Scott, who along with a man named Peter Wagoner (who also uses the name Rockefeller to deceive people) would eventually attempt to undermine my efforts, resulting in the unfortunate arrest of Martha Wibawa.

When I first filed my lawsuit against the criminal Western banking interests, it was the very same Keith F. Scott who educated us all on the Collateral Accounts. There are not many who know as much as he does about this matter. Unfortunately, he has demonstrated a pattern of self-serving deception that ultimately causes him to lose the trust of those who work with him. Nevertheless, in the beginning, he was instrumental in assisting us in this matter and is a treasure trove of knowledge.

While assisting with my lawsuit, Mr. Scott was also attempting to use my friends and connections to do other legitimate deals, which was okay with me at the time. However, after three or four failed attempts, my associates complained to me that Scott repeatedly failed to match his actions to his words. I therefore asked him to stop making contact with them. He not only did not listen he went after other connections of mine as well, advising them to not report the contact back to me. Here he miscalculated, as I have the respect of my friends, and they kept me informed.

It was right about this time that Mr. Wibawa and I flew to Singapore in the Spring of 2012 to meet with Alex Le Ling Soon. Alex is not only a very astute businessman, but he is a scholar as well. Finally, he is a gentleman. This is how I would define Alex. While there we did not conclude any investment, as I did not feel the time was right to speak with Alex of such. There had been business offers of $ 5 million on the table but it never was the right time for either of us to move forward. At that time, Keith Scott would have been included, and would have received funds to pursue information for the lawsuit should this business arrangement have been settled.

At that time Mr. Edy Seno was the person who could help provide me with information for the legal action. He not only held some documents needed to provide me with jurisdiction, but he also had documentation that would have supported my entire claim. We never got to that point. Although, I consider Edy Seno not only one of the scholars of the Accounts, but also a good friend. No one has made me laugh harder in Jakarta than Edy.

Back to the Subject and the Road to it:

Upon our return to Jakarta (Mr. Wibawa and myself) I soon learned that Keith Scott was once again going behind my back in attempts to do business with my friends. How did I know? My friends told me everything he was up to. He would tell them not to tell me anything about their arrangements, but I received all the information and more. I eventually confronted Scott and told him to stay away from my friends, associates etc.

I might have been a little crude in my confrontation, but I got my message across. I left Jakarta soon thereafter, only to learn upon my arrival home that Scott had written all my friends advising them that I was not what I seemed and had an ego beyond compare and much more. My friends knowing me did not agree.

After many attempts to sabotage my lawsuit, Scott went in another direction and decided to set up a meeting between Peter Wagoner (who calls himself Rockefeller) and Alex Le Ling Soon. They decided they might be able to steal the $ 5 million offered to my lawsuit in which the Soekarno Trust would also play a part in the negotiating. So, in essence, this is where it all begins for Martha Wibawa. The story took many strange turns as Keith Scott attempted to manipulate Mr. Wibawa's father-in-law to play the spy on Scott's behalf, leading ultimately to Mr. Wibawa's arrest. I will write the events here leading to the arrest.

Jack Singh, Peter Wagoner (Rockefeller), and Martha Wibawa (protecting our interest) flew to Singapore to see Alex. Alex did not wish to see Wagoner, but did after much persuasion by his right-hand man. During this meeting Wagoner produced an outdated plan about 20 years old and attempted to persuade Alex to finance it. Alex asked Wagoner if he thought his ideas were better than mine.

Wagoner told him that I was a fool (certainly I was a fool for ever speaking to Peter Wagoner). Alex Le Ling Soon told Wagoner he did not share his opinion of me and that he would not finance Wagoner's plan. This unexpected response not only destroyed Wagoner/Rockefeller's plans but exposed him as a fraud, when it turned out that this supposed "Rockefeller" did not have sufficient funds to pay his way back to Hong Kong.

Another gentleman, Chris Brosnahan of the Heritage Foundation (which was the nominee for the notes in question) had set up the banking so that the notes Mr. Wibawa was carrying would be officially verified, thereby making them legal for trade once the procurement of signature from the Depositors – The Xing Dynasty – was procured. I am in touch with the Qing Empress and she has not had any problem with the Notes being officially represented seeing I have the rights.

Here is the part that should interest the court now that it has the background:

Scott and Wagoner, in an attempt to divert or even have Mr. Wibawa detained, made contact with Mr. Wibawa's father-in-law, Mr. Mulyadi and told him that Alex Le Ling Soon had given me $35,000 USD which I had supposedly given to Mulyadi's son-in-law, Martha Wibawa. This was not true. However, Scott and Wagoner planted the seed of jealousy to manipulate Mr. Mulyadi, and it grew.

Mulyadi confronted Martha and asked about this money and why he had not been given a piece of it. Martha told him it did not exist. Mulyadi was in constant touch Scott, who kept feeding him lies so that Mulyadi did not believe Martha. He chose to believe Scott and decided to stay close to Martha and report back to Scott on Martha's actions.

Everywhere Martha went Mulyadi went also and would report back to Scott exactly what Martha was doing. It was at this time Scott told Mulyadi that he would get nothing from Martha's work so he would have to find some of his own notes to add to the package. Otherwise he (Mulyadi) would be excluded. Wagoner confirmed this to Mulyadi.

The above was actually the first mentioned moment of Mulyadi acquiring notes. The purpose at that time was to use The Heritage Foundation and banks to verify the authenticity of the notes in order to place them into Private Programs. Never (to my knowledge) did Scott and Wagoner give one thought to the possibility that Mulyadi's notes might be fake. Why would they think about it? Mulyadi would be the one in danger, not them.

Mulyadi spoke with Scott daily advising him where Martha Wibawa was and what he was doing and receiving advice from Scott. At all times Scott led Mulyadi on to believe that his bonds would be verified by the Heritage Foundation. Never did he speak otherwise. I have an email from Scott to Mulyadi telling him not to give us the bonds because they were real. (Please understand I still use the words bonds and notes in the same context).

Mulyadi, while I was in Indonesia, would often come to my Terrazzo or text me advising me that Martha was not the man to do business with, but that he was. I would let this go without notice, as I always trusted Martha. Mulyadi would also do the same with people I introduced him to. He tried to lure everyone into believing him, but I had already let my associates know that, in case they encountered him, he would try the same line.

The situation regarding Martha Wibawa is very unfortunate, since if it were not for Mulyadi and Scott the notes and bonds and collateral accounts would now already be opened and Humanitarian Programs and packages would already be working. This was the plan. It was set up to be legal all the way and always through the banks and the depositors. We knew there would be occasions when a fake note might be involved, but we had set up precautions to detect such fraud, so that it would be clear that those that printed the notes were responsible.

What the Courts may not realize is that such counterfeit notes were not designed to be perpetrated on the Indonesian Nation, but instead on the Global Accounts. These frauds were deliberately printed by the debtor nation so that they would not have to actually pay back the interest on the notes, thereby alleviating them from trillions of dollars in debt.

It still works the same way today, but we are getting closer to closing the doors on the nations and their treasuries and receiving compensation or bankrupting them for printing phony notes as payment for their actual leasing of the gold for the backing of their currencies. Here is where the counterfeiting begins and unknowingly people get involved in such garbage, as expected by the Western Nations that are perpetrating such a fraud.

In this matter, I not only received texts, but also photos with Mulyadi holding Singaporean Dollars and US Dollars in his attempt to entice me into his venture. It never happened, but what did happen is he stayed with Martha like Glue. He did not let him go anywhere without him being present. I warned Martha that his presence was not good for anyone, to which Martha responded that "this is family sir, what am I to say"? Meanwhile, Mulyadi stayed in touch with Scott who played with him like one would a puppet.

There were occasions when Martha would have things lined up properly with the Heritage Foundation and Mr. Brosnahan only to learn that there were people waiting for him to come down from the hills to steal whatever he was taking to the banks. This was again lined up by Mulyadi and Scott.

Then finally there was the ARREST. Again, this was a set up and it was set up by Keith Scott, Wagoner/Rockefeller and two individuals known as Tina and Dewi. On this occasion Martha and Mulyadi went into the hills and Martha acquired some legal notes to have authenticated. They were believed to be real and as the court later learned they are very real indeed, having since been authenticated.

At this time also Mulyadi placed his notes into Martha's bag (the bonds were now mixed) which tainted his assets thereby causing his detention. If Mulyadi had carried his own notes Martha would never have gone to prison for one day. The arrest itself is also another Scott deception also assisted by Wagoner, Tina and Dewi.

The Heritage Foundation had someone named Tony come in to assist Martha with the notes but he received a phone call telling him to stay where he was. Instead a "phony" Tony shown and had Martha and Mulyadi arrested. Now, I wonder if that was in their plans.

As the court knows, Mulyadi later acknowledged that the phony notes were his. The two cases were only recently separated and I was never called as a witness despite my sitting there and waiting to be called upon as I had heard the courts demanded. I also heard the prosecutor stated I was only an internet legend who actually did not exist.

Sort of a ghost, but here I was sitting before her, flesh and blood and a real figure not a ghost – although, I submitted a statement, I was never called upon. I now await the High Court to call me in but on reflection there is no case against Mr. Wibawa. His case has been separated from Mulyadi's, and Martha Wibawa never owned any of the fake notes, as the court already knows.

I have so much more I can add here, but out of respect for the courts – who have been so respectful to everyone involved here – I will leave that be for now. I see the court's compassion and understanding and I also understand that this is something they do not see every day. In order for the collateral accounts to work properly everyone will have to have a clear understanding and work together, and this is how we can repair our faulty financial system and make sure that all uphold the rules.

Sincerely,
Neil F. Keenan

Over the past few weeks, we have repeatedly been informed by reliable high-level sources that a wide range of crucial actions by key allies aimed at the takedown of the banking cabal have been held back, awaiting Neil Keenan's official anointing as manager of the Accounts, awaiting the release and implementation of the funds into humanitarian programs, awaiting the re-filing of the trillion-dollar lawsuit in the most effective jurisdiction – providing the legal basis for action against key Bankster figures. Meanwhile, Neil Keenan worked patiently in Jakarta to win the freedom of one seemingly small player, locked in a Jakarta prison cell.

Many have asked, why is this one man so important? And what have Neil Keenan and his allies actually been doing these many weeks?

For meanwhile, as we know, the poisoning of our skies and our soil continues unchecked, the ritual abuse and murder of children goes on, false flag terror attacks escalate, and the eroding of our freedoms by the gradual expansion of a police state grows unabated, while the global banking system seems to teeter on the brink of collapse.

Was this strategic folly? To make one man so important, and to make it seemingly so easy to delay action against the criminal elite?

The fact is, this one man's freedom and the story behind it goes to the heart of the cabal's failing grip on the Global Accounts, and the right way forward for the freedom of Nelu (Martha Wibawa) will empower the right way forward for the release of the Accounts, and for the re-filing of the Trillion Dollar Lawsuit. Above and beyond this, Nelu has proven himself to be an honest and trustworthy man of integrity, an Indonesian patriot, and has rendered invaluable service in providing crucial information and contacts for Mr. Keenan's work with the lawsuit, the Global Accounts, and the Sukarno Trust.

He is not only bilingual in Bahasa and English, but has a respected background in banking, and knowledge of the Global Accounts. Neil believes that the best way forward with the Global Accounts is to use Nelu's innate abilities, his acceptance among the Elders and society in general to assist him. Nelu is Neil Keenan's right-hand man. In truth, the elements of Nelu's case go to the core of the legal implementation of the Global Collateral Accounts, for the following reasons:

1. The notes in the Accounts need to be verified and authenticated by a bank, with the cooperation of the nominees and depositors, in order to be put into Private Programs for humanitarian projects.
2. The Western criminal banking interests devised a system whereby they could authenticate notes if they wanted to use them, or declare the same notes counterfeit if the original Depositors (or persons authorized by them) wanted to use them. This system of fraud allowed the Banksters to save themselves trillions in interest due on these notes, while landing innocent people in jail.

3. Martha Wibawa (Nelu), who is trusted by Neil Keenan and by the Indonesian Elders, was spied on and his movements reported to Keith Scott, who intended to prevent Keenan from moving forward with the Accounts. Nelu by this time had recognized Scott's deviousness and was refusing to work with him, thus forcing Scott to turn to Mulyadi, Nelu's own father-in-law, to spy on Nelu. Nelu arrived in Jakarta for an appointment at a major bank to authenticate the notes. In a trap set by Scott, Nelu was arrested in the parking lot, and charged with counterfeiting when it emerged that fake notes had been placed in his bag by Mulyadi.
4. He has spent the last eight months in prison, as Neil Keenan worked to see justice done by repeatedly journeying to Indonesia to testify in his friend's behalf.
5. The clearing of Nelu's name is closely connected to the clearing of the path for the Accounts to be put to use for humanitarian programs, as intended more than sixty years ago.

Monday morning quarterbacking is always a temptation. But as this writer has been an eyewitness to the effort thus far, here's a quick summary of what Neil Keenan and his team accomplished while he patiently worked to free Nelu:

- European central bankers' secret moves to stockpile gold in preparation for a coming collapse were exposed, as Keenan issued a global alert that may have helped to thwart cabal strategies.
- Former Deutsche bank president Josef Ackerman's scheme to back a new cabal-controlled financial system for Asia with secretly acquired gold was exposed.
- The soon-to-be-bankrupt status of the euro was revealed, as Keenan exposed the counterfeit notes issued by Mario Draghi to lease the Global Account gold that backs the Euro.
- The fraudulent nature of the cabal-sponsored One People's Public Trust (OPPT), and their allies at UN Swissindo was thoroughly documented for all to see, and potential violence in Indonesia averted.
- Keenan personally delivered evidence regarding OPPT/Swissindo to the office of Indonesian President Yudhoyono to help keep the peace.
- Two key pieces of evidence for Keenan's lawsuit were provided by an anonymous source...and a cabal attempt to delete the files was thwarted.
- The stakeholders of the assets in the Accounts saw Keenan demonstrating the vigilant protection of the Accounts that has earned him trust worldwide.
- An informant and infiltrator on Keenan's security team was exposed and dismissed
- Keenan and his team received numerous death threats, and Keenan survived a poisoning attempt
- An attack on Keenan's integrity by the bogus entity called the Office of International Treasury Control was thoroughly debunked

It is tempting to think that higher forces were working behind the scenes to clear the path during this frustrating delay, by means of these important developments. Now

Nelu's case is finally being heard by the High Court in Jakarta, and the judges requested that Neil Keenan file an additional statement clarifying Nelu's innocence. Neil Keenan (as requested by the chief judge last week) personally delivered an additional affidavit – in both English and Bahasa Indonesian – to the court.

After a cordial and important meeting with officials at the court yesterday, we hope for a breakthrough in the coming days in this exhausting case, and ask the prayers of supporters around the world who hope to see the hundreds of trillions of dollars in defrauded wealth in the Global Collateral Accounts finally put into the service of the people of Indonesia, into the relief of the struggling debt-ridden nations in Europe, into the cleansing and restoration of our world, amid a new birth of freedom for us all. The full text of Mr. Keenan's statement to the court may be read below.

One last word – Neil Keenan is no fool, and we may rest assured that he has plans B, C, and D in place to move forward with the Accounts if thwarted in court. A missed shot always opens a chance for an offensive rebound and a slam dunk.

NEIL KEENAN UPDATE | Neil Lays One on Indonesian Prosecutor – Hell to Pay, And Here It Comes

May 18, 2013

NFK Update: Neil Lays One on Indonesian Prosecutor – Hell to Pay, And Here It Comes pt 1

NFK Update: Neil Lays One on Indonesian Prosecutor – Hell to Pay, And Here It Comes pt 2

Neil Keenan has learned the truth. And now there will be hell to pay. The gloves are coming off his fists, and he is ready to match blow for blow. Keenan has been in Jakarta since January, waiting to testify on behalf of Martha Wibawa (called Nelu), the unjustly imprisoned Indonesian patriot chosen by Keenan as his right-hand man to help move the Global Collateral Accounts into action to finally benefit the people and defeat the corrupt banking elite.

Weeks have gone by as the actions in this case of Prosecutor Tanti, became more and more suspect – and as Keenan waited for a summons that never came. Week after week, Neil Keenan was told that he would be called before the judges, that his testimony would be heard. “Tomorrow,” they said. “Next week, certainly,” came the word.

In early March the judges in the lower court ruled that Nelu should be freed based on time served – a three-and-a-half-year sentence, which (though undeserved) we understood would have given him his freedom on probation that day. The prosecutor objected (Indonesian law allows her to do this), and an appeal process began. Again, Keenan was told he would be called.

Again, no summons came. The High Court rightly saw that the only incriminating evidence in the case was against co-defendant Mulyadi (Nelu's father-in-law) and ruled that the cases should be separated – leaving no evidence against Nelu. Again, Keenan was told he would be called, and that his testimony would be the final word needed to free Nelu. Again, no summons came.

And now Neil Keenan has learned the truth. And, yes, now there will be hell to pay. As the weeks went by, Keenan's suspicions were aroused. Early this month, he and his Korean sidekick Inchul relentlessly sought the facts behind the delay, even to the point of knocking on the office doors of the high and lower courts. Finally, some fair-minded court officials looked into the record, and discovered the stunning truth that a summons to Keenan had in fact been issued – possibly more than one – and that someone prevented the summons from ever being delivered.

Keenan is now considering a request that the Indonesian government look into possible wrongdoing in this high-stakes case. Prosecutor Tanti is where the investigation should focus. Was a summons issued? Where was it delivered and when? If not, why not? Did anyone sign for it? If the summons was deliberately blocked, Nelu was denied due process. His key witness was not allowed to come forward.

All along, Prosecutor Tanti's flimsy case rested on the assertion that Nelu's claim of working with an Irish-American international businessman and the Heritage Foundation to legitimately put Global Account notes into trade was just a story, that Neil Keenan was no more than “an Internet legend,” whose existence she challenged Nelu to prove (the Heritage Foundation is a globally recognized entity and is nominee on many of the Global Account notes, while a majority of the Account assets are owned by the Qing Dynasty in the person of Empress Bennie Hua).

A thirty-second Google search would have validated the fact of Nelu's connection to Neil Keenan, but Ms. Tanti was not interested in facts. She apparently counted on the idea that Keenan would not take the trouble and expense to travel to Jakarta and appear in Nelu's behalf – she assumed that she could spin her false version of the story unopposed. It is not, after all, very often that Westerners have bothered to travel all the way to Jakarta to testify on behalf of Indonesians who have been trapped in the hitherto murky world of the Global Accounts.

She could not, of course, know of Mr. Keenan's combination of loyalty and tenacity. I sat with Mr. Keenan in the courtroom that day, and saw Prosecutor Tanti's shock at Neil Keenan and his colleagues' unignorable presence in the front row of the court (see accompanying video). Neil later noted to me that the judges smiled in acknowledgement of his presence, but that Prosecutor Tanti looked quickly away. She must have known in that moment that if Keenan were allowed to testify, her bogus case would be exploded.

And then a strange thing happened. A notice to appear now sits in the records of the case – a summons to Neil Keenan to testify before the judges. But someone saw to it that the summons never reached Keenan. Someone made sure that Prosecutor Tanti's case against an innocent man would go unchallenged. Meanwhile, Neil Keenan sat by day after day, expecting a summons that never came, waiting to testify in his friend's behalf, ready to tell the truth.

If the summons had been delivered, if Keenan had been allowed to testify, the case would have dissolved, and Nelu would now be free, and the bunkers holding the Global Account notes and assets would already be in the auditing process. Who knows? Humanitarian programs and debt relief might already be flowing out to the stricken people of the world, if not for this obstruction of justice in Jakarta, this suppression of the truth.

But the truth in this case is a very inconvenient thing for certain powerful people – or perhaps one should say for certain soon-to-be-formerly powerful people? With the flimsy foundation of the case exploded by Keenan's presence – and still further obliterated by his written statement exonerating Nelu, submitted to the court in early March – the questions would then turn back on the prosecutor: who were the real culprits in this case?

Who set up the "phony Tony" in the bank parking lot to lure Nelu into a trap? Who used Nelu's own father-in-law as a spy to track the movement of the notes? Who benefits from blocking forward movement of the Accounts? Keith Scott was in Indonesia at that time, why was he not investigated? And why did the prosecutor never investigate Scott's cohorts Peter Wagoner (who identifies himself as David Rockefeller's nephew), and Teena, and Dewi? Rest assured, Neil Keenan has the evidence of how these people set Nelu up, and how they intended to benefit. Their time is coming...

And when it comes to Prosecutor Tanti, there is more evidence that the Indonesian anti-corruption task force may wish to hear. But the first question Ms. Tanti will be asked is this: what became of the legal summons issued to Neil Keenan? If it was blocked, that is obstruction, and denial of due process. If it bears a signature acknowledging receipt, that signature is not Neil Keenan's – and that is forgery.

These would be criminal acts, and should be investigated immediately. Keenan has more cards up his sleeve, begging to be played. I can attest that he usually has an ace or two tucked away, major cards left un-played, to be brought out when needed. The timing is his own little mystery.

If Tanti is serving some other group's agenda, who are they and what is that agenda? If there was a deal, what were the terms? With the global attention given to Neil Keenan's work, the likelihood of interference by the criminal banking elite is off the charts. The cabal's desperation is now obvious.

From all over the world the reports come into Keenan: the Banksters are floundering as their once-secret plots are exposed by formerly muzzled mainstream media – oil-price rigging revealed by Rolling Stone, and insider revelations that the recent G7 emergency financial meeting had an “end times panic,” (with Keenan's name frequently coming up) as the tottering fiat currency monster reels over the fiscal cliff to oblivion, threatening to drag the rest of the world with it. Discreet calls from heads of state are now coming in to Neil Keenan in Jakarta, opening lines of communication.

Once-firm friends of the cabal are positioning themselves to switch sides, and even the long-loyal financial media are beginning to report once unreportable stories. A last-ditch attempt to co-opt the revolution, to deceive the people with a false dawn (one which would leave the dark forces still in control) is underway as the Bankster gang pursues a massive gold and silver buying spree, attempting to underwrite their own version of a new financial system.

The writing is on the wall, and the pressure on the cabal is mounting. Someone attempted to channel that pressure against Nelu, against Neil Keenan, against the liberation of the Global Accounts, in Jakarta.

Indonesian lower-court judges rightly recognized the facts, and ruled that Nelu should be freed based on time served. At some point, someone acted to block the legal summons issued to bring Keenan to court to give testimony which could have freed Nelu months ago.

The person responsible for this criminal act should be identified and brought to justice. The High Court has since rightly acted to separate Nelu's case from his co-defendant, leaving no evidence to hold him. Why, then, has he not yet been freed?

Nelu is more than just an innocent man wrongly imprisoned. He stands as a symbol for humanity in its struggle against the Bankster-bloodline criminal gang...a gang that knows he is a key partner to the man whose work is one of the greatest threats they face.

NEIL KEENAN UPDATE | “The Bridge” – A Personal Statement From Neil Keenan

by Neil F. Keenan

May 30, 2013 – I realize it is difficult waiting for the next post. It is tough in between posts and I do not expect any of you to believe that nothing happens when lots is actually going on. Because we are near the end, I do not want you to miss the Ending. I would not want to miss the end of a book after reading so many pages, or the final twenty minutes of a movie. So, I will try to bring you up to date so you know some of what actually transpired to get us to “The End.” It should create a bridge from one point to another and then finally to Nelu’s release (I hope so).

The strangeness of this period is connected to the questionable activities of Prosecutor Tanti, and of Nelu’s father-in-law Mulyadi—and the news of his admission to Nelu (finally) that all along he was secretly working with Keith Scott.

After our request went out to all of you to call the court on Nelu’s behalf, you delivered more than 25,000 phone calls and it shut their system down. When the court had no access to its system, they understood we had some strength as well. It got to the point soon after that the Courts contacted our Irish-Korean friend Inchul Kim and politely asked him to keep me away from the courts. When Kim asked why, they stated “They were all afraid of Mr. Keenan.”

When I was told this, I wondered how they could make such a statement when I was on my best behavior and actually was thankful to the courts for their help. They did not have to help me! I thank them all to this very day because without them an integral element of Nelu’s case would never have been revealed and we would be to this very moment stuck with what we had.

What was revealed (and rightfully so) by Mr. Ibnu came to light when he asked why did I not show up to testify when I was summoned by the court? I nearly fell off my chair when I heard this, yet gathered myself and rather than be loud, I just looked at him dumbfounded and asked, “What summons?” I had been waiting many months for such an official court summons, and never received one despite being told day by day, “It is coming.” Mr. Ibnu and I looked at each other at this point, and the look in our eyes said it all. Someone in the system suppressed the delivery of this summons. I wonder who that could be?

We (Inchul, Jo and myself) visited the Lower Court after being advised by the Higher Court to get a statement submitted immediately to them otherwise all would be lost. This advice was sound and I worked fervently to get one through. After a long weekend working with Michael and Jean, I was happy with what had been finalized and brought it to the Lower Court on that following Monday. Of course, I expected everything to be okay. The Higher Court said to do this. We went and found our dear friend Daisy who is as honest as Day One and a fantastic person and asked her for help.

I trust her enough to ask her to translate and to help us. She has been so helpful for many months and all my thanks to Daisy from us. But she was not successful. I could see she had a problem as she walked down the stairs. I was ready to walk away when she said that her supervisor told her our statement could not be inserted into the case at this late date. "The case is closed and in the hands of the Higher Court." It was the Higher Court that told us to bring it to the Lower Court, so what could we now do other than walk away?

Again, it was Daisy who asked me what I wanted to do. I said, well, the man said, "No," so we should leave and return to the Apartment Hotel. Daisy then asked, "Would you like to speak with him?" I said, "No, he made his decision." It was then Daisy said, "What do you have to lose if you speak with him?" I said, "Nothing. But he made his decision." On thinking it through, I then said, "What the hell, we have nothing to lose. Let's go for it."

At that time, I did not know Mr. Ibnu was Daisy's boss. I learned later. But all the while in his office, I felt comfortable. By being the humble yet wise person he is, he put me at ease. When we both realized the value of the missing summons, Mr. Ibnu told me I would need a cover page for the statement—he decided to insert it into the case for us. He had already read it and it impressed so much that he believed it might mitigate Martha Wibawa's sentence.

He told us how to address the cover page and then went and spoke privately with Daisy. I am sure this conversation revolved around how well she knew me. I was very honest with her from the first day I met her, thinking I would testify and Nelu would be released. Again, Daisy would prove to be instrumental. Immediately we went and completed the cover page with Jo working diligently while Inchul and I discussed the matter. Again, Daisy brought the finalized version upstairs to Mr. Ibnu and it was sent to the Higher Court and then inserted into Nelu's case file.

It was a few days later that the request from Jean went out to the world to call in and express support for Nelu. We banged our heads over this one, realizing it could go either way but when push came to shove, we decided that the only way for anyone to see we were serious was to just let the request go out to all of you. We prayed to God it would work. After Jean's request that Monday, the lights on the phones began early in the courthouse and continued throughout the day and night. The court could not work and had to use their own cell phones to get things done.

I did not feel great about it after the assistance they had given us, but everyone had to know this was also serious—they had an innocent man in jail and I wanted the opportunity to speak for his release.

It was some time before I realized that the separation of the case took all evidence away from Nelu and gave it to the rightful owner—MULYADI—his father-in-law who stabbed him in the back, the person who believed he was working with Keith Scott but in fact was being used. It was Mulyadi who was Scott's spy. It was Mulyadi who told Scott everything Nelu was doing.

I had never liked that man, always coming for the ride, but never having anything to say. Then when he thought he had the opportunity he started sending me messages telling me that he was the man to handle the Accounts, not Nelu. This continued on, but I did not take it seriously. He even e-mailed photos of himself holding what turned out to be fake notes he had been given—the very notes that would eventually land him in jail (unwittingly trapping his own son-in-law in Keith Scott's net). I never took him seriously. He would never be the man—he was not smart enough. And then he failed the loyalty test.

A few days ago, I went to visit Nelu in prison, and as it was family visiting day, I found myself again with Mulyadi, Nelu, their wives, and Jo and Inchul in the prison visiting room. I went only to speak with Nelu for a few minutes but Mulyadi, upon learning of the phone systems being shut down in support of Nelu, made his voice clear through Jo that he wanted to know why I was not helping him—only Nelu.

I asked him if he was kidding, and told him I would not raise one finger to assist him. I told him he should try calling Keith Scott—the guy he worked for, the guy on whose behalf he ended up putting himself and Nelu in prison. It was translated by Jo, and Mulyadi's face turned tight and he banged the table, but little did he get from me because I stood up and banged the table as well.

Everyone was watching us and Mulyadi stayed down and continued to ask with his wife's face on his shoulder why I was helping only Nelu. Mulyadi did not really care if Nelu got out of prison, but he did care if Nelu got out and he stayed in despite the fact that the entire matter was his doing.

Nelu tried to protect him throughout the court hearings never mentioning Mulyadi's conniving ways, but while Nelu was trying to help Mulyadi, Mulyadi was trying to bury Nelu. At one point and time he thought he was going home and Nelu was staying—since the notes were in Nelu's bag. On another occasion he told the Police he knew nothing about the notes, which left Nelu literally holding the bag.

I again told him he was responsible for this entire mess and if anything, I would like to take his head off. Jo would not translate this yet apparently Mulyadi understood and banged the table again. Banging tables does not bother me but setting up your own family does. Mulyadi not only hurt Nelu and his family but he hurt millions of people all over the planet, since we had been about ready to begin the Humanitarian Programs when Nelu was arrested.

I was already standing and I banged the table back and told him you will not get any help from me you &#;!?!##!!! Nelu asked me to please remember this is his family and his father-in-law might punch him in the face. I calmed down for Nelu's sake. I was glad he did not bring his baby to see this. Jo being the smart man he is just kept looking straight ahead at the wall in front of him not saying a word and I told him later you are lucky this did not break out and he asked, "Why?"

I said, "Because the guy in the middle is always the one that gets whacked!" (Hahahahaha...) Jo said, "Really?!!" Inchul, on the other hand, just kept watching everything stoically. Nothing bothers that man. It was a shouting match and could have been much more but we walked away.

On the other hand, Mulyadi's emotions were apparently getting the better of him. But this time I kept my eyes on him, knowing after leaving the table he was rounding up his boys for a further confrontation with either us or Nelu. He did not want word to get out that he was responsible for everything that happened to Nelu but rather that Nelu did this to him. We had already planned on leaving, though, and I could only pray that nothing happened to Nelu—but it did!

Later that night in a confrontation Nelu shouted at Mulyadi that he had put him in jail for nine months by secretly working with Keith Scott. Now the only person who had a handle on this matter was me and for Nelu to finally come out and say it must have been a reach for him, but Mulyadi loudly responded, "Yes, I was working with Keith Scott, and you blew our deal!"

Now if stupid is as stupid does then you have to shake your head at this one. Mulyadi had only fake notes. This is why he went to jail (getting innocent Nelu jailed too) yet here he is saying, "You blew our deal."

Well, Mr. Mulyadi, how did you ever expect to complete a deal with fake notes? On the other hand, Nelu had real notes (notes we planned on bringing down to use in the Programs) and the banks were awaiting his arrival. Of course, he never made it. So last week, for the first time Nelu heard for himself that Mulyadi not only worked with Scott, but was involved in his incarceration. It goes without saying that Scott got the hell out of Dodge after the arrest, and never lifted a finger to help Mulyadi.

Now we sit and wait the Higher Court's Decision. Nelu's case is in the pipeline and he expects to receive an answer shortly. The matter of Nelu's innocence is not at stake as much as the court's integrity. The Prosecutor, Ms. Tanti, lost her integrity long ago and might be in line to face charges herself. This still yet remains to be determined, depending on how Nelu wants to handle things.

To date the Indonesian court (which is often chastised in the world media) has been more than helpful. They have extended their hands and their wisdom and they have not liked the state of things any more than we have. They are not sure who did what but they know something illegal was done and that it was not Nelu who did it.

Wise and humble people usually put together things in the right manner. Now we sit and tempers have cooled—although, I still get hot thinking about things that should have been, could have been. It hurts to know that Scott not only disrupted our attempts at getting the Humanitarian Projects out there, but destroyed a plan that would have been actively generating capital for various projects throughout the world at this very moment.

He is hiding in Malaysia and Malaysia was in line to get financing for some projects, so I leave him now to Malaysia. He is in their hands. He cost them so much and then goes and uses them to hide. Best he leaves now because I will make sure they see this.

As for Mulyadi I would expect him to serve out his sentence, since no one could actually help him, and finally for Nelu I pray he at last gets to rejoin his loving family. I feel so much for them all and am fighting my very best, along with Jean, Michael, Inchul, Jo, Ben, David, Drake, Frankie, Tichomir, Rich, Stanley, and most importantly all of you. You proved yourselves with the phone calls and I must state right now I am so proud to be involved with you. Thank you so much from the bottom of all our hearts.

I hope this sets the bridge you need between the last post and hopefully Nelu's release. Now you can see nothing has been smooth. It could have gotten out of hand, but I had Jo with me to translate, who could deal with them all so easily. Go get 'em Jo! Thanks for all, and now I must say goodbye until Nelu is released. He should be out soon and remember it took many of us to do things either big or small to hopefully make this release possible, so we are all in it together. Again, thank you for all you do.

NEIL KEENAN UPDATE | Neil Speaks About Chiasso

June 4, 2013

CHIASO:

Everyone wants to know about Chiasso and there is nothing to know. The Italians stole the bonds. Berlusconi and the Italian Financial Police conspired with the West's Alan Greenspan to ambush Yamaguchi and Watanabe at the Chiasso border after telephoning him and telling him they were ready to complete the deal now. The police did not look around for anyone at the border, they looked for Yamaguchi and Wanta.

They were questioned and brought before a Judge who was warned by Mr. Yamaguchi that he, the judge, was making a big mistake. That they better call the Prime Minister or the Chief of the Italian Central Bank before proceeding. When the Judge requested Yama to tell him who he worked for Yama made it clear only the very top could hear this and he was not the top, not near it.

Yama also advised the Judge that should they be arrested the Italian Government would be bankrupt soon after, because they owed their family and could not pay them back. This is why Yama and Wanta were released. The Italian Judiciary and Government were afraid it would come back to bite them but what they did do was steal the bonds which is another story in itself. It is part of my lawsuit which will be refiled.

Well, when we investigated, it did come back to bite them! We read that they had been sentenced to 3 1/2 years imprisonment in abstention. Where was this printed? Berlusconi's family newspaper in Como. When checking this out our lawyers were told by the Library or Clerk in Rome not to return or they would have trouble. We paid no attention, and our lawyers then went to Milan and checked out the files, only to find there were not any. The Clerk said go back to Rome and they have them. Enough chasing!

What eventually happened was we were able through someone we thought was a friend to acquire the telephone number of the head of the Interpol Division in Italy, who worked with the Financial Police. This gentleman worked with our attorney and went through all three data bases, and guess what? No case and no files! It was all a con to steal the notes.

We later learned that they attempted to sell them back to the Chinese with no luck and then finally worked something out with the Federal Reserve. There are so many twists to this, and most of them are real, and 99 percent of them I may never tell you. So, let me get everything straight from above: Yama never told anyone nor does anyone involved with the DF or any secret Family reveal who they are or what they do. They remain silent as Yama does. As Wanta does. As they all do. They never expose themselves and are damned happy that I am fighting for them and always have been.

I have all the support I need to move forward with what I do, but does Dung Anh? Does he really represent the DF so loudly and in such a lofty position for a teenager? If he is not a teenager, he should know better. Understandably General Hanh has retired (96 years old—or 97 now), but it does not change over 3000 years of history and privacy. I suggest Mr. Anh put up all his papers here on Ms. Haines site so we can really see who he is. I have Mr. Yamaguchi's.

Now where are yours Mr. Anh? We know Mr. Yamaguchi's check out clearly, how about yours? Neil Keenan

NEIL KEENAN UPDATE | A Brief History of the Global Collateral Accounts

June 8, 2013

The history behind the Global Collateral Accounts is vast and complex, and reaches back some 250 years. For the purposes of this brief overview, we will focus on two key elements which are now headlining stories around the world: debt, and gold.

The Western banking oligarchy's current global control can be traced back to the Rothschild family's dominance of international banking in the early years of the 19th century. The long-term strategy of the elite banking and royal bloodline families was simple: gain control of the global gold supply in order to maintain power through the control of global currency and its underlying collateral. Gold and Debt – that is the essence of this story.

Where Did the Gold Come from and to Whom Does It Belong?

For two thousand years, the gold of the world flowed east toward China, along the Silk Road, from the Roman Empire, on through to the Byzantine and the Spanish, in exchange for the silks, spices, and treasures of the East. When the bankers of Europe decided to seek control of the world financial system, control of this gold became essential.

Who created the Global Collateral Accounts and why?

Operation Golden Lily is the well-documented story of the Japanese gold-collecting teams, which infiltrated key gold-holding nations well in advance of the military invasions of China and other nations, with the express intent of seizing the hundreds of thousands of metric tons of gold that had accumulated in Asia (primarily in China). The Nazi gold-collecting system is well-known, but the Japanese accumulated a far greater hoard, with the knowledge and cooperation of certain European banking interests.

Where is the gold and how did it get there?

The "official" total for the entire amount of gold said to be above ground since humanity first began mining the precious metal is approximately 160,000 metric tons. Evidence now indicates that a more accurate figure is well in excess of two million metric tons. During World War Two, the Japanese dug tunnels and bunkers throughout Southeast Asia to store the gold – primarily in Indonesia, Thailand, and The Philippines.

After the war, the gold was discovered by the Allies, and was incorporated into a system set up by the European central bankers before the war for this very purpose. The exact total of the wealth in the off-ledger accounts is not known, but is said to be in the thousands of trillions of dollars in gold, platinum, and gems, in addition to an undetermined amount in Federal Reserve notes and other currencies.

How did the nations come to agree that the Accounts were to be used for humanitarian programs?

At the Bretton Woods Conference in 1944, when the soon-to-be-victorious Allies met to create a new global financial system, the International Monetary Fund was created. In the late 1940's, President Sukarno of Indonesia was appointed monetary controller of behalf of the depositors to monitor and implement the Global Accounts for redevelopment purposes.

How did the banking elite abuse the Accounts?

The central banking families had already put in place essential structures to seize and control this wealth: The Bank of International Settlements, the International Monetary Fund, the Council on Foreign Relations, and the United Nations, all of which were funded by elite banking figures, including the Rockefellers and Warburgs. The agreements to use the funds for development were neglected, and the banking elite proceeded to use them for their own ends, blocking the depositors from access.

President Sukarno of Indonesia had been appointed "M1" or Monetary Controller of the Accounts (as much of the assets are stored in hidden bunkers in Indonesia), but he was removed from power after making a deal with John F. Kennedy to use the funds to back new U.S. Treasury dollars, in a direct move against the central bankers' power. Kennedy's assassination prevented this move from succeeding.

The central bankers put in place a system that allows the Federal Reserve to block anyone but banking elite insiders from using the Accounts, thus blocking the actual owners – the depositors – from utilizing the assets for humanitarian programs, as originally intended.

Who is Neil Keenan and what is his relationship to the Global Accounts?

The emergence of Neil Keenan at the cutting edge of these events can be traced to the theft in 2009 by Vatican financial insider Daniele dal Bosco of $144.5 billion in Federal Reserve notes which were entrusted to Mr. Keenan by the Dragon Family, the group of ancient wealthy clans in Asia who are the legitimate owners of vast amounts of gold in the off-ledger Global Accounts.

The Dragon Family has been attempting for decades to utilize the Accounts for their originally intended purpose, and sought out Keenan's help because of his reputation as a well-connected, tough-minded international businessman.

The story of this theft, and of Mr. Keenan's filing of a trillion-dollar lawsuit against elite figures and institutions (including the United Nations, the World Economic Forum, The World Bank, the Italian government, the Italian Financial Police, Silvio Berlusconi, and others) was first revealed by Benjamin Fulford, former Forbes Magazine financial editor for Asia, who traveled to Italy to conduct initial investigations, where an attempt was made on his life.

The story was then taken up by best-selling author David Wilcock, confirming the story in an investigative article on his blog. The 110-page lawsuit, first filed in New York federal court, can be viewed at this link.

In addition to his lawsuit (which he subsequently withdrew in order to re-file in a more effective jurisdiction), Keenan also filed a Cease and Desist order (available upon request) on behalf of the Dragon Family against a Who's Who of the cabal power structure, putting them on notice that they were defrauding the Global Accounts, and would be prosecuted for any further fraud.

This Cease and Desist names George Herbert Walker Bush, George W Bush, Queen Elizabeth II, the United Nations, Ban Ki Moon, David Rockefeller, Hillary Clinton, and a host of other world figures and organizations who are in the inner circle of the cabal. The bonds which were stolen from Mr. Keenan were Federal Reserve notes given to the Dragon Family in payment for the gold deposited in the Accounts – notes which the Federal Reserve continually blocked from utilization. Mr. Keenan's lawsuit represents the first formidable attempt to defeat this theft.

As may be expected, his life is in danger. He has survived four assassination attempts to date, and now has protection in place from numerous allies around the world. Mr. Keenan is currently in Indonesia, finalizing agreements with the Indonesian elders, and Chinese officials holding lineal claim to the majority of the assets in the Accounts. Mr. Keenan is in possession of key documents, such as the original of the Green Hilton Memorial Agreement between Kennedy and Sukarno, and the "Black Book," secret records of the Accounts. Numerous other pieces of evidence can be provided.

In addition to Mr. Keenan's participation, other key players may be brought to the table as part of the interview process, including Indonesians involved in the guardianship of the Assets, powerful Asian financial officials, and others. We propose immediate discussions to explore this possibility.

NEIL KEENAN UPDATE | Nelu's Case: Enough Is Enough!

June 19, 2013

NELU NEEDS A VERY GOOD LAWYER! Nelu has been in jail for almost eleven months, and it was all a set-up!

Neil speaks: Well we have gotten this to the point of no return, or so it seems. We can no longer think that we can get this completed by ourselves. I have been told that I would not be given any documents from Nelu's case file, because I am not an attorney and more importantly not Nelu's attorney. No matter what, they know how close to the end we all are in this, and they are going to do their damndest to keep him a bit longer despite what we do.

I have opened up this case into something so transparent, but it seems like the bad guys have so much more than truth going for them in such matters. I am sorry it comes to such things in cases involving people's lives, but take a look at how many people they have destroyed over the years. What is one more?

I cannot tell you how sick I am knowing I cannot yet finish this up when it is all within reach. What we take for granted in our countries, over here does not exist. Hell, we Americans have the Obama era, and we are in deep doo-doo, but guess what, it is still worse right here, right now. Indonesian people are wonderful, mind you, but their system is antiquated and needs change.

We have a chance to change part of it, or maybe a lot of it – right now, but who knows. I can only say that Martha Wibawa has been a patriot from the beginning of his detention. He does not consider himself a warrior, but does have a fervent love for not only his country but also for his people. Many of his emotions for his people have rubbed off on me, and I can understand why he feels so deeply.

I am not walking away and will find other ways to assist Nelu, but right now I cannot move further without help. Nelu needs a lawyer to get out, and Nelu needs the right lawyer—even with everything in his favor. We need your help here.

Me, I have ideas that if Nelu pays, they all do. The International Courts are waiting with open arms for this case, which I have already discussed with them, but I do not want to head in that direction unless I have to. For now, please understand that I'm never going away, I am only thinking the best way out of this for everyone. It is not easy, but believe me, I will find the way.

I have gone this far, and I will not stray from the course now. It will be done!!!!

Neil Keenan

Now, please read Nelu's plea, in his own words:

First of all, and foremost I want to thank everyone for supporting me through this moment. Please understand that Mr. Neil Keenan has been such a great help in putting me in such a position whereas I might be freed, but I do not think he will be allowed to finish this for me.

I have heard Mr. Keenan will be prevented from receiving any of my documents from the administration office and if this is in fact true then this will prevent me from being freed and I will be forced, I understand, to do another three to four months in here preventing me from getting to work on the collateral accounts with Mr. Keenan. I am pretty sure there will be many coming forward to assist him but I am not sure they will not be anything more than what Mr. Keenan has already dealt with [Keith Scott]. I hope you can see the importance of my plea for help.

They made it clear to Mr. Keenan today that he will not be allowed to receive any documentation in my behalf. It is a plan that Mr. Keenan saw through from the beginning. They also told him I would need not just an attorney but a great Attorney and I do not know how Mr. Keenan can do this seeing he cannot speak our language. He is a miracle worker but our language is not that easy to learn and especially overnight.

I am a Humble person who believes in fate and who feels with his heart and I now have to reach out to everyone to reach back and see if they can help me find this special attorney, I need to help me. I am so sorry that I ask for this and I know Mr. Keenan wanted to finish this all himself but it is not written yet that he is to finish this part of the journey.

Can someone please find me the attorney to assist me in the final steps of my trial. I cannot tell you everything about it seeing Mr. Keenan knows more than me. He has been amazing gathering all the facts but now we are short in time and he is not going to be allowed to assist me in the final stages. I thank you all for your help and I could feel your energy coming to me and it did leave me behind.

I very thank you. Now I need just the attorney does someone somewhere know one that can come to me and help me finish this up. I pray now for one more miracle to happen. Please forward all replies to Mr. Keenan or whoever he designates. Thank you for your support. I have no idea what I did so bad to deserve this when all I wanted was to be a patriot for my lovely country Indonesia.

*Your Humble Servant,
Martha Wibawa (Nelu)*

NEIL KEENAN UPDATE | Assassination Attempt on Keenan's Team in Jakarta, And Smear By Phony Whistle Blower David Crayford is Exposed

July 9, 2013

With his latest unsubstantiated and inaccurate smear campaign against Neil F. Keenan, David Crayford is attempting to drape himself in a mantle to which he has no claim. Apparently undeterred by the embarrassing exposure he suffered in our rebuttal to his last list of lies, Mr. Crayford is actually now daring to call himself "Whistleblower."

Let's be clear about what this term means, about the courage it takes to be an authentic whistleblower, about the consequences that follow, about the risks taken by an genuine truth-teller. And then we'll look at David Crayford.

Daniel Ellsberg was a whistleblower. A military analyst who was privy to appalling information about the conduct of the Viet Nam War, he risked his life and his freedom to publish The Pentagon Papers, which made him the target of CIA plots, and subjected him to ongoing persecution for years afterward. His actions led to a profound shift in the debate on the war – he is rightly regarded as a hero by those who cherish our right to freedom of speech and the press.

David Crayford, on the other hand, is a self-appointed spokesperson for the so-called Office of International Treasury Control (OITC), a fraudulent organization claiming affiliation to the UN, which is currently selling phony diplomatic immunities for $20,000 apiece.

Private Bradley Manning – now on trial for his life for espionage – had access to thousands of diplomatic cables that revealed U.S. duplicity and war-mongering around the world. He chose to risk his life and his freedom to share that massive trove of information with Wikileaks, and has since suffered imprisonment, torture, and solitary confinement. To those who treasure what it once meant to be an American, Bradley Manning is a hero.

David Crayford, on the other hand, does not apparently have access to any hidden truths, as the information he has shared thus far are merely a list of unsubstantiated smears. Mr. Crayford has apparently taken on the not very noble task of propping up the OITC's bogus claim to the Global Collateral Accounts by attacking the reputation of Neil Keenan, whose actions have been open, above-board, and on public record from the beginning.

While we can only guess at what Mr. Crayford's compensation for his work may be, I can tell you that thus far Mr. Keenan's wages have included months of hard work, danger, and tedium on behalf of humanity (including a recent attempt to blow up his team's hotel suite in Jakarta), while spending large sums of his own money to recover the Dragon Family assets stolen by Daniele del Bosco.

Edward Snowden's story is now well-known to us all. He sits in some holding area of the Moscow airport, while the Obama administration decides which international law it will flout next in its ruthless attempts to silence him. If by some terrible mischance he falls into the hands of the U.S. government, he will share the fate of Bradley Manning: solitary confinement, torture, and trial for treason.

Judging by the standards of Ellsberg, Manning, and Snowden, Neil Keenan is a whistleblower in the tradition of these American heroes, and even in the tradition of the patriots of the American Revolution, who pledged "our lives, our fortunes, and our sacred honor" when they signed the Declaration of Independence (and some indeed paid with all they owned, or with the forfeit of life itself).

David Crayford's agenda and motives are best known to himself, but the fact that the OITC's director landed in a Cambodian jail for fraud should incline us to caution regarding his statements.

As to the charges from Crayford:

CHARGE: "Keenan in an article dated 2010 stated that General Keith B. Alexander and Gen. Myers were fully cooperating with him in respect of the Collateral Accounts and his actions (Unlawful and Criminal), and that they (Alexander and Myers) held the power to make decisions."

REALITY: Crayford does not provide a link to the article he cites. Nor does he provide a context for the supposed statement by Mr. Keenan. Nor does he provide a quote of Mr. Keenan's words. Crayford goes on to accuse Neil Keenan of actions "unlawful and criminal" but does not state what those actions were, what laws (of what country) were broken, nor does he provide any evidence to back these accusations.

These are libelous and actionable statements for which he may be called to account in a court of law. Regarding Keenan's alleged relationship with General Keith Alexander and General Myers, in point of fact, Neil Keenan has many contacts in the military and intelligence communities, which have been very useful to him in the process of his work.

As anyone following the story of the lawsuit and the global financial shift should be well aware, there are factions within factions, and webs within webs, plots within plots, and dangerous ground wherever one treads when it comes to these networks.

Since Mr. Crayford has named the wrong general in this case (the General Myers known to Neil Keenan was Jack Myers who has since passed away), and has completely misstated the facts of the meeting in Monaco, it is apparent that his due diligence is, in fact, as usual (if you will) doo-doo diligence.

CHARGE: In an article in late 2011 related to the Monaco Accord organized by Keenan and the Swiss Government, it was clearly stated that Gen Keith B. Alexander and Gen Myers were at that meeting, which, if readers remember, was held in Monaco and moved to a US Warship moored in the Mediterranean Sea following the disruption, which was blamed on Jay Rockefeller, of the meeting in Monaco.

REALITY: Once again, Crayford's "facts" are falsehoods. The meeting was indeed organized with the help of certain Swiss officials, but it was held on a 160-foot yacht, not a U.S. warship. The entire purpose of the Monaco Accords gathering was to free the non-aligned nations (especially the Asian nations) from domination and control by the Western oligarchy – no such gathering could ever have been held on a U.S. warship.

Word of the gathering reached the Rockefellers, the pre-eminent U.S. clan of that oligarchy, who dispatched Senator Jay Rockefeller to essentially "crash" the party as an uninvited guest. He was physically blocked at the gangplank by Neil Keenan. When he demanded "don't you know who I am?" Keenan responded, "Yes, you're exactly the person we don't want on this boat."

After Rockefeller's unceremonious ejection, the yacht was then buzzed by Blackhawk helicopters before French fighter jets gave a warning pass overhead, whereupon the copters retreated. The Monaco Accords proved to be a hugely important event, providing the basis for the subsequent BRICS alliance (The alliance will prove to be a rerun of the European Union, as it lacks access to the Collateral Accounts).

As a sitting U.S. Senator, Jay Rockefeller would not have been denied entry to an American warship, nor would this hugely sensitive and secret gathering of non-aligned finance ministers ever have taken place on such a warship – the finance ministers would simply have refused to board it.

CHARGE: Crayford goes on to state: "We now know who Keenan is working with/for and my comments at the time on this matter have proven to be immensely accurate, which I add Keenan denied at the time..."

REALITY: Having gotten the facts wrong, Crayford here draws erroneous conclusions from his non-facts, and once again cites “comments” which he fails to provide a link to, and fails to substantiate. What comments? What accuracy? We are simply to take Crayford’s statements at face value. Evidence please. Crayford’s entire statement is a succession of inaccuracies and unsubstantiated smears.

As to who Keenan is working with and for, I can testify from first-hand experience that Mr. Keenan is working with a wide array of allies and contacts, and that he works for no one – in fact, he adamantly refuses to work for anyone, and has done so since his last snow-shoveling job as a twelve-year-old back in Rhode Island.

Trust me on this, the guy absolutely refuses to take orders from anyone. He’s in this for his friends, his country (both of them, Ireland and the U.S.) and his family. Once he found the truth about the cabal, that family extended to include the rest of us.

CONCLUSION: Given David Crayford’s failure to provide substantiation for his charges, his pattern of flawed or false reporting, his failure to address the gross inaccuracies noted in our previous article, and his failure to address the fraudulent nature of the OITC, it is only logical to conclude that OITC’s floundering credibility can only reestablish itself by attacking the one man who is actually making progress with the Global Accounts.

Neil Keenan’s team was the target of an assassination attempt

The hotel suite previously occupied by this writer was broken into in the middle of the night, and the gas valve on the main tank unscrewed, so that the entire gas supply was released into the apartment.

Inchul Kim and our colleague Jo were narrowly saved from being either poisoned or blown up by the timely actions of Inchul, who woke in the middle of the night, smelled the overpowering gas aroma, found the sabotage, recognized the danger, and carefully opened the windows to clear out the apartment.

The slightest spark would have been sufficient to blow the rooms sky-high, killing not only Mr. Kim and Jo, but in all probability Mr. Keenan as well. Neil Keenan jokes about it in his recent video update, but that is just because it is Keenan’s nature to make light of danger. But it is no joke to him – the lives of himself and his friends are in danger in Jakarta from many enemies. But that is the risk taken by a real whistleblower. However, Neil Keenan is more than that – he is a fighter.

NEIL KEENAN UPDATE | Neil Keenan Meets With Leaders of Asian Clans In Hong Kong

July 30, 2013

NFK Update: Neil Keenan Meets With Leaders of Asian Clans In Hong Kong pt 1

NEIL KEENAN UPDATE | Neil Keenan Meets with Leaders of Asian Clans in Hong Kong pt 2

In the first and second parts of the update Neil Keenan talks about 88% of USA's assets being owned by the Chinese, the problem of dual citizenships of Israel and USA, Obama being a marionette, protection from the militia and the Pentagon, stopping the practice of having the Democratic and Republican parties controlled by the same people, Neil doing all his efforts by not making any deals with the cabal, the depositors of the Global Collateral Accounts willing to share the gold to make a better world, and European Union being a very fragile entity that must be dissolved as soon as possible.

Richard Lee Armitage, President George Bush, Jr., Colin Powell

Dramatic developments in the evolving story of the Global Collateral Accounts are unfolding this week in the wake of Neil F. Keenan's three-day series of meetings with senior leaders of the ancient ruling clans of China – the rightful owners of hundreds of trillions in notes and assets which have hitherto been frozen or stolen by the Western banking cabal.

In recognition of Keenan's long fight to free the Accounts from the grip of the cabal, high-level leaders of the clans invited Keenan to Hong Kong last week to discuss the status of the Accounts, and to plan immediate forward movement in the shift of control over the notes and assets back to the rightful owners.

Keenan was informed by clan leaders that, given China's ownership of 88% of the United States (thanks to vast U.S. borrowing over the last several decades), the clans are interested in how a shift at the World Bank could give the clans access to and control over their assets for the first time in a hundred years, with the hope of immediate implementation of humanitarian programs utilizing the vast funds in the Global Accounts.

The president of the World Bank has been traditionally chosen by the president of the United States. Barack Obama's choice of Dartmouth University chancellor Jim Yong Kim, a global health expert, was seen as a break from the practice of choosing a cabal-insider banking figure. However, any World Bank president, by definition, operates under the thumb of the corrupt Western financial elite, which has previously hijacked the global financial system twice within the past sixty years.

On his return from Hong Kong, Mr. Keenan stated:

"The clans themselves have not only not received one-dollar; they have not even been able to get into their own accounts. Therefore, a Westerner's choice would not really carry any weight since the families/clans already been scammed on numerous occasions by the West. The clans prefer to access their own funds, and they also would like to work directly with the people through monitored, transparent foundations throughout the world where the funds would be directly controlled by the people and not by the governments."

Keenan was informed that a technology exists to counter the HAARP mass-death weather technology used by the cabal: a weapon that can be precision-targeted to essentially "disappear" cabal leaders wherever they may be located – even to the extent of targeting one person seated at a table of ten. Use of this sci-fi level weapon is necessary to stop the ongoing slaughter and destruction of the planet perpetrated by top-level cabalist leaders. A "List of 500" cabal members is said to have been drawn up for targeting.

In one of the most startling developments related to Neil Keenan by clan leaders, hundreds of "angels" (the term used by the clan) have been in place on the planet for several weeks now to assist in the Shift to freedom. (Whether this term refers to extra-terrestrial or so-called "Galactic" allies, or to 4-5th Dimensional beings, or simply to highly evolved spiritual beings is not clear).

These beings were said to have held back from intervention because there was not sufficient awareness and awakened determination for freedom among the people of Earth. That balance has now shifted in favor of liberation, allowing the angelic forces to step in. In what ways and in which arenas this assistance may play out is not yet known. While Keenan had previously been given to understand from various contacts that Bennie Hua, (known to some as the Empress elected from within the Qing Dynasty) represented China's interest in the Accounts, she does not appear to be involved, according to clan/family sources.

Meanwhile, Keenan's work in Indonesia to obtain the release of his right-hand man, Martha Wibawa (called Nelu), is making significant progress, as a team of lawyers is now in place. An appeal is scheduled to be filed this week in the Supreme Court. A further update to this situation is expected in the coming days.

NEIL KEENAN UPDATE | Game-Changer – Global Account Titans Support Keenan As Point Man: World Bank Detail Unravels Cabal Control

August 6, 2013

Dramatic developments continue to unfold in the wake of Neil Keenan's recent series of meetings in Hong Kong with leaders of the powerful Asian clans who are the legitimate depositors of vast sums (numbering in the thousands of trillions) in hard assets in the Global Collateral Accounts.

Two of the most powerful financial figures in the global scene have now thrown their support behind The Keenan Group, as the pressure intensifies to close down the tottering control structures of the Western banking cabal. Count S. C. Chiang, a senior leader in the clans, first learned of Neil Keenan's efforts through the late Dr. Michael Van der Meer, a legendary intelligence community figure who worked closely with Keenan during the early stages of his fight to free the Accounts from cabal control.

The Count informed Mr. Keenan in Hong Kong last month that he and his associates have been watching Keenan's work closely over many months, and have come to trust his tenacity and integrity. The importance of the Count's support can hardly be overstated, as his influence and resources are among the greatest in Asia. He will now be working closely with The Keenan Group to enforce the depositors' control over the Account assets, which have been stolen and defrauded by the corrupt Western banking elite for nearly one hundred years.

Neil Keenan with Count S. C. Chiang in Hong Kong, July, 2013

Neil Keenan lost no time in strengthening his team in the wake of this crucial support. On his return to Indonesia, a further meeting with Keenan was arranged (through the Count) with the lineal heir of the Sukarno Pakubwono X (CPBX) – the son of the only daughter of Pakubwono X (PBX), BRA. Lestari Purbaningrum a.k.a. DRA. Mariam Budilestari a.k.a. DRA. Maria Agnes Budilestari.

A leading figure in the allied Asian royal families, this influential gentleman (who wishes to remain unnamed at this date) met at length with Neil Keenan in Jakarta, where extensive documentation was provided of his legitimate control of vast sums in the Global Accounts, which he has been illegally blocked from using by the banking and bloodline families behind the Federal Reserve System.

He informed Keenan that he has recently reconciled with his Sister, the daughter of the son of PBX, Mr. Soekarno. Together they control enormous sums in the Accounts and are giving their full support to The Keenan Group's efforts.

This key figure in the ancient allied clans told Mr. Keenan of his vision of The Ten Points – an ambitious plan to utilize the Accounts for the benefit of common people throughout the world, to provide the following essential needs:

1. Clothing
2. Food
3. Housing
4. Education
5. Health Care
6. Public Transportation
7. Public Telecommunication
8. Clean Water
9. Electricity
10. Jobs

Discussions are underway regarding plans for rapid implementation of such programs, once the Accounts have been freed.

It now appears that a number of the tribal elders who have been guarding the ninety-two different bunkers and tunnels in Indonesia where much of the Collateral Accounts have been hidden since after World War Two, have been corrupted by the banking cabal, and have either sold notes and assets, or cooperated closely with cabal agents in looting gold from the Accounts.

The elders once owed allegiance and obedience to President Sukarno in his status as "M1" (or monetary controller), but that allegiance has eroded over time, as the cabal hijacked and defrauded the accounts.

The lineal heir assured Neil Keenan that vast assets remain untouched, in amounts that are difficult for most people to even imagine. The figure provided to Keenan of the total wealth in the Global Collateral Accounts is a staggering $93,000,000,000,000,000, or ninety-three quadrillion dollars. And this is in what may be called real wealth, not phony fiat currency printed from air by the Federal Reserve crime syndicate. Even given the fluctuating price of gold, this is an amount that could transform the world a million times over.

The Federal Reserve cabal has essentially been fraudulently using the Global Accounts as hidden collateral for their doomed fiat currency system – much like borrowing money against equity in a home by providing collateral in the form of a phony deed to a property that is, in fact, owned by someone else.

Now, as their system totters, they are resorting to outright theft and plunder – which is how the Accounts were amassed in the first place. Historical documentation has made it abundantly clear that the corrupt elite banking families of the West plundered this vast trove beginning more than a hundred years ago with the express purpose of amassing, hiding, and defrauding the wealth of our planet, to ensure their long-term domination of the world via debt-slavery.

The nations and families of Asia, to whom most of this treasure rightfully belongs, are now allied with influential partners in key Western countries, and are determined to break through the illicit thwarting by the cabal of their access to the Accounts.

Summing up his meetings with these two remarkable men, Keenan stated: “We have cleaned up the clutter as promised and now we are beginning to get the team together that can win. Not only win, but WIN BIG. What better way to start than to work with two kindred spirits who are like brothers, both desiring the same thing, that being a better world for all to live in?”

People are starting to get mad and they want what is theirs, and I mean what is really theirs. The blocked assets in the World Bank and Mandiri Bank in Indonesia alone are enough to end the NWO's phony financial banking crisis five hundred times over, no, a thousand times over — no, how about ‘unlimited’ times over!”

Meanwhile, the unfolding exposé by World Bank counsel Karen Hudes of the endemic corruption at the global development institution, has evolved into a focal point of growing leverage against the cabal — efforts which appear to have a potential strategic convergence with The Keenan Group's aims. As a twenty-year veteran of the World Bank – and holding a duty to ensure ethical practices and legal compliance — Hudes became increasingly alarmed at evidence of financial corruption at the bank.

Her attempts to alert World Bank leadership were met with persecution and trumped-up charges by the United States Justice Department (since dismissed). Hudes revealed that a number of other whistle-blowers are now prepared to step forward to institute reform at the World Bank, which (she stated) has been hijacked by the elite financial interests in a deliberate (and thus far, successful) plan to defeat the Bank's stated purpose: the alleviation of global poverty.

Jim Yong Kim, President of the World Bank works for the cabal, as does Sri Mulyani Indrawati, the managing director at the World Bank responsible for the institution's operations in all regions. Add to this picture the security firm, Allied Barton, hired by the cabal, who has physically blocked the doors of entry to Karen Hudes, despite the fact that she has been reinstated, and the now blatant corruption at the World Bank becomes obvious.

Intended to function as a world development fund, in fact, the Bank's efforts have resulted in increased poverty and global debt. Under the control of the cabal, the Bank has operated as an above-the-law haven for elite corruption and illegal securities activities — a mirror image of the history of the Global Collateral Accounts.

In the wake of recent conversations, potential cooperation between Karen Hudes and The Keenan Group would appear to be a logical next step — not only in using the leverage provided by the Asian clans' backing to free the blocked assets at the World Bank and the Fed, but in the creation of a new and transparent system for the humanitarian and development projects that will follow in the wake of the liberation of the Global Account assets.

In a further strengthening of The Keenan Group, prominent international lawyer and world court jurist Matthew Greene has been working closely with Keenan for many months following filing Liens and Cease and Desists on behalf of Neil Keenan. Crucial services are also being continually provided by prominent New York attorney William Mulligan, who helped to craft Neil Keenan's now famous trillion-dollar lawsuit against the cabal, and who will be working on the re-filing of the case in the coming weeks.

In a stunning, late-breaking development, Neil Keenan recently learned that the High Court of Jakarta, which has been reviewing the appeal of Martha (Nelu) Wibawa's case, ruled and issued an order for Nelu's immediate release on the 21st of July that was forwarded to the Lower Court to deliver to the prison. Somehow, however, two of the three pages needed were not delivered, and Nelu has not yet been released.

Action is anticipated soon regarding this potential breakthrough in Neil Keenan's long struggle to achieve the release of his trusted friend and associate. The situation is rapidly evolving, as additional allies come forward, and crucial documentation is provided.

A number of options are under consideration to move into the final phase of shutting down the long, sad story of the cabal's hidden domination of our planet's resources, with the goal of rapidly implementing global debt-relief, emergency aid, free-energy utilization, infrastructure improvements, environmental cleansing, and other desperately needed humanitarian programs. The changes will not come overnight. Neil Keenan has always been consistent in his refusal to promise instant "rose garden" transformation. But great and positive change is coming soon.

One final note to emphasize: the accumulated wealth mentioned here is comprised of hard assets — not phony Illuminati debt-slave notes — but the real wealth of planet Earth, which the guardians are determined shall finally benefit the entire family of humanity.

Neil Keenan Update: Slugging It Out... And Winning

Video interview with Neil Keenan in Jakarta, August 25, 2013, produced by Johannes "Jo" Hutabarat

NEIL KEENAN UPDATE | Slugging It Out... And Winning pt 2

In this video update, Neil Keenan talks about taking back your land and everything else that rightly belongs to you! Featuring at the Mama and Pappas' version of Woodie Guthrie's "This Land was Made for You and Me."

It's not as if the cabal has been ignoring Neil Francis Keenan all this while. Four (or is it five?) attempts on his life (and at least one on his team), bribe offers that rose from the millions to the billions to the trillions, the death of his best friend, plus constant surveillance by just about every major intelligence agency in the world (most on his side, some definitely not).

In the wake of Keenan's breakthrough partnership with leading figures in the Asian clans who are the legitimate depositors of the vast majority of the assets in the Global Collateral Accounts, the corrupt Western banking elite (Rothschilds, Rockefellers, Bushes, Warburgs, Windsors, et al) apparently managed to spare enough time from attempting to cut each other's throats last week to focus on making life a little more difficult for The Keenan Group.

Martha Wibawa's release from prison was delayed once again when the Jakarta Supreme Court apparently illegally back-dated a document to prevent his automatic freedom. Keenan has a globally prominent attorney preparing an international lawsuit to expose this corruption – though there is a chance the court may yet take appropriate action, and avoid the global spotlight.

The cabal-owned Western Union wire transfers were mysteriously blocked. Allies arriving in Jakarta were detained for days at airports. And the easy-to-spot surveillance guys have become so ubiquitous that Neil is now tempted to buy them donuts out of pity. He winks at them. And they roll their eyes in exasperation.

Keenan brazenly flirtatious smile with which he delivers the donuts that does the trick...it seems to work pretty well with hotel clerks and bored immigration officials. Okay, I'm blowing the whistle on Neil Keenan: he turns down bribe offers in the billions...but he's not above offering pastries to bank tellers).

While dealing with the blocked funds and detained allies, anticipated and provided for in advance, Keenan is deepening his partnership with his new allies and preparing actions to take down the Fed. The Feds have recently come up with a startling idea – a new financial system!

The main feature of their version of a global reset involves wiping out the Fed's own debts to the nations whose wealth they have been defrauding for the last hundred years or so. The accompanying two videos for Keenan's emphatically expressed doubts on the likelihood of this occurring along with an inspirational Woodie Guthrie classic in the second video.

Forgive the quips here, folks – we are well aware of how deadly serious all this is. But Keenan keeps things light for his team by nearly non-stop puckish, wacko humor – which is much in evidence on the two accompanying videos. But so is the tough and fearless essence of the man.

Listen to him urge the American people to take our country back (legally and peacefully, please note). He reminds us all that we are not alone in this fight. We have allies in the Pentagon, in the agencies, in the militia movement, among our brave men and women serving in the armed forces, in the non-aligned nations, in the Asian powers who own the assets, in courageous whistle-blowers like Karen Hudes – and even, some say, in off-planet friends who are helping in largely unseen ways.

I haven't edited these videos one bit, folks (well, OK, I took out Neil's Sinatra imitation at the beginning). This is classic hard-hitting, unexpurgated NFK. He went twenty-nine and oh as a Golden Glove boxer – and still knows how to dodge one blow to deliver a flurry of counter-punches.

One last note: I really don't know whether it's leprechauns, Indonesian devas, or angelic E.T's...but the man seems to know things before they happen – even to the extent of answering questions I was about to ask, before I asked them. It's a bit spooky, really.

Not that I'm trying to unnerve the bad boys in Texas who are reading this (or in London, or D.C., or Jakarta, or New York, or wherever), but I suspect Neil has peeked down the timeline of the Galactic Mirror, and seen visions of NWO baddies doing permanent time – while the planet heals and humanity tastes freedom for the first time in a few thousand years.

NEIL KEENAN UPDATE | Neil Keenan Responds to A Reader, Wolf . . .

August 26, 2013

Wolf says:

Sorry Jean, I wish I wasn't the one to put a damper on this but I have to be perfectly honest and ask what exactly are we celebrating about?

Neil explains allies were detained at airports for days, Supreme Court backdates document in an attempt to illegally keep Martha Wibawa in prison, Federal Reserve wants to reset the system and cancel debts, so apart from all this what information am I missing here that tells me we are to celebrate?

Did something positive and concrete happened that shows we are defeating the cabal? Can someone explain to me why we are meant to be jubilant? I just don't see it here.

Neil says:

I wholeheartedly agree with you Wolf. I wanted to get it out that they are not rolling over and playing dead. They are fighting back. They are illegally doing whatever they can to prevent us from moving on. In the meantime, they are planning to destroy the US as we know it and by moving towards Syria. They are tossing us a diversion so they can enslave the US population.

It is time our people stepped up and realized this is real. This is going to hurt everyone very soon if they do not act. Meanwhile they cannot afford to let this happen here in Indonesia. This is why Hagel is here. He is here for no other reason than to steal the Global Accounts thereby alleviating the Federal Reserve Debt. It is a mission to hurt and plunder this nation (Indonesia). How can one trust a snake when a snake is exactly what it claims to be—A SNAKE!

How many times must we believe them when in fact they are the deceivers and lie to us with a smile on their faces? How many pats on the back does one need before realizing the knife is digging deeper in each time, we get one?

It is time for people to come together, to understand that now is the time we either shit or get off the pot. It is the time when the Elite Corporation that has stolen from us all for so long has decided this is it; we are too close and getting closer. It is time for us to keep our eyes on the elite. We do not let them escape us and watch them the way the Corporations want us watched and kept in check.

We must keep our eyes open and watch their actions. Do not let them escape to their underground bunkers, and let's make them face the MERS VIRUS that they are planning to release upon our people. Force them to suffer as we suffer, or better still, let's take the bunkers for our people and leave them on top to face their own actions. So much Wolf, but no, I do not think this post is a victory! What I really wanted to do was wake people up.

They have decided to fight back and are now doing it. Nothing more. On the other hand, we are light years ahead of their thoughts, but now that we know they want to KILL us all, we must understand their simple thoughts play out with violence – and this violence is called the END Game. We must prevail for everyone to survive. I have said plenty and can go on for hours, but this is it Wolf! Get ready for the Day that is coming soon, and thanks for your proper response.

Wolf my feeling is that we should stick it up their backsides and that everyone should place a flag on their homes letting the bastards know we are Patriots. And we do not want any make-believe Americans running our countries and if not America, then wherever we may be.

The battleground this time is America and Americans must stand and fight. If we place so many flags that it transforms the country with Millions of Flags it should be enough to show our Pentagon that we need them and we need them now. Keep screaming and letting them know we are ready to fight for our land and not ready to give it up to Zionist, Nazis, or Khazars.

We must get rid of them and get rid of them fast. We must impeach all the bastards responsible for this. We must imprison those who cannot be impeached, and we must deal with them correctly. So once again keep your eyes open and do not let them walk down the street without eyes on them. They are the Devil incarnate and are worthless to anyone but such a Devil. Get rid of them all then we can live life the way it was meant to be lived. - Neil Keenan

NEIL KEENAN UPDATE | Keenan Group Closes in On the Cabal

September 1st, 2013

NFK update: Keenan Group Closes in On the Cabal

In this video update Neil Keenan talks about a new judiciary system that will have worldwide jurisdiction due to the support of 173 countries. With that in mind, the judicial complaint against the misbehaved judges and administrative staff of Indonesian courts (in Nelu's case) may be brought there.

From the outset of Neil Keenan's trillion-dollar lawsuit against the corrupt Western banking elite and bloodline families, the scoffers asked, "Who could ever enforce a judgment? And what duly authorized international policing entity could provide the global muscle needed to actually shut down this all-pervasive web of influence, which is woven into every power structure, be it financial, political, military, educational, agricultural, or pharmaceutical? And where will the funds come from to back this massive effort?"

Welcome to the end game.

Those spearheading this fight have known for decades that only a slow and careful undermining of the cabal's foundations would ultimately remove this global cancer, that violent revolutions are a tragic mistake – that such bloody convulsions have been, in fact, the elite's favorite tool of control for centuries, creating the chaos that has allowed them to seize ever tighter control of humanity in the name of "order."

It would appear that the Keenan Group's meticulous undermining of the corrupt oligarchy – the penetration of their operations, the blocking of their accounts, the careful crafting of alliances – and most importantly, the restoration of the stolen wealth of the nations to a globally sanctioned guardianship – are strategically evolving.

It all comes back to the Global Collateral Accounts. The elite's fraudulent mirroring of the Global Collateral Accounts might be compared to the Ring of Power in Middle Earth. When it was destroyed, the founding malice of the Dark Tower simply disintegrated, and the seemingly impregnable fortress slid to the earth, a pile of rubble.

When the Keenan Group's final moves to control the assets are made, we can expect the fraudulent foundation of the fiat currency empire to vanish with startling speed. The allied ancient clans of Asia have joined forces with Mr. Keenan in the wake of his recent meetings with the influential Count Albert Chiang in Hong Kong, and The Keenan Group's plans for securing and controlling the assets are well underway.

Mr. Keenan is deliberately vague on this point in the video message taped yesterday. He will leave it to the cabalists to wonder which faction has turned against them, which intelligence operatives are actually moles, which elements of Interpol, or MI6, or CIA, or the NSA, or the Russian FSB, or NATO, or the Pentagon are actually freedom fighters, which well-bribed judge has had a crisis of conscience, which Mossad tough guy finally had his fill of Zionist slaughter in the name of Bilderberg profit...or which puppet head-of-state may be waiting for the moment to take a chance on the victory of humanity.

To these courageous ones may be added the thousands of timid and terrified cabalist mid-level operatives who will turn state's evidence with a vengeance...once they see a prominent global elitist hobbling through a "perp walk" in ankle bracelets. They may already be collecting evidence to offer in exchange for their lives or their freedom, as they see their escape routes disappear.

The so-called international courts of justice now in existence are (as may be expected) globalist frauds. The International Court of Justice, The International Criminal Court, The European Union Human Rights Court, the Inter-American Court of Central and South America, the African Union Court all share the same fundamental legal flaws. Unlike an authentic court, they are not "courts of record" – in other words, the cases are not published, their database is not searchable, and the cases refused a hearing are not revealed.

These courts were all established by treaties, which require the consent of the accused party – in other words, a nation which may have committed human rights violations may simply refuse to participate in the treaty, thereby removing itself from the court's jurisdiction.

Like so many cabal-designed institutions, these courts exist to thwart and prevent the very purpose which they were supposedly founded to accomplish. The World Bank was created to eliminate poverty – it has dedicated itself to expanding impoverishment amid crushing global debt.

The United Nations was supposedly created to protect the sovereignty of all nations through global peacekeeping – little need be said on that score. And the international courts exist largely to create officially sanctioned sink-holes where human rights abuse cases go to die.

We are the world. And you are not.

We're not there yet. And the end game will have rough spots. There is much that cannot now be told. Keenan has aces up his sleeve. And always a song on his lips. This one's straight and edgy and tells it like it is. The Best Anti-Illuminati/NWO Song of 2012 – "Broken Monitors." Pass it along to wake up a friend.

NEIL KEENAN UPDATE | Additional Asian Asset Holders Reach Out to Keenan Group as Momentum Builds to Topple Banking Cabal

September 4, 2013

The pace of events accelerated this week as The Keenan Group's campaign to clean up the Global Collateral Accounts reaches a critical phase. In the wake of support from the emerging global security force, backed by a new (and legitimate) global human rights court, potential new allies have appeared on the scene, as powerful Asian asset-holders made contact with Mr. Keenan in recent days to request his assistance in regaining control of the Accounts.

Keenan had already established a partnership with powerful Asian clans through his meetings with the influential S.C. Chiang in Hong Kong, who then opened channels for Mr. Keenan to Indonesian royal asset-holders. Now, additional Depositor Families are making contact.

Representatives from one of these groups informed Keenan that “more than a billion” people have been following his efforts. He has received an invitation to travel to China to meet with a number of representatives to coordinate action on the Accounts. Mr. Keenan informed this writer earlier today that he plans to keep his focus on Indonesia for the present, while opening conversations with additional asset holders throughout Asia.

Throughout these encouraging developments, Neil Keenan has not forgotten his friend and partner Martha “Nelu” Wibawa, who remains in a Jakarta prison cell. Months of delays and blatant illegalities have been used to keep Mr. Wibawa in jail, creating a damning case, in Keenan's view, of human rights violations that will require the attention of the new global court.

Keenan paid a personal visit to the lower court yesterday to determine the status of critical paperwork that has been mysteriously prevented from reaching the Higher Court. The scene that played out called to mind Neil Keenan's famous “April Eruption” in the courtroom following Prosecutor Tanti's mysterious objection. On learning that Nelu's file had sat untouched for many months while the Supreme Court waited for it, Keenan's fine Irish rage reached the stage that those of us who've seen it regard as just short of volcanic...somewhere between Vesuvius and Mt. St. Helens.

Let's just say that the force of Keenan's personality, combined with news of the emerging power of the new global human rights court, may suffice to kick loose a few stubborn obstacles that have been placed in the way of Nelu's freedom. A follow-up visit today by Keenan's associate, Inchul Kim, brought confirmation that the important papers are now on their way. In any case, it has been made very clear to the Jakarta officials that "the whole world is watching." We will be keeping close watch on further developments.

Neil intends to maintain his focus in Indonesia for the present, where he now has many good friends, because Indonesia's history is at the center of the Global Accounts story. As powerful new partners come to the table, he plans to expand the Keenan Group's work to encompass the full picture of the legitimate Asian Depositors, presenting a united front in the battle to win back control of the planet's wealth from the corrupt Western oligarchy.

NFK Update: Keenan Goes into The Lion's Den Meets With Cabal
Chieftain and Sounds The Charge pt 2

Neil F. Keenan is done rattling the saber – he's pulling the sword from the scabbard and preparing to use it. He has caught the banker-bloodline corrupt cabal red-handed in one last desperate attempt to hijack the wealth of the nations and to reassert their murderous dominance over our planet. As powerful new allies have flocked to Keenan's banner in recent weeks, Keenan has pulled the veil from the cabal's most cunning deceptions.

We have been told they are nearly defeated – they are not. We have been led to believe the Accounts are almost back in the hands of the rightful depositors – while the cabal mounts a massive theft of the assets. Our bloggers and freedom fighters have told us we are almost there – while the plans for genocide proceed unstopped.

In a series of extraordinary meetings this week, Neil Keenan confronted one of the dark sect's top chieftains in a face-to-face showdown in the heart of the cabal's lair. A series of talks with European leaders followed as the battle to defeat the enemies of humanity moves into what looks to be its climactic phase. Keenan is done with words – he reveals in an extraordinary video the ultimate "Financial Doomsday" weapons in his possession – and warns that the time has finally come to use them.

Keenan warns the world that we cannot take our liberty – or even our survival – for granted in the face of this final move by the cabal. This dark Luciferian sect did not exert pervasive dominance over our planet for these past centuries by giving up easily, or by honoring a single agreement they ever made. They are masters of cunning deception – layer upon layer, web upon web – and history is littered with the corpses of those who thought they had them defeated, only to feel the knife in their backs even as they toasted their own illusive victory.

Those who believed the cabal-infiltrated Freemasons would never rise again in America after their dark nature had been revealed in the 1830's – after thousands of appalled Americans had resigned from the Masonic movement when its twisted designs were revealed by a member who paid with his life – they were astonished to find that the movement quietly reappeared in greater numbers in the years following the Civil War, as the Rothschilds' remorseless plans for the destruction of American freedom moved into overdrive.

"I would sooner have believed that slavery itself would revive in America than we would ever see the Freemasons return to power," said one dismayed enemy of the cabal. Like a horror movie demon, the ghouls of the Illuminati wait until their victims are complacently secure in their conviction that the evil is destroyed before springing upon their sleeping prey.

Overly dramatic? No. Merely the verdict of history. And Neil Keenan and his allies are determined to make sure it doesn't happen one more time. It is now or never. And the weapons he has long held back he is now ready to use.

The Black Book in Keenan's possession documents every fraudulent transaction, every theft, every account movement, every withdrawal made by the hardened criminals at the uppermost tiers of the oligarchy, going back decades. Every time one of them opens "the black screens" it is like a fingerprint, and the money is traced.

Their names, their crimes can be revealed to all. These are Financial Doomsday weapons, and their exposure will have unpredictable consequences – but faced with the imminent return-from-the-dead of the cabal's plans to murder billions of human beings,

Keenan is now revealing them to the world. The documents are already in the hands of journalists, of lawyers, in multiple secure locations throughout the world, ready to be released.

Meanwhile, Keenan reveals information regarding the ongoing theft of Global Account gold from Indonesia by the Cabal. The Elders have guarded the assets for decades without being compensated according to agreement. That has left them vulnerable to bribery – or to coercion where bribery fails. For years it was American General Rosier stealing massive amounts of gold, and today the name of Lt. General Loren M. Reno has surfaced as the new thief.

Bush administration Deputy Secretary of State Richard L. Armitage.

Now Bush family henchman Richard Armitage is working with General Loren to continue the cabal's proud tradition of shameless plundering. Planeloads full of gold are leaving Indonesia for Hong Kong, where it is melted down, whereupon new bars are created with phony stamps, ready for shipping out to the West.

Keenan dared to venture into the heart of the cabal's lair to meet with a notorious cabal bloodline chieftain (his nobler titles are a sham – a crime syndicate boss should be called by his right name). All very civilized, of course. Cordial conversations over dinner as Keenan revealed his knowledge of their last cunning devices and called them out on their genocidal operations.

Keenan is still Keenan. He called them out on Monsanto. He called them out on chemtrails. He called them out on genocide. And he warned them that it must all stop now. In the extraordinary video accompanying this article, Keenan reveals that the families at the top of the banking system are looking for a way out. They know they are vulnerable. They have believed that they can survive because they control the world banking system – and who can operate without them?

This has been their trump card – while they have calmly proceeded with their plans to mercilessly slaughter billions of human beings. Now they say they too want to see the Cabal come to an end.

Sir Evelyn Robert Adrian de Rothschild

"I'm going into the lion's den, but I'm bringing some catnip with me."

Of course, they are the Cabal. But there are factions within factions, and the leading families are at each other's throats. The American cabal families are still going full tilt for global war, and word has it that the European banking families are in danger of their lives from the Bushes and Rockefellers.

One thing is certain – the ten leading financiers with Evelyn de Rothschild, the "chieftain," at the table who sat down with Neil Keenan in a certain banking capital last week would have us believe that they do not think of themselves as the cabal...and that they know the cabal is finished. The Vatican is evil and cannot be trusted.

Who says so? Why, the cabal, of course – they're reportedly very upset with how they've been misled by Rome. Those nasty Vatican boys lied to our dear honest bankers? How appalling! Honor among thieves...you reap what you sow, gentlemen. You might try looking that up in the good book – along with "thou shalt not kill" and "thou shalt not steal." Keenan emerged from his confrontation to warn us all: we must take back the keys to the kingdom – don't let the Vatican retake control, or we're in for a hundred years of hell.

Neither side can be trusted. We must see actions. The Accounts must be freed. The chemtrails must end. Monsanto and HAARP must be dismantled. And the truth of who they are and what they've done must be told to the world. Their day is done. The world is awake. And they will be brought to justice. They have believed that we are the sheep and they are the wolves. We are reclaiming our freedom.

Only our silence, only our complacency allows them to win. Only our raised voices, only our united determination ensures our freedom. Wake up now! I will close with a direct quote from Neil Keenan:

"Let those who hold secrets release them so they may be heard. Let everyone stand and let it be known they are not sitting down any longer, that they value the liberty and safety of their families because this is what is at stake. We must let it be known to the Cabal that we know what they are up to and that we have our little birdies singing to us" now telling us it is time for them to say goodbye....All the Elite take a hike.....Hit the road Jack and don't you come back no more!"

Here are a couple of photos of the Blue Book, which establishes the bloodline lineages of these cabal families, how they evolved, and where they are today. This is who we're fighting: the people from the Blue Book who illegally control the assets of the off-ledger accounts. They are the elitists who control all the industry of the Western world, to whom all the dots connect. These are the people who received OUR bailouts, OUR money!

NEIL KEENAN UPDATE | NFK Sets the Record Straight as Karen Hudes "Mis-Speaks" and Ben Fulford Mis-Steps

September 18, 2013

Yesterday's post on this site, which Neil Keenan personally exposed the cabal's vulnerability by displaying explosive incriminating documents, shook the Banksters' cage in a way they have probably not experienced since the fall of Atlantis.

Today Keenan's sources report furious in-fighting among the corrupt oligarchs as the free world closes in on our soon-to-be-former oppressors. But this bold move has also provoked "friendly fire" from within the ranks of the freedom movement as competing scenarios jockey for position over control of the vast assets in the Global Collateral Accounts. This is expected.

What is not expected is that an important figure like Benjamin Fulford would deliberately misrepresent the nature and documented history of the Monaco Accords of 2011 in an apparent attempt to persuade World Bank whistle-blower Karen Hudes to support what can only be called a hare-brained (and likely illegal) move to cash in a trillion dollars in Federal Reserve notes (to which he has no legal claim), in order to set up an environmental restoration fund to be controlled by – yes, he really said it – the Vatican, and prominent Agenda 21 proponent Jeffrey Sachs.

Karen Hudes, a twenty-year veteran legal counsel in the cabal-controlled World Bank (who has courageously come forward to expose the World Bank's corruption), is having nothing to do with Fulford's highly suspect plan, dismissing the proposal as "not in the cards."

But Hudes then commits a serious misstep herself – one of several in regard to Neil Keenan and his allies – and displays disturbing ignorance regarding the nature and purpose of the Monaco meeting in the fall of 2011 (and Mr. Keenan's crucial role in it), which resulted in an accord among the non-aligned nations – now 178 countries – to regain control of the Global Collateral Accounts.

Competing scenarios are one thing. Moves to hand the Global Accounts back to the cabal in the guise of the Vatican — and to put a key globalist in charge of environmental restoration — are another. And the misstatements by Ms. Hudes cannot be allowed to go uncorrected either.

In a blog exchange, Fulford addressed the following request to Karen Hudes:

"I would really like to hear her take on Neil Keenan and his activities. He claims to have been at a Monaco meeting a few years ago with many finance ministers and that he runs some kind of BRICS alliance. Somebody linked to the Rockefeller family also told me that such a meeting took place. Can she confirm this or was this some elaborate fiction designed to muddy the waters?"

This was a foolish move by Benjamin. He knows full well the truth of the Monaco Accords. He knows full well that Neil was there. Keenan's lawyer can testify to Keenan's presence. And Benjamin Fulford ought to know that Keenan's trillion-dollar lawsuit against the cabal was the triggering event that led to the global gathering. The Rockefellers certainly know the meeting took place, as their attempt to crash the gathering was firmly rebuffed. Cabal black helicopters buzzed the yacht as it moved out into the Mediterranean, but the oligarchs were not allowed at the table.

After pretending to question things, he knows to be true, Fulford then goes on to make his stunning proposal:

"Also ask her if she is willing to support my group's plan to cash about $1 trillion worth of historical bonds in order to finance a massive development and environmental protection campaign. My personal candidate for running this campaign would be Jeffrey Sachs."

Jeffrey Sachs is a distinguished economist, who is closely identified with the globalist agenda – special adviser to UN Secretary General Ban Ki-Moon on the "Millennium Development Goals." Is Benjamin serious? Fulford also advocates bringing the Vatican into the picture to manage the Global Accounts.

And we can be forgiven for wondering why Fulford would want to direct funding and attention to environmental restoration, which, while crucial, can only come after we free ourselves of cabal domination, free the Global Collateral Accounts, and restore the U.S. to its founding documents.

This begs the question as to why Fulford would misstep so badly. It is clear enough to Neil Keenan. Fulford went fishing for support from Hudes for his illegal and strange scheme to cash notes to which he has no claim, and was willing to throw doubt on Keenan if it could gain him the ear of Ms. Hudes.

Ms. Hudes was apparently Fulford's last resort, as he had failed in his approaches to various others parties. Mr. Keenan informed this writer that Fulford approached him first, attempting to persuade Neil to sign off on cashing this rumored $1 trillion in Federal Reserve Notes.

With characteristic bluntness, Keenan replied:

"Yeah, I'll send you money, Benjamin. Commissary money to buy cigarettes in prison if you try to pull off that scheme."

As to Fulford's pretended ignorance regarding Neil Keenan and the Monaco meeting, all one has to do is look at Ben Fulford's statement (above) and realize that Benjamin himself states that he had made contact with a Rockefeller member who confirmed such a meeting took place. Therefore, why would he call Karen after having received confirmation from a Rockefeller family member? Could it be that he was really looking to get that box cashed?

Fulford claimed to have the support of the U.S., Russia, China, the Vatican, and Queen Elizabeth II...but, he needed Keenan's signature to complete the deal.

Flattery will get you nowhere, Ben. Neil knows full well that only the Depositors – the actual historic owners of the assets – can legally sign off on moving any notes or assets, and only in the person of a legally elected (elected by the nations, not appointed by the cabal) Monetary Controller, or M1.

Keenan turned Fulford down flat, whereupon Benjamin went to various Global Account wannabes, such as the fraudulent OITC, the now-disbanded sham of the OPPT, and finally Ms. Hudes. And if he needed to publicly cast aspersions on Keenan – feigning doubt about the Monaco meeting, and floating the idea that it all might be “an elaborate fiction designed to muddy the waters” – then that's what he'd attempt to do.

It is perhaps time to reveal some important facts regarding Fulford's sources. This writer has sat at Neil Keenan's side in his hotel suite in Jakarta for several of Mr. Fulford's Sunday evening Skype calls. I was introduced to Ben, and have always thought highly of him – even when a good half of his “intel” appeared to be wildly erratic – because he has displayed a gutsy determination to expose the cabal and help free the planet, even at grave personal risk.

Mr. Fulford makes his living from his newsletter subscriptions – and there's nothing wrong with that. And his newsletter comes out on Monday. So come Sunday evening, he would often find himself in need of an eye-catching story to keep his subscribers and hopefully procure an increase.

And so, he would call Neil Keenan. And Mr. Keenan would give him news on inside developments. Sometimes. And sometimes not. Mr. Fulford displayed a troubling tendency to turn on his own sources, as when he outed the identity of a key intelligence contact from Keenan who had been instrumental in saving Fulford's life after a death threat.

Playing off one source against another for personal advantage is a risky move in this perilous game.

I do not doubt that Benjamin Fulford has hundreds of other sources. He is a longtime professional journalist with deep contacts throughout Asia, and he has made important contributions to the exposure of the cabal. How much solid intelligence those sources are able to give him about the unfolding story of the Global Accounts is an open question.

I can tell you I observed a direct relationship between the intel Neil Keenan would occasionally share with Benjamin, and the stories that would appear on his blog the next day. It's a really bad idea to bite the hand that feeds you, Ben. Unless you've decided the loss, is worth the prize? And, just exactly what is that prize? What's in this for Ben? Cashing in Federal Reserve notes to which he has no claim?

As for this outrageous notion of bringing in the Vatican, it is worth noting, perhaps, that it was Mr. Fulford who first suggested to Neil Keenan the idea of making Vatican financial insider Daniele del Bosco the designated custodian of $134.5 billion in FRNs entrusted to Keenan by the Dragon Family.

We all know what happened to those notes. Del Bosco absconded with them. I expect Mr. Keenan will remember this fact when taking in the news of Fulford's advocacy of making the corruption-riddled Vatican the guardian of humanity's stolen heritage. "Fool me once..." I believe the saying goes.

As for Ms. Hudes, there is an urgent need to clarify her misstatements in regard to the Monaco meeting and the subsequent Accords.

Ms. Hudes was not there, as Western G7 powers were deliberately kept out – the World Bank, as a notorious cabal institution, was definitely not on the invitation list. China is the primary depositor of the assets in the Accounts, and the entire non-aligned world has seen the European-American-controlled cabal hijack the assets twice in the last sixty years. The Monaco Accord meeting triggered the momentum towards the current showdown with the cabal.

In response to Fulford's proposal, Karen Hudes gave the following reply:

The Vatican/Chinese Bankster coalition you are pushing is not in the cards. Instead, what is happening is that the US through a grassroots movement assisted by local sheriffs, US marshals, in collaboration with the white hats in the Pentagon and the rest of the US' allies are calling for the rule of law. It is this framework that will be calling the shots. There was a 95% likelihood that this would happen ever since the World Bank whistleblowers got through to the UK Parliament.

The role Hudes credits to the "World Bank whistle-blowers" as the key movers in making this happen is questionable – Neil Keenan certainly had something to do with it – but we'll let that go, other than to observe that Ms. Hudes is a Joanie-come-lately to the freedom movement, and has apparently decided to attempt to co-opt it and shepherd it back to the cabal's corrupt and discredited global domination structures, such as the World Bank and the IMF.

Hudes goes on to say:

The Monaco meeting was a bogus attempt to ignore the succession laws governing Marcos' signature authority and rests upon a legal opinion from the US Treasury that is not worth the paper it's written on. This opinion, together with Treasury's audit of Germany's gold, will go the way of the fiat currencies. Mr. Fulford's attempt to move from the OITC to the Vatican is a leap from the frying pan to the fire.

The long-dead Ferdinand Marcos had nothing to do with the Monaco meeting, and the Monaco meeting had nothing to do with "an opinion from the U.S. Treasury" – especially considering that the UST assisted in defrauding the nations present at the meeting for nearly a hundred years. If Ms. Hudes is willing to present this "legal opinion" from UST and explain what it had to do with the Monaco gathering's determination to throw off Fed and UST control, that would be helpful.

As to what the Treasury's audit of Germany's gold has to do with any of this, we are left in the dark. Ferdinand Marcos was never "M1" or "monetary controller" – he was appointed but never elected. It was the fraudulent appointment of Marcos by the cabal that violated the succession laws. Only President Soekarno of Indonesia held that role, as he was chosen by the nations of the world after World War II. The succession laws were not ignored at Monaco. No successor was chosen – the gathering did not pretend to have the power to do that.

The nations of the world chose Soekarno – and since his passing the principal Asian depositors have assigned the role of M1 to a likely successor, whose identity remains undisclosed. The official and legal election of a future "M1" – and even perhaps the nature of that role – is yet to be determined. The first priority is to unite behind the move to free the Accounts and defeat the cabal. The nations can then peacefully sort out how to move the Accounts into action to heal the world.

Ms. Hudes goes on to say:

"I am bringing the rule of law to bear so that the members of the Bretton Woods institutions can get down to brass tacks and consider all proposals transparently, including the $1 trillion in historical bonds that Mr. Fulford is referring to. Jeffrey Sachs, or any other individual, or committee, or smoke screen, only diverts, delays, and brings the world closer to permanent backwardation in gold. If Mr. Fulford wants to continue this dialogue, I invite him to email me directly."

Well, it might be more accurate to say that the nations of the world are bringing the rule of law to bear. Ms. Hudes' contributions have been courageous and crucial, but we have not exactly placed our fate in her hands. As a lawyer, Ms. Hudes should know that the statement "I am bringing the rule of law" is a contradiction of the nature of law itself, which is by definition a communal, not a dictatorial reality.

And placing the Accounts into the hands of "the Bretton Woods institutions" – i.e., the cabal-created and cabal-controlled World Bank, the BIS, the IMF, and the UN – is not a plan the world will be eager to embrace. An independent world court endorsed, recognized, and given jurisdiction by the 178 nations behind the Monaco Accords is more likely to serve the cause of freedom and peaceful resolution.

It would also be wise for Ms. Hudes to reconsider how to handle communication with highly-placed contacts provided by Mr. Keenan. An attempt to go around Keenan to a highly influential spokesman for the allied Asian families with historical claims to the majority of assets in the Global Accounts backfired badly for Ms. Hudes. The gentleman in question immediately informed Mr. Keenan, and Ms. Hudes has now burned that bridge.

These clumsy end-around moves generate distrust, as do the bullying tactics she employed in a conversation with Keenan's trusted associate, Jean Haines, who had to endure a one-sided scream-down from Ms. Hudes, until Mr. Keenan intervened. It is difficult to credit Ms. Hudes' recent claims to represent the 178-nation consortium, as global support of that kind cannot be won by such clumsy means. Ms. Hudes represents only Ms. Hudes, and as she no longer works at the World Bank, she has a constituency of one.

She now claims in a recent interview with Fulford that she no longer works with Keenan. The truth is that Neil Keenan cut off all contact with Ms. Hudes – as did the influential S.C. Chaing and Keenan's network of other allies due to her attempt to do a dishonest end-run around Keenan and his team.

There is a crucial need for clear and respectful communication in this pivotal moment. We've been doing our best to clear the clutter, but apparently there is still some out there. And we need not squabble over the wealth of the planet. The astonishing truth is that there is abundance beyond imagining. We simply need to unite as one human family, disarm the oppressors, and heal our world.
